The registration statements should be carefully preserved by the Principal. The names of these candidates should be entered in a statement showing their ages and their addresses, and also showing where each candidate is to be examined, whether at the College or at the office of the Examiner of Accounts. Educational Notice.

WITH reference to Government Notification No. 4305, dated 23rd November 1909 in which detailed information was published as to the text-books required in accordance with the new syllabuses for Standards III to IV, writers of arithmetic books are requested to be good enough to provide a table in the beginning of their books giving the vernacular equivalents of the English numerals :—

0, 1, 2, etc., 9.

2. The provision of such a table is rendered necessary in consideration of the possibility that the employment of English figures prescribed in the main arithmetic syllabus which will be applicable to all classes of schools,—high, middle and upper primary—might otherwise constitute a difficulty in purely vernacular schools.

3. In this connexion it may be pointed out that while the use of English figures is prescribed in the main syllabus the vernacular notation will be used in the additional Subhankari syllabus to be taught in middle vernacular and upper primary schools.

G. W. KUCHLER,
Director of Public Instruction, Bengal.

In this connexion it should be noted that in accordance with the Cambridge Local Regulations, one at least of the five subjects of section 1 (Religious Knowledge) must be taken by all students unless their parents or guardians object to their examination in this section. The marks obtained by candidates under this head will not, however, be taken into account in the award of Government scholarships.

Information may be obtained from the Inspector of European Schools, Bengal, in regard to the conduct of the practical examination of pupils from any schools which have prepared themselves for the school certificate examination by the provision of a properly equipped laboratory.

This beacon in line with No. 1 Black Beacon N. 67° E. leads over the deepest water on the inner bar and midway between the two points forming the entrance.

Vessels entering the bay should steer for the outer white leads until the inner black and red leads come in line; then steer for them until well over the bar, from whence the black beacon is to be kept on the port hand, as usual.

Vessels intended for entering should steer for the buoy in line with Calca Bluff, and when inside the bar keep the buoy on the starboard hand and steer N.N.W. until the beacon comes on with the cliff of Cape Radstock, after which clear anchorage with at least 2½ fathoms will be found from N.N.W. to N.E. for 3 cables, beyond which the bay gradually shoals to about 3 ft. at L.W.S. 1½ miles from the entrance.

The mean pressure, temperature, etc., are deduced from eye observations.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground. The rainfall reported on any day is for 24 hours preceding 8 A.M. of that day.

≏, dew; o, overcast; p, passing temporary showers; K, thunderstorm ; /, strong wind.

MOTOR CAB RULES, 1910.

RULES FOR THE REGULATION OF MOTOR CABS WITHIN THE LIMITS OF THE TOWN AND SUBURBS OF CALCUTTA AND THE TOWN OF HOWRAH.

No. 1729J.—The 9th April 1910.—In exercise of the powers conferred by section 3 of the Bengal Motor Car and Cycle Act, 1903 (Bengal Act III of 1903), and in addition to the Rules issued under Notification No. 1180J.D., dated the 22nd June 1908, hereinafter called the Motor Car Rules, 1908, the Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to make the following Rules for regulating the use of motor cabs in the Town and Suburbs of Calcutta and the town of Howrah :—

(1) These rules may be called the Motor Cab Rules, 1910, and shall be read as Part IV of the Motor Car Rules, 1908.

(2) For the purpose of these rules a motor cab means a light motor car as defined in the Motor Car Rules, 1908, used for the purpose of standing or plying for hire in any street or public place.

(3) On the registration of a motor car as a motor cab, a certificate of registration shall be granted by the Commissioner of Police in the form given in Schedule I to these Rules.

(4) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in sub-clause (3) of Rule 2 in Part II of the Motor Car Rules, 1908, the fee payable for the registration of a motor car intended for use as a motor cab shall be Rs. 32, and no fee shall be charged for the registration of other motor cabs of the same type belonging to the same owner, provided the owner certifies in writing to the Commissioner of Police that such motor cabs are his property and conform in every respect to the type of the motor cab already registered.

(5) A license to drive a motor cab shall be in the form given in Schedule II to these rules, and the rules therein contained shall be read as a part of these rules.

(6) An applicant for a driver's license under these rules shall, before receiving such license, satify the Commissioner of Police that he is acquainted with the principal places and streets in and around Calcutta and Howrah, that he has a thorough knowledge of the prescribed rates for hire, and that he is in all respects a fit person to be the driver of a motor cab.

(7) The license of a driver may be cancelled or suspended or otherwise dealt with by the Commissioner of Police for any breach of these rules.

(8) No motor car shall be used as a motor cab unless fitted with a taximeter or approved mechanical device to which the seal of the Commissioner of Police has been affixed for automatically and visibly registering on each occasion the fare to be charged according to the rates for distance or time or a combination of distance and time.

Every taximeter shall be fitted with an indicator or handle in the form of a flag on which shall be printed the words " for hire". The taximeter shall be so constructed that when the indicator is vertical the taximeter shall be out of action. Such indicator shall be so placed as to be clearly visible to any person outside of and in front of the vehicle, and to the hirer when inside.

The vertical position indicates that the vehicle is available for hire, and no driver shall without reasonable excuse refuse to accept a fare when the indicator is in the vertical position.

Any owner, driver, attendant or other person who shall break or tamper in any way with the seal or mark placed on the taximeter, or who shall, with intent to deceive, tamper with the taximeter or the driving mechanism thereof, shall be deemed to have committed a breach of this rule.

(9) In every motor cab there shall be available for the inspection of customers a list of rates, and the fare charged for the hire of the motor shall not exceed the maximum fare calculated according to the scale of the rates set forth in the list as may be applicable.

(10) The driver of every motor cab shall, as soon as he is hired and no sooner, set the taximeter in motion, and upon the termination of the hiring shall immediately stop the same. If he neglect or fail to do so, he shall be deemed to have committed a breach of this rule. But if a motor cab is called from a garage or a stand to take up a passenger at any place less than 500 yards from the garage or stand, the taximeter shall not be set in motion until the motor cab shall arrive at such place and be ready to take up the passenger. Provided that in the event of a motor cab whilst hired being unable to proceed from any mechanical derangement or tyre failure, either temporarily or otherwise, the driver shall at once stop the mechanism of the taximeter as against the hirer and shall not restart the same until such time as the defect is remedied.

(11) A driver of a motor cab shall, in the absence of reasonable cause to the contrary, proceed to the destination named by the hirer by the shortest and quickest route.

(12) The brakes shall, as far as possible, be so affixed as to be capable of easy adjustment. At least one brake shall be so made as to be applied by the foot of the driver, and at least one shall act directly upon the road wheels.

(13) All brake and steering connections secured with bolts shall have such bolts secured with nuts, the same to be locked or pinned.

(14) Every precaution shall be taken by the owner to see that all parts of the mechanism of the car are periodically inspected and kept in proper working order and a register shall be kept of such inspections in a convenient form giving the particulars shown in Schedule III to these Rules. This register shall be open at any reasonable time to the inspection of the Commissioner of Police or any person duly authorized by him in that behalf. Any failure to maintain this register or to produce it when called for by lawful authority, shall be deemed to be a breach of this rule.

(15) No oil shall be allowed to drop upon the roadway, and where a tray or undershield is fixed below the mechanism of the car for the purpose of preventing this or for any other purpose, such tray or undershield shall be so placed or constructed that no petrol from the tank, supply pipe, or carburettor can collect therein.

(16) Tanks for petrol must be so placed that any overflow shall not fall on to nor soak into cushions, upholstery or floor mats in or about the body, but the filling nozzle shall be brought to some point outside the body. No petrol shall be poured into the tank whilst the engine is running or whilst any lamp is burning in or on any portion of the car.

(17) Every motor cab shall have at least one driving wheel fitted with an approved means of preventing or limiting side slip and shall carry at least one spare inflated tyre and rim or other approved device which can, if necessary, be quickly fitted to any wheel.

(18) Every motor cab shall be provided with a means of communication between passenger and driver.

(19) Where acetylene or other gas is used to light the carriage, the cylinders or vessels which contain the gas or in which it is generated, must be fixed outside in such a position as to minimize the danger of accidental ignition.

(20) No printed or written matter other than the sanctioned rates for hire or these rules shall appear on the inside or outside of a motor cab or be carried by way of advertisement.

(21) The doors, windows, seats, roof, springs, wheels, cushions, linings, panels, etc., and all furniture and appointment of a motor cab shall be in proper order and repair, the paint and varnish in good condition and the inside perfectly clean. The floor shall be covered with a mat of rubber, coir or other suitable material.

(22) The Commissioner of Police may prohibit the use of a motor cab which is in his opinion unfit to ply for hire, until such time as the defects are remedied to his satisfaction.

Educational Notice.

WITH reference to Government Notification No. 4305, dated 23rd November 1909 in which detailed information was published as to the text-books required in accordance with the new syllabuses for Standards III to IV, writers of arithmetic books are requested to be good enough to provide a table in the beginning of their books giving the vernacular equivalents of the English numerals :—

0, 1, 2, etc., 9.

2. The provision of such a table is rendered necessary in consideration of the possibility that the employment of English figures prescribed in the main arithmetic syllabus which will be applicable to all classes of schools,—high, middle and upper primary—might otherwise constitute a difficulty in purely vernacular schools.

3. In this connexion it may be pointed out that while the use of English figures is prescribed in the main syllabus the vernacular notation will be used in the additional Subhankari syllabus to be taught in middle vernacular and upper primary schools.

BUDGET OF THE GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL FOR 1910-11.

The PRESIDENT said:—

"The next business for the Council is the discussion of the Budget for the year 1910-11. Under rule 34 (2) when a speech has been printed and sent in advance and has been circulated to all Hon'ble Members, it is permissible at the discretion of the President to treat that speech as read. Four such speeches have been received through the courtesy of Hon'ble Members. These are the Hon'ble Maharaja of Cossimbazar, the Hon'ble Khan Bahadur Maulvi Sarfaraz Husain Khan, the Hon'ble Rai Sita Nath Ray Bahadur and the Hon'ble Babu Braja Kishor Prasad. It will save a good deal of time to take these speeches as read if none of these four Hon'ble Members have no objection to treat them in that manner."

The Hon'ble BABU BRAJA KISHOR PRASAD said:—

"I have no objection, Sir, to this being done, but I have something to add to my printed speech when the time comes if Your Honour will allow me to do this."

The PRESIDENT said:—

"I do not think that the Hon'ble Member is entitled to make any addition to his speech, which has been printed, but I shall not insist upon that objection.

"Hon'ble Members will remember that the time-limit of speeches is twenty minutes, and the Secretary to the Council will keep a note of the time as Hon'ble Members proceed, and will give us notice when any Hon'ble Member is likely to be approaching the time-limit. Hon'ble Members are allowed to speak in any order they please."

The Hon'ble MAHARAJA MANINDRA CHANDRA NANDI said:—

"The Hon'ble Sir Guy Fleetwood Wilson, in laying before the Imperial Council the Financial Statement for 1910-11, reminded his colleagues that it was rather by the painstaking examination of specific items of expenditure than by the framing of abstract resolutions on organic changes in the financial policy of Government, that economy could best be attained. In the Provincial Council we are not called upon to discuss the knotty problems connected with Imperial finance; ours is the humbler task of seeing that the resources at the disposal of the Provincial Government are judiciously utilised. Financially, the present is a critical period, as the Imperial Government has been driven to the painful necessity of resorting to additional taxation and of specially inviting Local Governments to overhaul their expenditure and to adapt it to their normal resources. Bengal is singularly fortunate in having at this moment as its ruler a liberal-minded statesman whose knowledge of the intricacies of Indian finance is inferior only to his zeal for the public good, and who has been commended in glowing terms by the present Finance Minister of the Government of India from his place in the Imperial Council for the courage and thoroughness with which he has already enforced economy in this Province.

"I have great pleasure in congratulating the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Financial Department on the lucidity with which he has placed the financial position of the Province before the Council. The figures are perfectly intelligible even to those like myself who can have no pretensions to expert knowledge of the details of the administration, and I have no doubt that they will satisfy even the most fastidious critic. The new system augurs well for the future, and the special thanks of the non-official members and the public are due to the Hon'ble Mr. Wheeler for the trouble he has taken to make that system popular and successful.

"The most striking feature of the present estimates is that they provide without any sacrifice of efficiency for a closing balance equal to the minimum of Rs. 20,00,000 prescribed by the Government of India. This has been rendered possible by the special subsidy of Rs 30,42,000 obtained from the Government of India, a fact on which the Bengal Government is to be congratulated. It is hoped that steps will be taken to guard against any depletion of the prescribed minimum balance in future. A scrutiny of the details shows that the estimates have been framed with sufficient caution, and the allotments evince a sympathetic and equitable adjustment of the rival claims of the different departments.

"It is noticeable that for the improvement of the prospects of ministerial officers employed in various departments an outlay of Rs. 5,08,000 is provided for. These officers are recruited from the middle classes, whose struggles for existence are well known and whose claims to generous consideration have been admitted by successive Governments in unequivocal terms. The only point on which the position requires fuller explanation appears to be the exclusion from the estimates of any provision for the increase of pay of the ministerial officers of the Registration Department; it is simply stated in paragraph 42 of the Review that definite proposals on the subject have not yet reached Government. This delay is perhaps unavoidable, but it is not clear why a concession made to clerks in other departments should be withheld indefinitely from those employed in the Registration Department. The heart-burning caused by any such differential treatment can easily be imagined, and it is hoped that early steps will be taken to obviate this undesirable result.

"The estimates provide for an expenditure of Rs. 1,52,000 under the head "Legal Remembrancer and High Court Pleaders". The revised estimate under the same head for the current year is Rs. 3,16,000 against the sanctioned grant of Rs. 1,30,000, while the actuals for the three preceding years were:—

						Rs.
1906-07	...	...	...	...	...	54,777
1907-08	...	...	...	...	...	1,38,541
1908-09	...	...	...	...	...	2,61,029

The enormous rise this year is due to the larger payments of fees to pleaders and counsel in the High Court in connection with the prosecution of anarchist cases. A corresponding rise is noticeable in the expenditure under the head "Criminal Investigation Department". The revised estimate for the current year is Rs 2,53,000 against the sanctioned grant of Rs. 1,92,000, while the actuals for the three preceding years were:—

						Rs.
1907-08	...	...	...	...	...	1,20,918
1908-09	...	...	...	...	...	1,73,604

For the coming year provision has been made for an increased expenditure of Rs. 3,19 000, and it is explained that this increase is due to the reorganisation of the department. The above-quoted figures afford ample food for reflection. They conclusively show that, unless and until the incubus of anarchism is got rid of, public funds must be diverted from their legitimate ends to meeting the inevitable cost of combating this obnoxious form of human depravity. The ushering in of favourable seasons has resulted in a saving of about six lakhs under the head "Grain Compensation Allowance," and this money might have been available for some admittedly deserving scheme of public utility had not the Government been obliged to incur heavy outlay on account of the recrudescence of anarchism in our midst. Appeals have been made by high officials and leaders of public opinion for co-operation in eradicating this dire evil, and it is hoped that they will not prove infructuous. For the fanaticism of a few the sufferers are many, and it is high time that the lesson taught by the results was brought home to the people affected. The maintenance of an expensive Criminal Investigation Department and the payment of a fabulous amount as fees to counsel and pleaders have become necessary evils, and no effort should be spared to check, if not entirely eradicate, them.

"In the Imperial Council the Hon'ble Mr. Meston has stated that since 1908-09 the Government of India have been giving to the various provinces a total grant of 30 lakhs a year in aid of sanitary improvement, and that he believes that a substantial share of that subsidy has been passed on to municipalities and local bodies. The present Provincial statement does not enable one to gather what proportion of the aforesaid annual grant is made to Bengal nor how the subsidy is utilised. The statement shows that the current year's revised estimate under the head "Sanitation and Vaccination" subordinate to "24—Medical" is Rs. 2,58,000 against the sanctioned grant of Rs. 2,80,000, and the decrease is due to the non-utilisation of the grant for the improvement of the Sanitary Department. The estimate for 1910-11 does not include any provision for this and no explanation is furnished of the omission. It also appears that a subsidy of four lakhs and a half is to be made next year to "Excluded Local Funds and Municipalities" for sanitary improvement, and that increased provisions of Rs. 1,00,000 and Rs. 1,00,000 have also been made against the current year's sanctioned grants of Rs. 50,000 and Rs. 75,000, respectively, to enable the Lieutenant-Governor and Commissioners of Divisions to make petty grants on direct applications made to them by local bodies. All this is satisfactory, but it is obvious that the heavy expenditure necessary for village sanitation properly so called has yet to be adequately provided for. The ravages of malaria and the havoc played by other fell diseases are well known; the sufferings of the poor in remote villages on account of the scarcity of water during summer have more than once been discussed in this Council; it has been argued with much force that the limited resources of the District Boards are wholly inadequate to provide the remedy. I would earnestly appeal to Your Honour's Government to come to the rescue of the sufferers. Your Honour is possessed of generous instincts, and I respectfully crave Your Honour's indulgence in expressing a hope that the inauguration of a matured scheme for effecting this long-deferred reform may be the lasting monument of Your Honour's already much-appreciated liberal administration. In conclusion, I must express my sincere gratitude to Government for the allotment of Rs. 16,000 for drainage and of a further sum of Rs. 15,000 for the improvement of the water-supply for Berhampore out of the budget grant for 1909-10."

The Hon'ble KHAN BAHADUR MAULVI SARFARAZ HUSAIN KHAN said:—

"Your Honour,—The Budget for 1910-11 shows that the allotments for new schemes costing individually more than Rs. 5,000 amount to Rs. 7,61,812 as non-recurring and Rs. 15,90,736 as recurring charges, and that the allotments for the new schemes individually estimated to cost Rs. 5,000 or less amount to Rs. 67,390 as non-recurring and Rs. 1,37,435 as recurring charges.

"In connection with the provision made for these schemes, may I be permitted to make a few observations.

"I congratulate the Government on its increasing the allotments to His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor and the Divisional Commissioners, for making provision in the budget for the cost of the establishment of a Provincial Executive Council, for the improvement of the college at Sabaur, for the reorganisation of the Criminal Investigation Department, for improving the pay and position of the Civil Assistant Surgeons and Civil Hospital Assistants, and for the increase of the pay of the ministerial officers.

"By increasing the allotments to His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor and the Divisional Commissioners, casual works in cases of emergency will be done with greater expedition, and His Honour in his tours through the province, and the Divisional Commissioners in their tours in their respective divisions, will thus be in a position to give immediate relief to the people whenever required.

"The creation of an Executive Council in this Province had been looked forward to with considerable interest, and the people will now look upon it as a great boon highly calculated to lighten the pressure of the administrative work of the Province. The enlargement and expansion of the Legislative Councils, and the increase of work in almost all the departments of the State, make it essentially necessary that the Heads of Provinces should have by their side officers of proved ability and administrative capacity to assist them and to share their labour in the arduous works of administration.

"India being an agricultural country, nothing could do it more substantial good and tend to increase its material resources than the spread of agricultural knowledge in the land. The poverty of the agriculturists and the cultivating classes in India, their ignorance of even the rudiments of the science of agriculture, the acquisition of which has remarkably improved the condition of their brethren in the civilised countries of the world, reacting with considerable force on the material condition of the people, are facts that need no proof by me or by any one else. The establishment of a solitary Provincial Agricultural College cannot, no doubt, be expected to do much good all at once—conservative as the people of this country, and especially the cultivating classes, are. But it cannot but be a matter of general satisfaction that a real beginning has been made in the direction, and it is hoped that in times to come, when the agricultural needs of the Province are more recognised and better opportunities present themselves, Government will be in a position to develop the agricultural institutions of the Province, to the great advantage of the teeming population of the land.

"The present time being one when war is not so much dreaded as the existence of an anarchical conspiracy with its ramifications, any attempt to root out such a conspiracy should therefore be welcomed by all the citizens of a civilised Government, and the breaking up of the organized bands of conspirators cannot be satisfactorily done unless the Government is kept constantly informed of the movements and rendezvous of the evil-doers and mischief-makers by a well-equipped staff of Police officers brought up to a high standard of efficiency.

"The Civil Assistant Surgeons and the Civil Hospital Assistants are, as a matter of fact, ill-paid, and looking to the useful work they do, it is just and equitable that their prospects should be improved.

"Any one in administrative charge of a Government office can realize the position of clerks working there. They are practically in charge of the details of the office work, and have to come to office before their Heads come and to leave it after their departure, working all the time without comparative rest, and it is therefore bare justice that their small salaries should be increased.

"Your Honour, it is hardly the time now to suggest any alterations in the budget allotments. But it may not be out of place for me to place the pressing needs of Bihar before Your Honour, trusting that attention will be paid to them as a suitable opportunity presents itself.

"Education.—The fate of most of the private colleges in Bihar, in spite of the zealous efforts of the gentlemen concerned with the institutions, and the assistance given to them by Government, is still trembling in the balance, and unless more liberal grants are made to them they can hardly be expected to meet the necessary demands. I may here allude to the dangers of the present Calcutta life to which the people of Bihar are wide awake, and on account of which they are averse to sending their children for education to the metropolis, being naturally anxious that their boys should be kept away from the sinister influences which unfortunately are at work there. But this crying intellectual need of Bihar can be satisfied only if the colleges in Bihar are allowed to develop into efficient educational institutions with generous help from Government. But a Bihari feels discouraged and gets pessimistic when he looks to the following figures:—

From Imperial grants up to date—				Rs.
To B. N. College, Bankipore	...	...	...	24,000
To T. N. Jubilee College, Bhagalpur	..	...	...	22,000
To B. B. College, Muzaffarpur	...	...	...	7,000
		Total	...	53,000

and

St. Xavier's College	...	...	...	37,000
Bangabasi College	...	...	...	42,000
Metropolitan College	...	...	...	52,000
Scottish Churches College	...	...	...	35,000
		Total	..	1,86,000

"Out of a maintenance grant of nearly Rs. 68,000 for aided colleges, Bihar (proper) receives at present only Rs. 2,400. There is no doubt that the B. N. College at Bankipore and the Bhumihar Brahman College at Muzaffarpur would have ceased to exist if it had not been for the timely assistance given to them by the Government and the local officials, for which the people of Bihar are under a debt of gratitude to Government. But it cannot, at the same time, be denied that the colleges are still in sore need of financial help and the Biharis look up to Your Honour to come to their rescue.

"Patna Collegiate School.—The hired building with a small compound, in which the school is located, is quite unsuited to the requirements of a Government public school. A site, as I am informed, has already been selected for it, and although this is not the time when Government can take up the matter, it is prayed that it be taken up as soon as circumstances permit.

"Patna Training College.—This college was opened by Government on the 12th October, 1908, to prepare candidates for the Licentiate of Teaching Examination of the Calcutta University. This is the first institution of its kind which has been established in this part of the country, and I am glad to say that its importance and usefulness have been recognised and appreciated. I may therefore take the liberty of urging upon Government the necessity of increasing the usefulness of the college by enabling it to open the Bachelor of Teaching class, which can be done by providing for another Professor for the college on Rs. 200 a month—the present teaching staff consisting of a Principal and a Professor. I have been informed that there is a saving of Rs. 1,200 a year out of the Government grant to the college; and to meet the present need, a grant of only Rs. 100 per mensem is required.

"Patna Female Training College.—Being a member of the Advisory Committee in connection with the Badshah Nawab Razvi College for the training of female teachers, I have had opportunities of gauging the feelings of the respectable classes, especially of the Muhammadan respectable class, in respect of female education. Rightly or wrongly, the Muhammadan respectable classes are averse to sending their girls to schools. The Bankipore Government Girls' School, opened in, I understand, 1908, and amalgamated with the Badshah Nawab Razvi College, and now forms a practising school for female teachers who receive their training in the college. There are Muhammadan and Hindu sections in both the college and school. In the Budget estimate for 1910-1911, I find Rs. 17,600 provided for training schools for females at Bankipore, and Rs.2,000 allotted as a grant for Muhammadan female education in Patna. Thus it is that a pretty large amount is provided for female education in Patna. I from my own experience can say that neither is female education making headway in Patna, nor do we get a good return for the money spent over the matter, and I beg therefore to suggest that either house-to-house teaching be encouraged by strengthening the staff of peripatetic female teachers, or that, if such teachers be not available, more qualified assistants be given to the Principal of the college to assist her in her rather difficult task of training female teachers.

"Agricultural and Industrial.—Your Honour is well aware that an agricultural and industrial exhibition is held at Bankipore once a year. But much of the educative value of the exhibits collected on the spot is lost on account of there being no proper place at which they can be permanently kept, and I therefore suggest that, if possible, a permanent building be provided where the exhibits might be kept and the building kept open to the public."

The Hon'ble RAI SITA NATH RAY BAHADUR said :—

"May it please Your Honour,—This is the first time that different classes and sects representing different interests have been privileged to elect representatives to this august body, and this is the first time that a representative of Indian commerce has been privileged to occupy a seat here.

"It is indeed a matter for sincere congratulations that not only has the numerical strength of the Council been materially enlarged, but what is more gratifying, a preponderance of non-official members has been very appropriately conceded in the Provincial Council.

"It is no small concession, at least it is somewhat novel and unusual, that members should not only be allowed to move resolutions with reference to the work of every-day administration, but also empowered to make recommendations for modifying or altering the Budget within certain limits.

"For these concessions, for the very liberal and generous measures of reform we are indeed deeply grateful to His Excellency the Viceroy and the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State for India, whose names, I dare say, will remain enshrined in the hearts of a grateful people.

"But, however otherwise generous and liberal, this Reform Scheme is not altogether free from defects.

"The first defect that I beg to point out in connection with the regulations framed under the new Council Act, is that there is no provision in the regulations for allowing the Indian mercantile community to elect a member to the Provincial Council, it having been left to the discretion of the Local Government to nominate a member from such community.

"Though my Chamber and myself are extremely grateful to Your Honor for having nominated me to represent the Indian commercial community on this Council, what I beg to submit is, that while to zamindars and other classes and communities and local bodies the right of election has been spontaneously conceded, I for one cannot conceive why the same concession may not be granted to the mercantile community.

"But it is said that the difficulty of forming a suitable and workable electorate from the mercantile community is very great: to that my reply is, that as in the case of zamindars, the payment of a certain amount in the shape of Government revenue or cesses, and in the case of the Muhammadan community, amongst others, the payment of Rs. 50 a year for income-tax, has been made the basis for investing one with the franchise of election, so in the case of the Indian mercantile community a suitable electorate may be formed of those who pay, say, two hundred rupees a year for income-tax on account of trade and commerce alone. Till such an electorate can be formed, I hope and pray the right of election may be conceded to the Bengal National Chamber of Commerce.

"Another defect in the regulations that I would take the liberty to point out is, that they have ignored altogether the great and important body of the Calcutta house and landed proprietors, the yearly income of some of whom ranges from one lakh to ten lakhs of rupees. While in the mufassal towns and rural areas payment of very small sums for municipal rates and of equally small sums for cesses enables people to become members of Municipalities and of District Boards, respectively, and thereby to become electors for Council election, it is a matter of regret that no privilege should have been conferred upon and no account taken of the great and influential body of the Calcutta house and landed proprietors in the matter of Council election. Nor has, I regret to observe, any value been set on the possession of University qualifications.

"I have taken the liberty to make these observations, solely with a view to attract Your Honor's attention to the defects in question so that they may be rectified in time for the next election.

"These and other defects of a like nature are no doubt due to the very hurried way the regulations were framed to bring the Council Act into operation within a certain limited time.

"I have no mind to weary the Council with a long speech, but as the only representative of Indian commerce in Your Honour's Council, I should be failing in my duty if I were not to draw Your Honour's attention and the attention of your Council, to a subject which is so closely allied to commerce and which lies at the root of all commercial prosperity—I mean the subject of technical education, in which my countrymen feel vitally interested.

"In view of the degeneracy and decay of the once flourishing arts and industries of the country whose exquisitely finished products were once objects of admiration and found a ready sale in all the civilised countries, and which in return brought large sums of money, which tended so much to support in ease and comfort various classes of people engaged in different arts and industries, and in view of the various classes of people who formerly subsisted by the indigenous arts and industries having in consequence been thrown out of employment and thereby swelling the number of the unemployed and unoccupied, which, I need hardly say, is one of the root causes of the present discontent, it is of the utmost importance both to the Government and the people at large, that something should be done for fostering the awakened spirit of industrial enterprise which is so much in evidence now, and for resuscitating the decayed and decaying arts and industries of the country.

"There is such a keen desire among our countrymen for scientific and industrial education that a number of our young men for want of facilities here have under the auspices of the Association for the Advancement of Scientific and Industrial Education in India to be sent every year abroad, namely, to England and other European countries and America, and even to Japan, for learning some useful arts and industries there, but the funds at the disposal of the Association for the Advancement and Promotion of Scientific Education in India are so limited, that only a limited number, namely, sixty or seventy out of several hundreds of candidates, can receive assistance from the above Association.

"It is a matter of regret that for want of proper scientific and industrial educational centres here our young men should be obliged to go abroad even for learning such ordinary things as soap-making, manufacture of matches, pencils and other common things; but how few can afford to go to foreign countries and pay the high costs of living there!

"In reply to a resolution which the Hon'ble Mr. Mudholkar moved in the Imperial Council for the establishment of a Central Technological and Polytechnic College in India, the Hon'ble Sir Harvey Adamson was pleased to observe that the establishment of such an institution for all India at an initial expenditure of nearly a crore of rupees and of a yearly recurring expense of seven or eight lacs of rupees, was quite superfluous and the idea itself was extravagant, for the various Provincial Governments had been doing and might be trusted to do all that was necessary to meet the requirements of their respective Provinces.

"But I find in the Budget that only Rs. 59,000 has been allotted to meet the yearly cost of technical and industrial schools in the premier Province. I need hardly observe that in such a large province with a population of 540 lakhs, this small sum divided among different centres and diverted to different purposes and objects can hardly be enough to impart sufficient instructions in any single branch of any art or industry.

"No doubt over three lakhs of rupees are yearly spent for the maintenance of the very useful institution called the Civil Engineering College at Sibpur, which not only teaches civil engineering but also includes in its curriculum practical training of a useful character But, Sir, the Civil Engineering College at Sibpur is altogether a different thing from a Technological College.

"I cannot believe that a civil engineering college or a weaving school can satisfy the growing requirements of a large Province like this or satisfy the cravings of its people for industrial education.

"We earnestly hope and pray to Your Honour that adequate provision may be made in the near future for making arrangements by the establishment of a suitable college for imparting technical instructions in such branches as the people may show their aptitude for, and as are likely to promote some useful arts and industries."

The Hon'ble BABU BRAJA KISHOR PRASAD said:—

"Your Honour,—I feel it my duty to thank the Government for the introduction of the new method of discussing the Provincial Budget. Under the previous practice the Council could not get an opportunity of discussing the different heads and groups of heads of the Budget separately as has been done this year. In the previous years the Budget had to be dealt with by the Council in one day in a general discussion, ranging over the whole field of administration. The introduction of the new system of discussing the Budget twice—once as the revised Financial Statement, dealing with the estimates separately under different heads, and then as a whole—will give greater and wider opportunity to the Members for making suggestions and offering criticisms.

"But, Your Honour, I would like to suggest that copies of the Financial Statement should be supplied to the Members at least two weeks before the first discussion to enable them to study it thoroughly and to prepare themselves. This year most of the muffassal Members received the Financial Statement as late as the 7th of March, and were asked to send their Resolutions, if any, by the 8th of March, the discussion being fixed for the 12th of March. It was really impossible for them to go through the Statement in a few hours and to formulate their Resolutions within that time. This has very much handicapped the Members in the preliminary discussion of the Budget, at which stage only they could move Resolutions. Many who wanted to do it could not do so for want of time. In view of these considerations I hope Your Honour will accept the above suggestion.

"As to the method of preparing the Budget itself, I have to offer a few remarks. As prepared now, it contains many items of lump sums, the details regarding the allotment of which are not yet known to the Members, and so any discussion about them is impossible; for example, we find on the expenditure side an item of Rs. 11,80,000 shown in the Budget as grants-in-aid under the general head of Education. Nowhere is it shown in the Budget how, or in what proportion, or to what the said sum is to be allotted. Had the details been shown, we would have been in a position to discuss it. Similarly, it does not appear from the Budget as it stands now what sums, if any, are going to be given to the various colleges as maintenance grants, etc. To make the discussion on the Budget more real and to give the Members a more effective voice over it, I would suggest that in future fuller details should be given to make it more intelligible. Excepting those of the Hon'ble Members who happen to be on the Finance Committee and the Official Members who are in charge of the different heads, the others are kept quite in the dark as to many important items by the present method of preparing the Budget.

"Coming to the Budget itself, I would like to say something as regards Education, with special reference to Bihar.

"The most important question affecting the welfare of India is the question of education. It is of the highest importance. Government has of late years been paying some attention to the improvement of education imparted in colleges, but little or nothing has been done to effect any improvement in the condition of secondary education imparted in our schools. Yet it is these schools which form the basis of the colleges, and if the basis be weak, there is always the danger of the superstructure tumbling down. Our zilla schools urgently require improvements in the following directions:—

"The strengthening of the teaching staff by appointing an adequate number of competent teachers.

"In this respect our zilla schools are much worse off than they were a few years ago. We have to note with much regret that, since the last few years, there has been a gradual weakening of the teaching staff of zilla schools in Bihar. Ten years ago there used to be no less than four graduate teachers in a zilla school in Bihar, and now there are hardly two graduate teachers in most of the said schools. And this state of things continues in spite of the Resolution adopted unanimously at the Head Masters' Conference at Bankipore, supported by the Inspector of Schools. The other day it was admitted by the Hon'ble Mr. Gourlay in this Council that "it is a fact that there are fewer graduates in the zilla schools in Bihar at the present time than there were ten years ago". But the reason assigned by the Government for this paucity in the number of graduate teachers in zilla schools is that "the supply of Bihari graduate teachers has been insufficient". This, however, is not the fact. There are lots of Bihari graduates ready to accept service in the Education Department, but certainly they are not available on the low pay of Rs. 30 a month. Improve their pay and prospects, and they would gladly join the Department. I would, therefore, suggest that their initial pay should be Rs. 50 per month.

"Improvement in the pay and prospects of school-teachers.

The question of improving the condition of secondary schools is intimately connected with the question of improving the pay and prospects of teachers. Teachers of zilla schools are the most ill-paid officers serving under the Government, while it is they who hold the really most responsible positions. The education of our boys is entrusted to them. And whether a boy is to turn out a good or a bad citizen of the British Empire depends on the sort of education he receives in his younger days. It is, therefore, very necessary to see that the teachers in our schools are good men and work with whole hearted zeal and enthusiasm.

The case of the teachers in the Lower Subordinate Education Service is very pitiable. They begin with a pay of Rs. 15 and have to wait for ten years without any prospect of any increment. How can we consistently expect a teacher with such a low pay to work efficiently?

"The case of head-masters requires special attention. We find that Sub-Deputy Collectors begin with a pay of Rs. 100; and even some of the ministerial officers, such as sheristadars, nazirs and others, draw Rs. 100 as their minimum pay. But the head-masters of zilla schools, who occupy far more responsible positions, have to work for Rs. 75 or Rs. 60, or even Rs. 50 a month. The pay of head-masters should not be less than Rs. 150. This is also the opinion of the University of Calcutta and of the Bengal Chamber of Commerce who were consulted some time ago by the Government of India on the subject of secondary education.

"Sound education is the true remedy for all distempers. Zilla schools should serve as models to other schools. A very able article on the subject of the prospect of school-teachers appeared in the Behareé of the 7th January, 1910, and I would most earnestly draw the attention of the Director of Public Instruction to it.

"A scheme for the improvement of secondary education was drawn up by the Hon'ble Mr. Earle. It requires a recurring expenditure of Rs. 16 lakhs. We do not know when this scheme is going to be given effect to. It is said that funds are not available for it. But as I said the other day, education should be the first charge on the public revenues of a country. Some provision should have been made in the Budget for giving effect to the said scheme, which is of paramount importance to the people. However, I hope that at the end of the next financial year, when the Budget for 1911-12 will be prepared, the Government will be able to find money for giving effect to the said scheme.

"Coming to our colleges, we are sorry to find that due attention has not been paid to the requirements of the Patna College. There is no B. A. class in Philosophy; neither there is an M. A. class in any subject. This is all due to the want of Professors, as was practically admitted by the Hon'ble Mr. Gourlay on the 12th and the 14th of March in this Council. Though administrative sanction has been given for the construction of the Laboratory buildings of the Patna College, yet, as was said by the Hon'ble Mr. Gourlay in this Council, "it has not been found possible to provide funds for it during 1910-11". The Government also says that "no increase in the staff of the Patna College is practicable".

"We see that the Government maintains five colleges in Western Bengal, viz., the Presidency College, the Sanskrit College, the Calcutta Madrassa, the Krishnagar College and the Hugli College, at an enormous expense. But it is very unfortunate that in Bihar the Government is unable to maintain even one college in an efficient condition. In view of the very large contributions of Bihar to the provincial revenues, I believe the Biharees have a right to demand that the Government should spend larger sums of money on education in Bihar than it has been doing till now.

"The unsatisfactory condition of the Patna College was brought to the notice of Sir Andrew Fraser, the late Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, in August, 1908, and he was kind enough to say that "a scheme is in progress for bringing the Patna College up to the highest condition of efficiency". What has become of the said scheme we want to know, and I would request the present Government to redeem the pledges given by the late Lieutenant-Governor. We all expected that provision would be made in the Budget for meeting the demands of the Patna College.

"As regards the private colleges in Bihar, of which there are four—three first-grade, viz., B. N. College, Bankipore, T. N. Jubilee College, Bhagalpur, and B. B. College, Muzaffarpur, and one second-grade college at Monghyr, the Government does not seem to have awakened to its due sense of responsibility. The Government helps the private colleges with grants every year which are ordinarily of four kinds, viz., maintenance grant, building grant, hostel grant, and the Imperial grant. Leaving aside the Imperial grant, which cannot be properly called a grant by the Provincial Government out of the Provincial revenues, we have left the other three grants. Of these three, the maintenance grant seems to be the most important. To take it up first, we find that in the year 1906-07, out of a total maintenance grant of Rs. 37,425, Bihar colleges got not a farthing, the whole amount being given away to Bengal colleges; in the year 1907-08, out of a total of Rs. 59,380, Bihar got only Rs. 2,200; in 1908-09, out of a total of Rs. 68,730, Bihar got only Rs. 2,400; and in 1909-10, out of a total of Rs. 68,330, Bihar got Rs. 2,400. In other words, in all the four years under review, Bihar got only Rs. 7,000 as maintenance grant out of a total maintenance grant of Rs. 2,33,868. If side by side with this we take up the individual colleges of Bengal, we see that in these four years St. Xavier's College got Rs. 21,600, Midnapore College got Rs. 21,768, Bangabasi College got Rs. 33,500, Metropolitan Institution got Rs. 21,600, L. M. S. Institution, Bhowanipore got Rs. 12,000, and General Assembly's Institution and Duff College got Rs. 74,000 as maintenance grants.

"To take up the building grants in these years, we find that Bihar colleges did not get a farthing out of a total building grant of Rs. 62,271, which was divided amongst the St. Xavier's, the Midnapore and the Bangabasi Colleges.

"Out of a total hostel grant of Rs. 19,789, Bihar got only Rs. 1,124.

"One has to read these figures to be convinced of the treatment meted out to the claims of the private colleges of Bihar. The Government certainly owes an explanation to the people of Bihar for this neglectful treatment of their educational claims.

"The maintenance and the hostel grants of Rs. 7,000 and Rs. 1,124 each given in the said four years were received by the Bihar National College. Not a single penny has yet been given to the Bhumihar Brahman College of Muzaffarpur either as maintenance or building or hostel grant. The people of North Bihar whom I have the honour to represent are doing all in their power to raise money to meet the needs of the College. Through the very kind efforts of Mr Greer, the Commissioner of Tirhut, who takes much interest in the Institution, the Trustees of the College have been able to raise a sum of Rs. 1,60,000 and a monthly subscription of about Rs. 600 for current expenses. This shows what genuine efforts the people and the local officials are making towards improving the College. Mr. Greer would not have associated himself with the people in raising money for the College had he not seen the necessity of a first grade college in North Bihar. I believe this is known also to the Hon'ble Mr. Earle than whom a better official benefactor of education in Bihar the Biharis has not ever had the fortune to have. The present satisfactory financial position of the Bihar National College is all due to him. And we know not how to repay the gratitude we owe to the Hon'ble Mr. Earle and to Mr. Greer for all they have done and are doing for the education of the Biharees. To return to the subject, as the money and the monthly subscriptions raised by the Bhumihar Brahman College are not sufficient to meet the demands, the Trustees have applied to the Government for a grant of Rs. 33,000 for building and Rs. 800 a month for current expenses. They are very strongly supported by Mr. Greer. But I am very sorry to find from the reply given to me by the Hon'ble Mr. Gourlay to my questions about the College that "the Government does not see any possibility of giving the grant requested". Even if the Government is not going to give us Rs 33,000 for building as requested, there is no reason why a sum of Rs 800 per month for current expenses should not be given, particularly when we have seen from the figures quoted above that most of the private colleges in Bengal have been getting substantial amounts as maintenance grants every year. Some of these colleges have been receiving as much as Rs. 1,000 per month, i.e, Rs. 12,000 a year as maintenance grant. And when the Bhumihar Brahman College comes forward and asks for a maintenance grant of Rs. 9,600 only a year, the Government cannot reasonably and consistently say no, but ought to readily help it, as it has been helping the other colleges. I earnestly request and hope that Your Honour will give favourable consideration to the claims of the Bhumihar Brahman College, which has amply justified its existence as a first-grade college by turning out a good number of graduates in a few years of its existence. Some provision ought and should have been made in the Budget for it.

"Bihar has now come to occupy a new and important position in the Government of the Lower Provinces. Looking both to its area and its population in the Government of the Lower Provinces, and also considering its backwardness in education and its neglected condition in the past, this state of affairs can no longer be justifiable, and I would respectfully submit that Your Honour will be pleased to direct that the expenditure on education in Bihar should be commensurate with its new position as also with its contributions to the revenues raised in the Lower Provinces. Your Honour, the complaint that the Government has neglected the education of the Biharees in the past is not ill-founded, as will appear from the admission made by the late Lieutenant-Governor in August, 1908, at Bankipore, when replying to an address presented by the people of Bihar. When requested to spend larger sums of money on education in Bihar, His Honour observed: "the fact that Bihar has probably been to some extent neglected in the past makes such a demand especially reasonable in this case", and I hope the present Government will fully endorse the views of the late Lieutenant-Governor and fulfil the promises given by him to the people of Bihar".

The Hon'ble KUMAR SHIBA NANDAN PRASAD SINGH said:—

"Your Honour,—I do not think that the Budget laid before this Council by the Hon'ble the Financial Secretary calls for the making of long speeches and the multiplication of criticism. I shall confine myself to offering, with Your Honour's permission, a few brief suggestions. I couple these with my congratulations to Your Honour's Government upon having come with credit and fair fortune through a period of financial stress and upon the brighter prospects that the new year seems to hold out. It is the earnest prayer of all that nothing may happen, either in Bengal or in other parts of the Empire, to cloud that fair prospect; that the rain may be plentiful, and favourably distributed, so that neither drought nor flood may again dismay the farmer, and deplete the exchequer of the Government; that the equally ruinous and costly political unrest and criminal conspiracies may cease from the land, permitting the increase of trade, the growth of renewed confidence and kindliness, and the decrease of expenditure necessitated by the war against sordid, wasteful political crime—expenditure which is responsible for no small part of the shortage which has to be faced in India to-day.

"The Budget we consider to-day might be more satisfactory, it is true. It is always sad when the meal in the bin is so low that the bottom shows through. It might have been worse, judging from the original estimate, but for the liberality of the Government of India, itself hard put to it for the balancing of income and outlay, and for the good fortune that enabled a mournful '0' budgetted for as the closing balance, of 1909-10, to be converted into an effective, if miscroscopic, closing balance, enough to go on with, even had the Imperial Government been unable to come to our help. Still, good fortune or ill, affluence or want, we have the satisfaction of knowing that with a tried and careful financial expert directing affairs, the best will always be made of any situation. Studying the budget, we are forced to the conclusion that the best has been made of it in the present case. Expenditure has evidently been arranged for with anxious economy, regard being had to the securing of proper efficiency—though I should have not been sorry to have seen a more liberal treatment of primary education. Education is always an important question. It is gratifying, however to find that generally the expenditure under this head has kept pace with the increasing demands of a progressive community. Any expenditure incurred upon the educational wants of a community should be regarded as reproductive It is repaid in the intellectual, moral and material advancement of the community, and lays the solid foundation of a nation's progress. Hoped-for income is generally estimated for with a sane conservatism, that is in pleasing contrast to the practice of other days. It is good to see that though everything points to a year of prosperity and plenty, special caution is observed regarding the possible yields from stamps and excise. An equally great degree of caution might with advantage be observed regarding land revenue. This, though the chiefest of our sources of income, is so much at the mercy of the elements, so liable to fluctuations and disappointment, that it demands specially gentle treatment. This was pointed out in previous years, and those who neglected the advice have the lean years that followed to reflect upon.

"While upon the subject of land revenue, I should like to voice a sentiment—it does not amount to a fear or doubt—entertained by a very large class of persons in these provinces. I refer to the hints that are constantly being dropped in unexpected places, though they are never made by any responsible official person, to the possibility, or desirability, of modifying or abolishing the Permanent Settlement of Bengal. The subject has acquired fresh vitality since the adoption of the new policy wrecking India's lucrative and legitimate opium trade. The lost revenue has to be made good from home resources. The task is no easy one. As a result, we see the invasion of all kinds of other interests, and the casting of covetous eyes upon permanently-settled Bengal. This idea of a Bargi raid upon Bengal may never find any to turn it into fact. Still it cannot be lost sight of as a possibility.

"We have very recently heard a distinguished and talented Indian gentleman, a non-official member of a higher Council, give utterance in assembly to the opinion that Bengal and, as others consider by implication, Bengal land, could be made to pay more than is now the case. In order that this temptation may be removed as far as possible from the persons who have to see to the financing of India, it is necessary that we should exercise the utmost vigilance upon our outgoings, spending with a careful hand always, and developing other and newer sources of revenue. Here I may add that all must welcome the improved outlay upon agricultural experiment and teaching. It all means in the end better agricultural economy, better results, less loss, more stable revenue, above all a happier, more prosperous, population.

"I may congratulate the Government upon the increased financial freedom now secured to Divisional Commissioners, and the attention their recommendations receive. The men on the spot are more likely to know the needs of their charges than the most accomplished of Secretariat officers, though the Financial Department has the difficult and thankless task of balancing claims. Though the Calcutta Improvement Trust Fund in the bank would help to improve the mufussal, none will grudge the metropolis the happy day that sees the long-deferred, oft-debated improvement scheme begun at last. The city, and specially the northern quarters, is badly congested. The need for improvement can hardly be exaggerated. The effect of this congestion upon the health of the inhabitants is deplorable. One result of the carrying out of the improvement scheme ought to make itself felt in succeeding Budgets. With a more healthy population there ought to be fewer demands for the extension of the Calcutta hospitals.

"I beg to invite the attention of Your Honour's Government to the question of house accommodation for the Executive and Judicial officers of Government. A satisfactory solution of the question is a difficult problem, and must necessarily involve a very heavy outlay. Nevertheless, considering the necessity of housing these officers in better quarters than they are now able to obtain, a necessity rendered acute in view of the prevalence of plague, it is a matter well worth the consideration of Government. I trust that something may be done in this direction as funds permit.

"The special assignment from the Imperial revenues consists of a grant of Rs. 4,50,000 for sanitary improvements in the province. This is a most useful grant. It enables the Monghyr drainage scheme, a measure urgently needed as a complement to the water-works, to be carried out. This would otherwise not have been possible for years to come. The people of Monghyr owe a deep debt of gratitude to Your Honour for a very liberal grant of a lakh of rupees, which puts a crown to your previous useful generosity. The water-works and drainage system of Monghyr will be a lasting monument to Your Honour's interest in that ancient and historic town. Your Honour's Government has in this matter made a very excellent investment, and Monghyr will soon advance with a rapidity that will repay the money and trouble spent upon it. I beg to add my own thanks to those of the people of Monghyr for this generous and timely help."

The Hon'ble Mr. DAS said :—

"Your Honour—I should like to associate myself with the terms of felicitations which I have found in some of the printed speeches regarding the work that has been done by the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Finance of this province. Without depriving him of any share of the praise that is justly due to him, I think I may be permitted to associate the names of other Hon'ble Members, both official and non-official, who were in the Finance Committee and helped in framing the budget. While talking of the budget, I should, with Your Honour's permission, draw Your Honour's attention to some inconveniences which non-official Members specially felt on account of the shortness of time and absence of opportunities in taking their due part and share in the discussion of the budget. I can never forget nor can I give adequate expression to my feeling when Your Honour announced in the old Council Chamber the advent of this new reformed Council. Those words were that to rule the country for the people was a thing of the past, and the country should be ruled through the people. That inspired in us a hope of the dawn of a day which we all looked for. The budget is the most important work that this Council has to do. It is really an adjustment of the wants and the needs of the different provinces under Your Honour's Government, and of the diverse communities that live under Your Honour's rule. Since I heard those pregnant and memorable words from Your Honour's lips in the old Council Chamber, it has been my sincere and earnest desire to co-operate as much as lies within the humble power of an insignificant Member like myself with the Government with a view to see to the fulfilment of the noble desire so forcibly expressed by Your Honour, and I have no doubt that the same feeling is experienced in a greater degree by the other Hon'ble Members, I mean the non-official Members of this Council, who on account of their better education, wider experience and perhaps better tact are in a position to render more valuable help in the work of the administration. But, Sir, in order that the non-official Members' services may be of any practical help to Your Honour's Government, it is necessary that they should have time and opportunities to make suggestions of a practical nature. I got a letter from the Secretary on the 5th of March asking me to send in my speech on the budget, so that it would reach him at 10 A.M. on the 7th. I got that letter before I received the budget. The budget reached me in the morning of the 6th. According to the present communications between Cuttack and Calcutta it was simply impossible for me to send a speech or to make any suggestions. Of course I could have done so, if I had sent it within two hours of the receipt of the budget. The budget is the result of the deliberations of several official Members of this Council, who are the ablest officers under Your Honour's Government belonging to a service which has been pronounced as the ablest service in the world. And the budget did not contain some of those explanatory remarks which were made on the day the Revised Financial Statement was placed before the Council. Of course it would be a very great compliment to a person to say that he was prepared to make suggestions or to supply omissions, which were the result of an oversight in a budget, in a couple of hours; but in my most ambitious moments I could not claim such a compliment. Sir, if the explanatory remarks did not actually accompany the budget, there would be resolutions and suggestions which would be wanting in the nature of being practical or which would not be desirable when read in the light of the explanatory remarks that followed. Some of those explanatory remarks were considered as taken as read. My humble submission before Your Honour is that while we non-official Members are willing to place at the service of the Government all our abilities and such time as we can spare, we pray that we should be given time and opportunities not only to make our suggestions practical, but also to save ourselves from undeserved criticism from the outside world. Impracticable suggestions and resolutions, Sir, are considered as coming from non-official Members who are determined to take an attitude of hostility towards Government. It is highly desirable that this impression should be avoided. My suggestion before Your Honour is that the budget may be introduced at a sitting of the Council with the explanatory remarks such as are necessary to explain the budget, and then the suggestions and resolutions may be taken up afterwards at a subsequent sitting, perhaps after an interval of three or four days or such time as would be available to us under the rules.

"Then the next matter to which I should refer, is the remarks which were made by the Hon'ble Mr. Gourlay with regard to the works done by the Agricultural Department. He gave us a very lucid account of the work that has been done by that department. He told us what has been done in the form of researches, experiments, demonstration farms, and he told us also that it was in contemplation to employ a teaching agency to induce the agricultural population to adopt the improved method of cultivation. But, Sir, here a question naturally suggests itself. Have we taken into account the conservative mood of the agriculturist? Is it not a fact that he is inclined to look with suspicion on all innovations? I know of a young man who is employed in some office under the Agricultural Department and who is full of zeal in pushing the claims and the interest of that department. I suppose it is one of his duties to induce the ordinary cultivator to adopt the improved methods of the department, but I know also that he has not been able to influence his parents to adopt his new methods. The whole family lands are cultivated according to the old methods. In these circumstances I beg to suggest that it would be more advantageous if little experimental farms are established and attached to village schools, and vernacular leaflets describing the results of the Agricultural Department's experiments in simple vernacular are placed in the hands of the boys and they are allowed to make the experiments. The parents should be allowed to visit the places to see what the children are doing, and consequently that would be a better means of disseminating the result than we can possibly get employing teaching agencies. I would also suggest, Sir, that some sort of industrial teaching be introduced into these village schools. Of course, there are visible signs of an industrial awakening in this country; it is most remarkable that though agriculture is the most ancient industry, and an established industry, which actually gives livelihood to 80 per cent. of the population, in spite of this, I have not seen any proposal to start an association to develop the agricultural industry nor any joint stock company formed to help the cultivator. Of course this is not the place here to discuss why that is so, but the fact remains. The present system of education is calculated to degenerate the young villagers—the artizan's sons—who have the idea that manual labour is something which should be avoided. One would expect that the literate son of an illiterate artizan, after he had received some elementary education, would apply that education to the improvement of the father's craft; but instead of that, that son always says that it is degrading to engage himself in manual labour. This is the lamentable result of the present system of education, because the present system does not train the hand with the head, and therefore it is necessary to remove this false impression that the hand should be trained with the head. Sir, tradition says that when Kalapahar went to Orissa, at the news of his march the hands of idols dropped off. It seems that as soon as education enters a village, the hands of the artizans drop off. The education—elementary education—has produced that effect. Sir, and with this industrial awakening there is a great demand for skilled labour, and we cannot have skilled labour unless it is fed from a literate labouring class which can only be supplied by these village schools, and skilled labour is as good as the clerk's work at the desk. As soon as the artizan's son receives some education, he despises manual labour and does not like to work with his hands. He thinks that it is not proper for him, after having received some education, to use his hands though his father employed his hand in earning his bread"

The PRESIDENT said :—

The Hon'ble MR. DAS said :—

"Sir, the budget contains a grant for primary education, and I wanted to draw Your Honour's attention to this important subject, and to submit that a portion of the grant should be utilized to give such a turn to elementary education as would meet the demands of the time. If I have not been able to place it before Your Honour, I may be pardoned. I was just trying to speak for the agricultural and for the artizan classes who are really deaf and dumb millions, who are deaf because they do not hear the speeches and deliberations of the Council, and dumb because they have no voice here, and I place their grievances before Your Honour for such redress and remedy as they may justly deserve."

The Hon'ble BABU BAIKUNTHA NATH SEN said :—

"We have been invited, as I understand, to have a discussion on the budget for the year 1910-11. In the old Council Chamber a certain procedure was observed. As regards the procedure to be followed in this enlarged Council, with commendable ability and lucidity the procedure to be observed with regard to the discussion of the budget was explained by the Hon'ble Member in charge of the budget, and that procedure has been followed. The budget was laid before the Council on the 26th March, an opportunity having been given to the different Members to discuss the budget, or rather the different heads or groups of receipts and disbursements, and after the Revised Financial Statement had been placed before the Council and the Members had had an opportunity of moving resolutions, though much advantage, could not be taken by them of this opportunity, on account of the short time they had to study the Revised Financial Statement. However, the budget has now been placed before the Council in a form when no practical gain can be had, and no profit can be made by making any discussion or offering any remarks with regard to the different heads and groups. At the same time, I venture to submit that in the old Council Members had the privilege on the occasion of the presentation of the budget of discussing and of offering observations and remarks and suggestions with regard to the general administration of the province, and, Sir, I believe that in this enlarged Council also the Members enjoy the same privileges. At least, in the rules I do not find anything that has curtailed that power, and it is on that belief I ask Your Honour's permission to offer some remarks with regard to the general administration of the province. The needs, wants and grievances of the people, I venture to submit, can be placed before Your Honour at this stage with suggestions for the removal of those grievances, and it is in that belief too that I would take the liberty of pressing certain questions before Your Honour, the final decision of which is dependent on the Supreme Government. My justification in placing these matters before Your Honour lies in the belief that the Supreme Government and the Provincial Government form one whole administrative machinery, and that any observations that are made before Your Honour will draw the attention of the Supreme Government, and that finally we may expect and hope better results. It is from a sense of duty and also from a belief as regards the privileges the Members enjoy, that while I was asked to send either a draft speech or notes, I had the honour to send some notes to our worthy Secretary, Mr. Wigley, and this morning I received a letter intimating that with regard to the notes that I sent, that Your Honour is not disposed to permit me to say anything with regard to the partition of Bengal. I may inform Your Honour most respectfully that I do not wish to say anything with regard to the political aspect of the question. My remarks with regard to the partition, if permitted to speak on that subject, would be confined to only fiscal matters and nothing else. Of course I would bow to Your Honour's decision, and I shall proceed as Your Honour is pleased to direct. With regard to the reform scheme and the reformed Council, I beg to submit that when the scheme by Lord Morley was announced and the constitution of the Council in accordance with the scheme was proposed, the public received the announcement with joy and entertained high expectations and hopes. In the despatch of His Excellency the Viceroy, in which he propounded a scheme and which, as it were, formed the basis of Lord Morley's scheme, His Excellency the Viceroy was pleased to observe that "the enlargement of the Legislative Councils and the extension of their functions to the discussion of administrative questions are the widest, most deep reaching and most substantial features of the scheme which we now put forward." Such was the scheme, and, I submit, great was the joy of the public and great were the expectations and hopes, but I deem it my duty to submit that after the regulations had been framed by the Governor-General in Council under the Indian Councils Act, 1909, a great disappointment has been caused. The special electorates for the special classes, I submit, are responsible for this feeling of dissatisfaction and disappointment. Representation by special electorates has minimised the liberalism of the scheme originally initiated and pronounced. As regards the special electorates, besides other objections which there may be with regard to the Muhammadan electorate, as far as my information goes, the Muhammadan community itself is not satisfied with the present system of electorate by selection of members to this Council. Then, as regards the separate electorates of the landholders, now I beg, Sir, to submit that the rules as framed do not indicate any intention on the part of the Government to exclude the tenure-holders."

The Hon'ble MR. SLACKE said:—

The PRESIDENT said :—

"The remarks of the Hon'ble Member are not relevant to the budget, and they are not strictly speaking in order, but he had given notice that he proposed to say something on this subject, and as the matter is of some importance, I think it better not to interpose. Therefore, I will not interfere to prevent the Hon'ble Member making the remarks he is making now, provided he confines himself to matters connected with the budget as closely as he can."

The Hon'ble BABU BAIKUNTHA NATH SEN said :—

"With regard to the landholders, I submit that the rules do not exclude tenure-holders, but the electoral roll, which has been prepared and in which tenure-holders find no place, gives rise to a certain misgiving. The landlords, i.e., the recorded proprietors, have been considered as representing the masses of the agriculturist population. The zamindar, strictly speaking, is not in touch with the masses, as he creates a tenure under him, and by sub-infeudation various degress of under-tenures are brought into existence; the zamindar merely collects rents from the tenure-holder, and so there is no proper representation of the masses. There are some zamindars, no doubt, who, owing to their position in society, their wealth, their dignity and their co-operation in regard to works of utility and charity, are looked upon as leaders, but they are not to be regarded as natural leaders of society simply because they are zamindars.

"But there is one other feature in this connection, and that is that the owners of Calcutta house property have been altogether ignored; in that class there are educated men and men of position and respectability. But, having regard to what has fallen from His Excellency and also from Your Honour the other day, I think that these Regulations must not be regarded as final or incapable of amendment, and we entertain the hope that in future with further experience there will be such modifications of the rules as will give general satisfaction.

"I have now to congratulate Your Honour for the Executive Council which will assist Your Honour in the administration of the province, and which Your Honour's efforts alone have secured for this province, as I understand. We hail this measure of reform with joy, and I may say unbounded joy, and feel confident that unimpeachable and unexceptionable selection of Members will be made by Your Honour in order to ensure success.

"I should like to say a few words with regard to the financial relations between the Provincial Government and the India Government. While, of course, the time does not permit me to dilate upon these points, I beg to submit with due deference and a considerable diffidence that the financial relations between the Government of India and the Provincial Governments do not appear to be based on sound principles. Instead of the Government of India making assessments of revenue to Provincial Governments with special grants, the Provincial Governments ought to be allowed to enjoy revenue derivable from their respective provinces subject to contribution of a certain percentage of the revenue to the Government of India. These matters no doubt will come forward some day or other in due time for resettlement," and I have no doubt the question will be raised, and I make these remarks not to embarrass Your Honour but to strengthen Your Honour's hands, so that Your Honour may be in a position to put forward the views of the people before the Supreme Council in order to secure larger revenue for the benefit of the country on juster and more liberal lines. Unless larger revenues are placed at your disposal, we cannot expect administrative improvement or works of public utility. Then, if Your Honour permits, I should like to say a few words only with regard to the partition. It has been said that the increase in expenditure on account of the separation is not real. Formerly before 1906-07 the expenditure per head of the new province was . . . . . ."

The PRESIDENT said :—

"The Hon'ble Member is out of order."

The Hon'ble BABU BAIKUNTHA NATH SEN said:—

"I bow to Your Honour's decision. The other day I had the honour to ask a question as regards the time when the separation of the Judicial and Executive functions might be introduced in Bengal. The answer that was given to me was not of a reassuring character, and I cannot hope that the system will be introduced within a measurable distance of time. However, I beg to submit to Your Honour that this is a measure of reform which ought to be introduced without further delay. We appeal therefore that steps may be taken for the introduction of this measure. I think that the past crimes which have been done by the anarchists or an apprehension of larger expenditure, and the possible weakening of the powers of the District Magistrate, should not stand in the way of giving this a trial.

"The next point to which I would beg to draw Your Honour's attention to, is about the pay and prospects of the members of both the Provincial, Judicial and Executive services. The question, I submit, is of importance, and under Your Honour's administration there are those capable officers who are dissatisfied on account of the defects with regard to their pay and prospects. That is a thing which should be put a stop to. I do not wish to say anything on that point, but I simply bring it forward that it may be considered hereafter.

"With regard to the expenditure contemplated by the budget, I beg to submit that greater efforts should be made for the prevention of malaria and for the improvement of sanitation. A great deal has been done by Your Honour last year, but greater things are still required. I plead specially for the district of Murshidabad to which I belong. Fortunately we have got two funds there endowed by Raja Rao Jogendra Narayan Roy Bahadur of Lalgola. He has endowed a lakh for the supply of drinking-water, from the interest of which eight wells are being sunk annually, and there is another fund of Rs. 50,000 for the improvement of sanitation generally. This is of course a drop in the ocean, but this fund was created with the the intention of inducing others to follow, and to induce the Government to take further steps. The Government has been following the principle of helping those who help themselves. The Murshidabad district would be justified in expecting a special grant every year from the Government under these two heads.

"I have almost finished my time. I may say one word more with regard to District Boards, which require some improvement, and the works of which have to be carefully watched. Being a resident of a mufassal village, I happen to know that the agriculturists, who bear the burden chiefly of these two cesses, do not enjoy adequate benefits from the District Board. Village roads are, generally speaking, neglected. Small allotments are made by the Local Boards, and no particular care is taken of the way in which the money is spent, and then there are no village roads connecting one village with another in seventy-five cases out of a hundred. This requires remedy. With regard to mufassal municipalities, the Chairman and executive officers ought to be given a freer hand, and there ought to be less strict supervision by the District Magistrates."

The Hon'ble Member was stopped at this point, as he had reached the 20 minutes' limit imposed by the President under rule 30 (3).

The Hon'ble SIR BIJAY MAHTAB, MAHARAJADHIRAJA BAHADUR of Burdwan, said:—

"Your Honour,—In the first place, I have to thank my Hon'ble friend, Mr. Wheeler, for his courtesy to us, the Members of the Finance Committee, in discussing the matters that have been incorporated in the Budget before us. As I was one of the members of that Committee, there is no need for me to take up the time of this Council by making any detailed observations on the allotments that have been made. I am glad to find that Your Honour has consented to give an amount for the improvement of the Darjeeling Zilla School. I need hardly remind Your Honour of the inconvenience we all felt in October last at the last prize distribution of the school. But this of course is not the only reason why this grant should have been made, for it being the only school in the Darjeeling district, it is essential that the improvements which have been sanctioned years ago, should be proceeded on with.

"Regarding sanitation, I have only got one general observation to make. No doubt the municipalities in Bengal are grateful to the Government for the help that they receive. But there are certain municipalities, Sir, which do not receive the benefit by the one-third grant on the part of the Government. The general rule is that a municipality has got to collect, if there is a water-work scheme or drainage scheme, two-thirds of the amount required, and the Government gives the rest. But there are municipalities for whom it is very difficult to collect two-thirds of the amount required, and I only wish to bring this matter to the notice of Your Honour's Government, so that in special cases the grant may be raised to half the amount required. Taking into consideration the unhealthy condition of Bengal in general, I trust such grants will not be grudged.

"My hon'ble and esteemed friend, Babu Baikuntha Nath Sen, referred to some of the disadvantages of the landlords electorate. As Your Honour permitted him to broach that subject in the Council, though it was not quite relevant to the Budget before us, I beg to make just a few observations. I do not wish to contend in this Council about the 'natural leadership.' It is a controversial question, and as such I shall leave it aside. But there is no doubt that, because the other side have had advantages over us for so long, they resent when they come in contact with capable men among the zamindars who are the born leaders of the people.

"Regarding the defects in the electorates, I think they can easily be dealt with departmentally after hearing from representative zamindars the real causes of complaint. With these few words, I beg to support the Budget as it now stands."

The Hon'ble BABU HRISHIKESH LAHA said:—

"Your Honour,—It would have been a matter of great congratulation if the first Budget that has been presented in the first session of the Reformed Council had been a prosperity Budget. But still we can congratulate Your Honour that notwithstanding the unfavourable position of Government, due to rise in prices, anarchical prosecutions and other adverse circumstances, the Government could present a progressive Budget. The prospect of plentiful crops and consequent fall in prices have enabled the Financial Secretary to divert a portion of the grain compensation allowance to useful purposes. But though prices have fallen to a certain extent, the cost of living is still dear. I would therefore beg leave to draw the attention of Government to consider the wages of small salaried servants, such as peons, etc. The question is a very large one and will involve additional outlay, but it is better to meet it in a way which will enable the Government to dispense with the grain compensation allowance altogether. It is indeed gratifying to observe that provision has been made for Rs. 1,10,000 in order to give effect to the recommendation of the Ministerial Officers' Salaries Committee for increasing the pay of the low paid ministerial officers. They are a class of overworked officers, and deserve encouragement.

"Education.—A liberal grant has been made towards the expenses of education, but I should be permitted to observe that the grant for primary schools for boys could have been increased to a greater amount than what has been allotted in the Budget. It is no doubt true that Government grants a further sum to the District Boards for this purpose, but it is considered too small to meet all the requirements, and grants-in-aid and prizes have to be withheld for want of funds. I regret to find that the allotment in respect of technical and industrial schools should be less than what was allotted in the Budget of 1909-10, and that no lump provision has been made in the present Budget for technical education as was done in the last Budget. There can be no doubt that there is a growing demand for technical education, and Government ought to satisfy it by increasing the number of technical schools, and thereby educating the people in the useful arts so as to enable them to provide for their every day necessities.

"Sanitation.—The allotment under this head has not received that consideration which it deserves. The provision of Rs. 2,33,000 is much less than the actuals of 1908-09 and 1909-10, and considering the number of people that are carried away every year by malaria, small-pox, cholera and plague, a larger sum should have been provided for coping with the ravages of these diseases, and I hope that the allotted sum may be spent to the fullest extent during the ensuing year. The provision of Rs. 2,00,000 for the supplementary purchase of cinchona bark will be of great practical benefit; and if facility is given to the sale of quinine, it will be of great help to the people both as a preventive and as a cure.

"The increased grant of Rs. 8,90,000 to augment their resources will be greatly appreciated by the District Boards. In this connection, I hope it will not be considered out of place if I ask that the Government may be pleased to issue orders that special grants should be made to the Union Committees which have been given larger powers under the Bengal Local Self-Government Amendment) Act, 1908, 'in matters of improvement of water-supply and drainage, the regulations of buildings and conservancies, and the prevention of public nuisances.' In former years their sphere of usefulness was considerably restricted for want of funds; and if funds be provided, greater care would be taken for the initiation of works of rural sanitation on a larger scale. The present apathy which is so very apparent will very probably disappear, and intelligent interest will be taken for cleanliness and supply of good drinking-water.

"Separation of the Judicial and Executive service.—It is much to be regretted that Your Honour's Government have not yet been able to give effect to the scheme of separation of the Judicial and Executive services by making any provision for that purpose. If during the administration of Your Honour, who has got such a large-hearted sympathy for the people and such a keen sense of justice, the much-needed separation does not take place, then it is to be feared that the scheme will not be given effect to in the near future. If on the score of expense the scheme could not be carried out in all the districts, it could be introduced in some of them at least without entailing much cost upon Government. This would save disappointment, and the expectations regarding this much-needed reform would be realised to a certain extent."

The Hon'ble MR. DIP NARAYAN SINGH said:—

"Your Honour,—With Your Honour's permission I wish to make a few remarks on this year's budget that has been so ably placed before the Council by the Hon'ble the Finance Member. Sir, of all the privileges that have been conferred on the non-official members in this Council there is none which is more valued by us, which will be more jealously guarded by us, than the privilege of passing Resolutions on the Revised Financial Statement. To-day's discussion, Your Honour, although it will serve a very useful purpose in so much as it will place Your Honour's Government in possession of the knowledge of the general wants and wishes of the people, will have no effect in altering the budget by a single pice. The time for that, was the day when the Revised Financial Statement was placed before the Council, and I beg to submit that on that occasion far too little time was allowed us to frame our Resolutions. I beg to request that Your Honour be graciously pleased to allow us at least two weeks for that purpose in the future. I assure you, I am not asking a day too much. To go through 70 or 80 pages of solid facts and figures which are generally embodied in this intricate though interesting and learned document, nothing short of the two weeks will be necessary. I have further to submit, Sir, that in the rules that govern the budget discussion sub-clause (f) clause 3, unnecessarily circumscribes the debate. It lays down that we may not criticise any decision of the Imperial Government in respect of Provincial finance. I beg to point out, Sir, that an occasion may arise when a certain grant made by the Imperial Government for a specific purpose can, in the opinion of some of us, be better utilised for some other more pressing purpose. I do not see any harm, Sir, in discussing the matter in the Council and placing our recommendations on this point before the Imperial Government and asking them to reconsider their decision. Coming to the budget itself, it is a matter for rejoicing that, on the whole, we stand better to-day than we did a year ago. Thanks to the large extra grant from the Imperial Government that Your Honour's Government received last year, and also to the courageous policy, if I am allowed to say so, of retrenchment and economy which Your Honour introduced in the financial administration of the province last year, we find that we are able to look forward to a more hopeful year and to a better closing balance than we did last time. Going through the revenue side of the budget, it is a matter of gratification that the Hon'ble the Finance Member has been cautious in estimating revenue from excise and stamps; although personally I think that the revenues under these two heads will be much larger than anticipated. I do not for a moment blame the Hon'ble the Finance Member for under-estimating the revenue, because in a Financier I consider it to be a fault on the right side to under-estimate revenue and over-estimate the expenditure; and I hope Your Honour that the closing balance will show that the Finance Member has erred on the right side of the expenditure sheet as well. Most of the other revenues are dependent on circumstances that are absolutely beyond our control, but with a hopeful prospect of expanding trade and with a good monsoon I hope we shall be able to show a better closing balance than the minimum of 20 lakhs. Sir, it is the expenditure side of the budget, however, which can more usefully claim the attention of the non-official members, and I am glad to say that in this year's expenditure side of the budget we have very little to say against any of the items budgeted. Of course, Your Honour, at first sight there are some allotments which appear very excessive and extravagant to the untrained eye. I refer to the amounts under the heads of Police and Law. These two items, Your Honour, seem undoubtedly very big this year, but in the present circumstances of the country I would be the last to ask Your Honour to exercise any drastic economy under these two heads. For the faults of a few the whole province has to suffer, and I only hope that when these temporary evils that have come upon Bengal have passed away, the temporary expenditure will not be allowed to remain as permanent charges on the revenue.

"In the expenditure under the head of Law and Justice, I notice the upkeep of the High Court is responsible for something like 14 lakhs and 53 thousand rupees. I have not been able to understand why, when both the Provinces of Western and Eastern Bengal benefit by the High Court, only Your Honour's Government should share the whole expense. I suggest that we should ask Eastern Bengal and Assam to contribute its fair share in the upkeep of the High Court.

"There are some lump sums allotted to various purposes, the details of which, I think, should have been put down in the Budget. The Hon'ble Babu Braja Kishor Prasad, in his speech which has been taken as read, has pointed out the item of 11 lakhs and 80 thousand rupees as grant-in-aid for education, and he has very ably pressed the claims of my province. I shall not recapitulate what he has said but simply join with him in the prayer that the province of Bihar may have due consideration when this grant of 11 lakhs and 80 thousand rupees is being distributed. In connection with this, Your Honour, I find that 59 thousand rupees has been allotted to technical education. In one of the speeches of one of the Hon'ble Members which has been taken as read, he has pressed before the Council the claims of the Association for the Improvement of Scientific Education in Bengal and I am obliged therefore to put forward the claims of a similar association that exists in Bihar. If this 59 thousand is spent over technical education and anything is to be given to Bengal, I submit that Bihar also has a claim over the grant. Four lakhs and fifty thousand, I find, has been set aside as a grant for the improvement of sanitation. The Hon'ble Kumar Shiba Nandan Prasad Singh has spoken about the needs of Monghyr in this connection, and I trust Your Honour will give full consideration to that municipality. Your Honour, the recent recrudescence of plague in Bihar places us in a most difficult position, and when you are distributing the grant on sanitation, Your Honour's Government will, I hope, have in view the fact that large sums will be necessary for the prevention of this disease.

"The claims of higher education and sanitation are very great, but I am sure that Your Honour's Government will find some means of satisfying these demands in the years to come. But I confess, when the problem of primary education stares us in the face, I find no way of meeting this more pressing demand To anyone who has followed the trend of public opinion in this country, to anyone who has observed the signs of the times, it is easy to foretell that in the near future the demand for primary education will be very loud and very persistent. It is all very well to say, Sir, that we must wait—that we must cut our coat according to our cloth, but when we consider that not only the countries of Europe and America but our neighbours in Asia are outstripping us in the race for knowledge,—when we find that the experiment of universal and free primary education is being successfully tried in a province of our own country,—I mean Baroda;—when we notice that the Government of Bengal is spending much less on primary education than the Provinces of Bombay and Madras, I think Your Honour will agree with me that there is some excuse for the impatience of the people. I do not know how this demand will have to be satisfied because it needs a larger amount of money than we can possibly spare under present circumstances. Whether Your Honour's Government will be compelled to ask the Imperial Government to take charge of the whole department of primary education; whether we shall be obliged to ask for much larger grants on this head; whether, even at the risk of a certain amount of discontent in the service, Your Honour's Government will be obliged to apply the pruning knife to the various branches of administrative expenditure, or whether in the last resort we shall have to take powers to levy a provincial tax for education—is not for me to discuss in the meeting to-day. I only know that we shall have to face this problem soon, and some means will have to be evolved to meet the legitimate demand of the people for universal primary education. I only wish the Government to take note of the shadow that has already been cast of coming events in the future. With these remarks I beg to support the budget."

The Hon'ble BABU KIRTANAND SINHA said:—

"May it please Your Honour—

School inspection and School management.—Looking at the different heads of expenditure under 'Education,' I am struck with the disproportionate expenditure on 'inspection' as compared to that on 'management' of schools. Fully admitting the value of inspection when kept within proper bounds, I mean when it is not allowed to run away into unnecessary and vexatious interference, throwing work in the schools off its accustomed grove and arresting its progress—fully admitting the value of inspection, I say,—in making the schools composed of good materials exert themselves and keep up to the requisite standard of efficiency, I am sure it is no specific for bad materials. It has not the virtue of the philosopher's stone of transmitting baser metals into gold; and unfortunately a number of schools that have to put up with unsatisfactory working materials is not small. In them we must try a different remedy, replace inefficient and ill-qualified teachers by efficient, well-qualified and better paid teachers.

"The attention of Government was invited the other day in this Council to the weakening of the teaching staff in the zilla schools in Bihar. Granting for argument's sake the necessity of appointing Bihari graduates in the Bihar high schools, though I do not see what harm there could have been in continuing the old practice of appointing Bengali graduates as upper teachers, the evil complained of might have been easily averted if more had been spent on 'Management' and less on 'Inspection;' for I feel confident that there would be no lack of Bihari graduates ready to take up the work of teaching if the prospects of the profession had been a little improved.

"While attaching full weight to the practical difficulty urged by the Hon'ble Mr. Küchler in reducing at this stage the overgrown bulk of the inspecting body, I cannot help thinking that the evil might be minimised by arresting the expansion of the inspecting staff, by knocking off a few items of expenditure which are neither inevitable nor very pressing, and by other departmental retrenchments, which, should, of course be left entirely to the discretion of the wise and able administrator of the department.

"A considerable amount set free in this way may be very profitably employed in improving the management of schools, secondary and primary, both in respect of their staff and teaching accessories.

"The Maktabs and Technical education.—The construction of seven modern maktabs, the attention given to the building requirements of some of the zilla schools and the establishment of a number of small weaving schools in different parts of the province are some of the most pleasing features of the Budget. The appointment of Mr. Denning as Inspector of Technical Schools and Industrial Education is a decidedly practical step in the right direction, and I have every hope that, through his valuable assistance and careful supervision, technical and industrial education of the province will be placed on a sounder and more systematic basis. At the same time I cannot but express a wish that greater attention had been given by Government to this branch of education which bids fair, under the present circumstances, to prove the best proof of the prosperity of the country. There is need for a larger number of schools of this kind; one in each division would not be too many, and the existing schools under Government or private management have much room for improvement. In this connection I would like to bring the situation of Bihar specially to Your Honour's notice. The provision made for technical education in that part of the province is decidedly too small for its requirements, and too insignificant to produce the great benefit it might otherwise have done. The grant in the Budget on technical and industrial education, though comparing very favourably with the revised estimate of the year just closed, appears, therefore in my humble judgment, to be much too small.

"Colleges.—There has been a proposal made for the removal of the Presidency College from its present site. I do not consider it advisable to spend one lakh and fifty thousand rupees on a new building for a Physical Laboratory attached to the existing College premises. The plan, which, from the manner in which it has been put forward by the Hon'ble Mr. Küchler, does not appear to be very urgent or pressing, may be allowed to stand over till the question of removal be finally settled. Meanwhile the amount thus made available may be laid out in larger grants to private Colleges, for in spite of the help so opportunely rendered by Government in the last few years, most of these private Colleges, specially those in Bihar, are still in a precarious condition. Fifty thousand rupees appear to me to be too inadequate a grant to render them material assistance in improving their laboratories, erecting or extending their buildings, or improving the pay and prospects of their staffs. It would not be amiss, therefore, if the Government were to increase the grant to enable the private Colleges to improve their position."

The Hon'ble BABU DEBA PRASAD SARADHIKARI said:—

"I owe a reparation, and I shall try to make it straight away. That the man on the spot ought to have larger discretionary powers, is an axiom of decentralization to which Your Honour has given fitting and practical recognition by providing in the Budget that Divisional Commissioners should have the control of certain ear-marked sums for local purposes. This, I take it, Sir, is separate from and independent of a sum of a lakh of rupees at Your Honour's disposal. If properly utilised, such grants ought to be replete with great and quick good, and real decentralization in some of its best aspects will soon be on its trial in this novel and acceptable shape. I am sorry I wanted to take away some of this grant when I wanted money for the Judicial Service; to follow up matters to their logical sequence, we ought to have a larger Provincial Decentralization when the next settlement is made, and we ought not to have depended upon Imperial doles for wiping out our unavoidable debt balance when the Province has so much more of its own.

"In examining some of the improvements of revenue on the credit side, one is struck with an increase of Rs. 44,000, 'due to larger recoveries on account of punitive police,—' larger, one may take it, than the authorities themselves thought expedient to estimate. The increase is an eloquent testimony of silence, if one may so call it, as to the readiness of the law-abiding sections of the community quickly and ungrudgingly to submit to all that is demanded and required of them during the critical times that, to the misfortune of the rulers and the ruled, the country is passing through. May the clouds roll by soon, and there be no need to count upon such an increase.

"Decrease under the heading 'Excise' is attributed to high prices. The Government of India has been pleased to order an interim enquiry into the causes of high prices of food, and when the enquiry is concluded, we shall be pleased to learn that high prices had nothing to do with the falling off in excise revenue, and that a more enlightened excise policy inaugurated during the opening year of Your Honour's regime brought about the change. Remarks on that policy and the new law just introduced would be premature; but a warning word may not be out of place, having regard to the noticeable falling off of opium revenue, though in itself it is a matter of Imperial concern. Because our opium is at a discount abroad, and because revenue has to suffer thereby and therefrom, we ought not to relax our vigilance to see that inland and provincial consumption is not facilitated by careless handling of the safeguards that the law has provided.

"Stagnation in trade is said to be responsible for the falling off of stamp duties and assessed taxes, which, apart from decrease of revenue, in itself a sufficient evil, is otherwise a matter of grave concern. The need of close and anxious enquiry seems to be apparent in this direction as well. There is a noticeable falling off in registration fees, in spite of which considerable fresh outlay on the department has been provided in the Budget. The reason of decrease is said to be 'chiefly a decrease in the number of registrations effected.' This by itself is not very illuminating as an explanation, gravely finding place as such, in a sober Budget statement. We have been accustomed to hear that during bad years and on account of bad harvests, there is more assignment of landed property by way of sale or mortgage which augments registration fees during scarcity, and we had to plead in this Council for some special remissions and relaxation in these unfortunate cases. Can it be that the process has been reversed, and 'stagnation in trade' and 'high prices' have been the concomitants of falling off of registration revenue? The problem is an interesting one, and needs elucidation. It can hardly be that the same nostrum of an explanation will meet symptoms of widely differing cases, and a more careful diagnosis seems to be necessary. There is a noticeable falling off in the receipts of jail manufactures which is not sufficiently explained by the lessening demands of the Ordnance Department. The public is a large buyer of jail product, if its varied requirements are met and if the prices are reasonable. To avoid competition with private trading and manufacturing interests, it is quite right and in accordance with long-standing Government policy that jail prices should not be inordinately low. The quality of jail articles is generally of the best; and if the prices are proportionately reasonable and not purposely prohibitive, much of the loss on this score may be avoided. Where large outlay of public money is needed, an overscrupulous schedule of prices in the interests of private trade ought to be a matter of scrutiny, particularly if heavy loss is the result of such rigorous views. Some unobjectionable means ought not to be difficult to find. An increase in jail expenses is shown on account of an increase in the number of prisoners. Unfortunate as the increase is, there ought to be a proportionate rise in the jail income as well.

"On the expenditure side of the revised estimate a large decrease is shown, in explanation of some of which we see it stated that a lump grant of Rs. 20,000 for additional Deputy Magistrates and Deputy Collectors was not utilized. We have a renewed lump grant of Rs. 31,000 this year for the special benefit of the Settlement Department. This will not cover the whole of the ground intended to be covered last year by the lump grant of Rs. 70,000, for we see in the explanatory note that, not only was not the lump grant utilized, but there were actual 'savings under Survey and Settlement and Land Records.' The Hon'ble Mr. Gourlay, who until recently presided over some of the departments concerned, may have been responsible for some of these savings, and if so, he has my hearty felicitations. He has recently been telling us that 'every service is capable of improvement, from the highest to the lowest, and the members of every service are naturally anxious for the improvement of their pay and prospects; but there must be some general principles upon which such a question can be considered.' I do not know whether the absence of the timely and effective recognition of such principles stood in the way of this lump provision being utilized last year, or why a renewal of a lesser lump grant this year was considered sufficient. So far as my hon'ble friend's own service is concerned, the need for 'improvement from the highest to the lowest' seems to be appreciated, of which the Budget contains a fair indication. I have no doubt that the strengthening of the Civil Service so far as this province is concerned, which has been budgeted this year, is all needed, and if more be needed, more will have to be and ought to be provided for. I believe in a strong, capable, satisfied, and, therefore, sympathetic Civil Service, and I do not believe in a starved and discontented service. But I also believe in strong, contented and reasonably paid subordinate services, and was sincerely glad to hear the Hon'ble Mr. Gourlay's willing testimony as to the capability and necessity of improvement of some of these services. I shall not stop here to recount the happily lessening woes of the Subordinate Executive Service. But we miss the provisions that would be imperative, if and when the Judicial and the Executive Services are separated, to which reference has been made by the Hon'ble Babu Baikuntha Nath Sen. We are without information as to when this beneficent measure of reform, long promised and longer expected, is to be inaugurated. There is one class of Deputy Magistrates in particular whose claims I would specially like to bring to the notice of this Council in passing, and that is those that have to discharge the onerous and exacting duties of Personal Assistants to our Divisional Commissioners, and who, in charge of non-regulation districts, have alike to perform civil and criminal work of an equally exacting nature, away from all help and conveniences that were open to the ordinary District Judge or Subordinate Judge. The duties of the former class of officials in some divisions will be soon heavier, now that legislative duties are added to the ordinary duties of the Commissioners.

"Speaking of some of the subordinate services and of my hon'ble friend and esteemed colleague, Babu Baikuntha Nath Sen, I may for one moment refer to the latter's complaint about my withdrawing my resolution for the bettering of the Subordinate Judicial Service. I am glad and thankful to receive my hon'ble friend's assurances of support, and I may inform him that I shall soon claim the fulfilment of such assurances. I am also in hopes of being able to talk over matters with the Hon'ble Mr. Gourlay round the table which may clear up the ground. In the best interests of the service which the Government and all of us have at heart, I did not see the utility of pressing the motion with the certainty of defeat and the equal certainty of inability to bring up the question within the statutory period under Council rules. There was no scheme ready, as I gathered, which might be given effect to, even if the Budget allotment for which I asked was made; and as I was not bent on a mere academic threshing out of an eminently practical and businesslike question, I thought it best to withdraw my motion for the time being, for which I had Your Honour's kind permission. Pending, however, the settlement and acceptance of the larger scheme for betterment of the Judicial Service, may not such questions as those of privilege and other leave, joining time and such other matters as have previously been mentioned on different occasions and which are not dependent on Budget grants, be separately taken up by the Government and the High Court? I hope to be able to bring up the question in a definite shape soon, when I also hope to have the support not only of my hon'ble colleague who complained of my withdrawal under a misapprehension, but also of my other colleagues on the Council. When some time ago Your Honour was referring to the impending Council reforms, Your Honour was pleased to say that official Members of the Council would henceforth have to cultivate the more difficult and delicate art of persuasion, where they had been accustomed to rule, as a matter of routine. Such a strain has not been yet put on the official Members, and is not likely to be put on them soon. The non-official Members who wish to make themselves responsible for any Resolution, have for the present greater need of cultivation like that indicated by Your Honour, and the opportunities for such cultivation are few and are scantily availed of. Hon'ble Members come from distant parts of the Province, put in the requisite Council work and as hurriedly depart, and there is little opportunity of effective and purposeful interchange of views. If non-official Members know each other so little, we can hardly complain that the official Members know the non-official Members less. We are thankful to note that some official Members, like the Hon'ble the President and the Hon'ble the Vice-President, have been making strenuous efforts for betterment of affairs in this direction. The "dead wall" that separated the "inanimate councils" of older times, vividly recalled to mind by His Excellency the Viceroy the other day, is fast crumbling away, and it would be a pity if an inter-non-official wall was allowed to spring up instead. There have naturally been considerable additions to the establishment required in connection with the expansion of the Legislative Council. All this is necessary, and the way that the department is working under the altered conditions deserves all praise. May not, however, some clerical assistance and ordinary conveniences be secured to Members who may have need of it in connection with measures and matters in which they happen to take an interest? The indefatigable Secretary of the Council and his subordinates, as well as the Press, do all they can to accommodate Hon'ble Members who seek their assistance, and have often to go out of their way to give some relief. But their resources are limited and barely sufficient for their own departments. It would be satisfactory, therefore, to put matters in this connection on a working basis, if possible.

"The Provincial Executive Service does not happen to be the only service that had an unutilized grant. The Medical establishment also similarly suffered, and the provision for the improvement of the pay of Civil Medical Assistants also stood over. We do not know whether the provision now to be given effect to will have a retrospective effect in a way similar to that allowed in the case of the ministerial service. There is a distinct Budget estimate for meeting the arrears in the latter case on the basis of the retrospective effect, and we do not know whether the last year's Budget provision has gone into other channels or has merely been absorbed by the vanishing balance The grant for bettering of the Assistant Surgeons' ranks will, I trust, not similarly have to mark time, because of the non-completion or hanging up of the necessary scheme, and a long-waiting service ought to have its own as soon as possible.

"We are, without any explanation as to why important and well-to-do municipalities like the Calcutta and Howrah Municipalities have been allowed large relief like grants-in-aid towards the cost of the drainage of the fringe area, realignment of drains in the neighbourhood of the Presidency Jail, and for the widening of Seal's Lane in Howrah. Some of these items are not new, and have come over from previous years. In the case of the Presidency Jail alignment, the grant may be probably due to action that Government has been obliged to take. But one would have thought that the Victoria Memorial Trustees would have or would have been made to come to the rescue. But the obligations part-covered by these grants are essentially municipal, and though in normal years there might be no objection to relief of this nature, in years of stress and strain like the present we ought to be cautious. I hesitate to say this in the presence of the Hon'ble Mr. Earle and the Hon'ble Sir Charles Allen whom we are glad to welcome back, and of the Hon'ble Mr. Apcar particularly, as time was, not very long ago, when I myself would have pressed for relief like this. But the poorer municipalities have larger claim on the Provincial revenues, and relief that would be more welcome and necessary in places like Hooghly and Puri, where drainage and water-supply questions are growing acute, is absorbed in the richer tracts that can and ought to afford to pay their own way and possibly more.

"Under the heading 'Land Revenue' has been provided an expenditure of Rs. 6,000 for survey of waste lands, in view of the contemplated reversion to the old system of giving leases in the Sunderbans to large capitalists. The system was long in vogue, and had been instrumental, I believe, in reclaiming large tracts through the help of private enterprise, and the rules familiarised by the Waste Land Manual, though capable of improvement, was a fairly good working machinery. Exception, however, was taken to them under "expert advice," it is believed. How the khas administration succeeded will be told by the history of Fraserganj, and quietus was fittingly given to the scheme which was very much of the Golden Crown order, quite early in the beginning of the present regime. The present provision is a commendable beginning of business-like management which ought to have large possibilities that were prematurely and unwarrantably interfered with. The rules are, I believe, in revision, and settlement ought to be possible with other than only large capitalists. Smaller holdings than those insisted on under previous rules ought to be possible, and would be better conducive to the ends in view.

"Last year I unsuccessfully pleaded for restoration of the old scale of travelling allowances to Sub-Deputy Collectors. I would like to bring forward this year the claims of another class of deserving and responsible public servants, the low scale of whose pay is bound to interfere with the efficiency of the service. Our kanungos, whose claim to better treatment has been recognised by drafting a small number into the Sub-Deputy grade, have two grades—one on Rs. 50 and the other on Rs. 75, without any travelling allowances below 15 miles, I believe. These are the officers who do the bulk of what are known as petty settlement work, manage the grant of takavi and other loans, and do other important miscellaneous work of more or less the type that the Civil Court amin has to do. Instances have not been wanting where services of some members of the body had to be dispensed with on the ground of supposed mismanagement, and as large settlement work is in progress in many parts of the province, a stronger service seems to be needed. Till the question of pay can be reconsidered, a more liberal scale of travelling allowances may be permitted.

"As I dealt at length with educational topics when dealing with the Financial Statement, I shall shortly refer to some only of the pressing matters.

"The Hon'ble Mr. Küchler's invitation for expression of opinion about the Presidency College was not at all responded to in the way that was expected. Though I was opposed to the removal of the College when the plebiscite was last taken, I have, as I said on the previous occasion, now a free mind in the light of the experiences that I had in connection with the working of other institutions just starting. The removal would be desirable, if it could be effected with due regard to other interests and public opinion, which it would be judicious and desirable to ascertain over again. The answer to the question of the Hon'ble Babu Bhupendra Nath Basu at the last meeting of the Council may probably be the first step towards such an enquiry. Calcutta must continue to be the centre of culture and education for a long while to come, and I am little in sympathy with the desire to shift the centre of educational gravity from where it has been since the commencement of the present system. None is in deeper sympathy than myself with the efforts of Bihar and Orissa Colleges, whether private or State-owned, to better themselves, and I have consistently fought for such improvement. But the student would be distinctly the poorer for missing the benefit that the Presidency College has or ought to have to give, be he a Bihari, or Uriya or a Bengali. Whatever will really improve the Presidency College, deserves the loyal, hearty and whole-hearted support of all who have the true cause of education in Bengal at heart; and if removal from its present site to a more suitable site in the neighbourhood of Calcutta is a sine qua non and is demonstratedly necessary, I would be prepared to support it. But we must now or never do all that is needful, or as Principal James has said in the course of his vigorous appeal through the Press, it will be too late in three months. The most practical and businesslike way of dealing with the situation if anything is to be done would be to defer the grant of a lakh and-a-half, the temporary diversion of which to other channels I invited.

On the last occasion I referred to the apparent non-provision of students mess grants. Since I came into this Council Chamber this morning, I was glad to be informed by the Hon'ble Mr. Küchler that the requisite amount will be met out of the general grants-in-aid. While Government is giving us liberal aid, a little more ought no doubt to be got out of those who benefit by the grant which would relieve the present burden. But the Board's scheme will not and cannot be self-supporting for a long time, and unless an adequate Government scheme continues, it will hopelessly collapse, and the University regulations on the subject are bound to be thwarted and defeated. I am sorry the scope of house allowance to Calcutta Professors is to be limited in the way recently stated by the Hon'ble Mr. Küchler. It will serve little useful purpose, will bring no relief, and may add to complications and soreness of feelings. In passing, I would plead for treatment of Uriya and domiciled Uriya students in regard to Engineering scholarships on the same lines as have been decided on in connection with the Law scholarships.

"I notice an omnious movement in the neighbourhood of the Secretary's table which warns me that I am perilously near the time limit, and I shall not expatiate. But before I conclude, I must explain that improvement in the status of the Provincial and Subordinate Educational Services cannot be further delayed, and new appointments that will be needed under broadening schemes will furnish occasions for promotion of deserving members of the Provincial Service to the Indian Service, for which we have long pressed. It is a wonder and a pity that while sanctioned appointments are waiting to be filled up, and while experienced and eminent Professors with high European degrees, and some of world-wide fame are slowly pining away in the lower grades, they should have to stand aside indefinitely in favour of uncertain quantities.

"We are grateful that Babu Ishan Chandra Ghosh, a head-master, has been appointed to a high and responsible office,—that of Assistant Director of Public Instruction,—which, I hope, he will justify. This, I take it, is an earnest of the desire of the Government to do justice to the claims of the branch of the service to which this meritorious officer belongs, and of the subordinate branch as well. But there are higher and better opportunities, as I have just indicated, which ought to be readily and liberally availed of."

"Sir, my hon'ble friend, the member for the University, has taken exception to the grants made to the Calcutta Corporation in connection with the drainage near the jail and also in the fringe area. I think it is rather cruel of him to take exception to it because there has been no provision made which has not been necessary or called for. The drainage near the jail was altered because of the requirements of Government, and in connection with the fringe area the question is not that there has been so much paid there, but that there has not been more than has been granted because the action of Government interfered with the drainage of Calcutta which entailed very large expenditure by the Corporation. I am, however, very glad to find myself in agreement with my hon'ble friend and to find that he has changed his opinion with regard to the Presidency College. The Hon'ble Member the Director of Public Instruction has made a reference to an item affecting his own department which, I think I cannot allow to pass by without notice. He has invited such of the non-official members as take any interest in the subject to give expression to their opinions in connection with the grant of one lakh and fifty thousand rupees for the construction of a Physical Laboratory in the Presidency College. Now, Sir, the proposal seems desirable enough. The amount budgetted is not regarded as being excessive. There does not seem, to an ordinary observer, any question of a deep character underlying it, but Sir, the Hon'ble Member has indicated that if the grant is utilised for the purpose in view, there will be a long step taken towards the settlement of an important issue: whether the Presidency College shall be maintained on its present site or be removed to another locality, chosen with special regard to the healthiness and its accessibility, in the outskirts of Calcutta. Sir, it was not my intention to intervene in this debate on the Financial Statement to-day, but when I gathered from an Hon'ble Member that if I did not speak now on a subject in which I have taken great interest, I should for ever have to keep silent, I feel it incumbent upon myself to break the silence if for no other reason than that I may not be precluded from urging my views on a later occasion. I am conscious, Sir, that we have not the main issue before us and we are discussing an important point incidentally with relation merely to a single item in the Budget, but whatever the impression created in the minds of the Hon'ble Members in this Council by this circumstance, I trust they will accept my assurance that it is a matter not of an insignificant character but of some importance, I may say, even to the administration of this Province. I approach this matter with more confidence, because, although I have examined it wholly independent of them, I find myself in harmony with the educational authorities of the Province, and my conclusions cannot be regarded as not worthy of consideration since I find them to be the same as those of the expert advisers of the Government. It seems to me, Sir, that the question will be complicated if the Government will not take action such as is advised by the educational authorities, because then they will be going counter to their own expert adviser in a matter of some delicacy which will affect the future generation of this Province in their educational side. Sir, I crave the indulgence of the Members if I examine the objections that have been raised to it. One point strikes one at the outset, that Indian opinion has changed on the question. My hon'ble friend on my right representing the University was at first oppposed, but now is in favour of it, and that is only an indication of the general feeling of the Indians on the question. I may mention the Hon'ble Mr. Dip Narayan Singh has told me himself that he omitted by an oversight speaking upon the subject, and there are others in Council also, who are in favour of this change. There may be in the minds of those who have been educated in the Presidency College a sentiment that it should be maintained in the site in which they themselves have received their education. After all, Sir, it should be the advantage of the present students which is most to be considered. I by no means wish to slight the sentiment because I know what influence it has whether in politics or any other question, and I certainly would not under-value the force of sentiment in connection with schools. It is an index of the affection of the old students to their school and so in some degree a gauge of the efficiency of their old school. Now, Sir, sentiment is what perhaps has stronger force with regard to schools in England than anywhere else, and yet we have seen Charterhouse with a record of three centuries and, the Christ Hospital, more popularly known as the Bluecoat School with, I believe, a larger record, moved from the heart of London 35 and 40 miles, respectively, into the country, to healthier localities. I would submit and urge upon Government the necessity of regarding more the advantages to those in statu pupilari than the sentiments that may be entertained by some ex-pupils. Then I regard the question as comprised in two aspects. There is the teaching in class and there is the education or up-bringing of the students of the college. Even for residence, we find that the Indian community now have become reluctant to live on main thoroughfares. The inconvenience caused by the turmoil and the noise is quite sufficient explanation for their objection. How much greater is the objection then for an educational institution which requires a quiet and peaceful atmosphere, to be placed on one of the most crowded thoroughfares of the metropolis. And we can take as an object lesson this very matter which is now under discussion,—a Physical Laboratory,—which requires steadiness and stillness as conditions for successful and effective experiments. It will be found that these experiments will be hampered to a degree because there is an incessant shaking and agitation caused by the vehicular traffic and by the tramcars passing unceasingly a few yards from the Laboratory. The teaching staff, Sir as also those who supervise them, can of course speak with the greatest authority. If on my part I repeat only what seems to be the obvious, I claim that I give the stronger support on that account to the removal of the college. Sir, in the present day, when knowledge is advancing and the needs of education must keep pace with it, reform of educational institutions is demanded and the new standard of efficiency is being raised to a degree that wants almost a new type. Is this the time to locate and fix permanently a college which is to be the model for this Province and for a large area beyond in a position which forbids free expansion and which will cramp it in some of its most vital functions? In connection, Sir, with the second aspect of the question I was very much interested to receive a letter a few minutes before I left home for this Council Chamber from a well-known Indian gentleman holding a high position in the mercantile world who says—it is with relation to a matter into which we are inquiring outside this Council—"Sports which form such an essential in a Cambridge student's life are almost entirely lacking in the life of a Calcutta student. The locality of the schools and colleges prevents them from having any grounds attached to them. The maidan is not easily available to the majority of students and the consequence is that a great deal of their leisure, which might have been profitably and pleasantly spent in outdoor exercises, is employed in seeking morbid excitement in listening to political speeches." It is not so much on the teaching side that I personally am interested. The questions raised in the statement I have read cannot well be disregarded in connection with the second aspect of the question to which I have referred. No one with any sense and responsibility as a citizen can shut his eyes to the present condition of affairs. There is no doubt—and I speak not merely with regard to the Presidency College, because I think that its removal will have a wide influence—the subject of students demands the most anxious watchfulness and solicitude. The care of students fails now with regard to supervision out of their class hours. With regard to a large number of them their guardianship is only nominal. The students are most of them exceedingly poor in purse, of highly susceptible dispositions, are subjected to unhealthy influences. We cannot altogether ignore the fact that they need a better and closer supervision. We cannot be blind to the fact that so many who have been placed on trial have been found to be completely out of touch with their real guardians, their parents and all home influences. Sir, this is a matter which affects, it is no exaggeration to say, the administration of this Province. So far as the Presidency College is concerned it has a hostel which accommodates, I believe, very much less than a number of students whose parents do not live in Calcutta. If you have, Sir, a residential University with the teachers living with the students and not merely meeting their pupils in class, you will create an influence that will be entirely for their good. I would even say an influence which will operate for the benefit of the whole community. I do not desire to dwell upon this aspect of the question, but I do not wish to be misunderstood. Indeed, Sir, I have sympathy with the students, in the very unhappy circumstances under which they live. For my part, I wonder that under the circumstances in which they live many of them are not much worse than they are. I do not believe in all the charges brought against them as a class but I do think that it would be entirely for the good of the students and for the administration if the students were only kept under better control, and with this end in view it would be better for them to be removed from the congested parts of Calcutta and its influences. Sir, all that I would ask now is that there should be suspension of action in connection with the Laboratory. The non-official Members do not rise to ask you not to spend money in improvements, but it is an irony of fate that the idea of the construction of the Physical Laboratory did not emanate from the officials at all. It was brought forward by one of my hon'ble friends who no doubt regrets having brought forward the question at all. And since the request for the Physical Laboratory did not emanate from the educational authorities, so far as the question is concerned, I would ask Your Honour not to proceed with the construction for the present. With regard to the finances, which is of course an important matter in the consideration of the question, we have learned that it is intended to expend no less than twenty lakhs for the improvement of the Presidency College. If the Presidency College is removed there will be available seven lakhs more: so that there will be no want of funds for the removal from its present site. But even if the Presidency College is to be continued on its present site there is no reason why the hostel should be maintained there. It would be a great benefit and advantage if even only the hostel could be removed to the suburbs. An opinion prevails that if the Presidency College hostel is removed to the suburbs, it may lead to the location of other hostels in its vicinity.

I submit these matters are worthy of the consideration of Your Honour's administration. But I would venture to appeal to Your Honour that for the present the money budgetted for the Laboratory should not for the present be expended for this particular purpose.

Sir, I had not intended to speak on the general subject of the Budget because there is not much on which to speak. With Lord Morley's reference to the powers intended to be conferred on non-official members, and after the solemn election to the Finance Committee, when I found myself elected to that Committee, I was preening myself with the prospect of usefulness as I thought before me. But when I found the extent of the operation to be permitted to the Committee, I was disillusioned, and my mind went back a decade, to which my experience of the Council dates, and I could not help thinking of the sympathy which Your Honour, who was then Finance Secretary, would extend to the Finance Secretary of to-day. Out of an expenditure of about five and a half crores we were given a voice in one per cent. of that amount: and this even was very substantially reduced by the obligatory charges imposed upon this Province, out of the sum nominally placed before the Committee. When a further sum of Rs. 6,20,000 was given to us to consider, for public works, again I found that all the Committee were called upon to do, was to exercise their discretion in what way to reduce the sum of Rs. 6,25,000 to the amount available for our consideration: that is, to reduce the sum of Rs 6,25,000 by Rs. 5,000 only. All this did not give much scope for ambitious treatment by the Council. Later we were given a further sum to deal with by the Government of India, and it was then that my hon'ble friend proposed the expenditure for the Physical Laboratory, without appreciating the effectiveness of the grant if passed, which has led to the present discussion. Let us, however, hope for better times, to a period of prosperity when the usefulness of the Finance Committee and the effectiveness of the criticisms, opportunity for which has been conferred on non-official members, may be demonstrated.

The Hon'ble RAI SHIBA SHANKAR SAHAI BAHADUR said:—

"Your Honour,—I congratulate the Hon'ble the Finance Secretary on the lucidity of the Budget he has submitted to the Council. The statement supplies all the necessary information, and the allotments made are, on the whole, reasonable and fair.

"The year has a hopeful outlook. We had a bumper winter crop and the rabi crop which is about to be harvested promises to give us a good outturn. Several successive bad years and consequent high prices have considerably crippled the resources of the Government. The Hon'ble Mr. Oldham, when presenting the Budget for the year which has just closed, pointed out that the total extraordinary charges on account of grain compensation allowance and famine relief in certain years amounted to upwards of 52 lakhs. But the present year of plentiful crops has enabled the Hon'ble Finance Secretary to remove altogether the item of famine expenditure from the budget. We all sincerely hope that the removal will be permanent. In consequence of the fall of prices of food-grains, the grain compensation allowance has been reduced from 9½ lakhs of the last year to only 3¾ lakhs. There is, therefore, matter enough for general rejoicing and congratulation, and I do not like to sound a discordant note in their midst by drawing Your Honour's attention to the condition of the agricultural classes (I confine my remarks to my division) to whom the sudden fall in prices has not proved an unmixed blessing. It is expected, however, that by the next year, if the existing favourable circumstances continue, the normal condition will be restored.

"Before I make any observation on the Budget, I beg to draw your Honour's attention to the fact that it was unfortunate that on the Finance Committee the mufassal members were not adequately represented. I do not wish it to appear as if we have a complaint to make against anybody. But the fact remains that none from Bihar, and not a single Muhammadan member, was elected to the Finance Committee. It might be that that this unsatisfactory result was due to our own inexperience. I am inclined to think, however, that the rules prescribed by Government for the election of the members of the Finance Committee by the non-official members of the Council may be reconsidered and, if necessary, revised. It appears to me that Rule No. 7 which provides that a member may not give more than one vote to any candidate may be modified with the effect of obviating to a considerable extent the difficulty in question.

"The next thing I wish to refer to is, the inconvenience which the non-official members in general, and the mufassal members in particular, have felt in consequence of the shortness of the interval allowed between the submission to the Council of the Financial Statement and the deliberation thereon. They had practically very little time to study the Budget and send notices of their resolutions in time to be accepted. I hope that Your Honour will do something for the removal of this grievance.

"Coming to the Budget itself, the most prominent feature of it which strikes one, is that the closing balance has been gradually dwindling from a sum of 92½ lakhs in 1903-04 to nil in the last year's estimate. The Hon'ble Finance Secretary with liberal aid from the Government of India, for which we are all deeply grateful, has been able to estimate the present year's closing balance at the prescribed minimum of 20 lakhs. This is satisfactory as it is, and I hope that in future the closing balance will not only be maintained at the present figures, but be steadily improved and increased.

"The next feature of the Budget which one contemplates with satisfaction, is the steady increase in the grant on education in the province from 38½ lakhs in 1906-07 to over 59 lakhs in the present year. If we take the figures of the year 1902-03 when the charge on education stood at 26 lakhs, this increase is still more noticeable and significant. Sir, while this is so, and while we are all grateful to Government for what it has done and is still doing in this behalf, one cannot but feel that there remains still much to do in education. It appears from the answer given by the Hon'ble Sir Harvey Adamson in the Imperial Council that the expense per head of population in Bengal on primary education is very low, nay the lowest in the whole of India, being only 4 pies per head as against 2 annas 6 pies per head in Bombay. The expense per head of population on education generally is only 1 anna 11 pies in Bengal, as against 5 annas 7 pies in Bombay. I have not got before me separate figures for Bihar, but I doubt not but if they had been forthcoming, they would have proved more wonderful in their smallness. As a representative of the people, I cannot help urging the necessity of increasing the expenditure on education in Bengal in general and Bihar in particular. The question of increasing the grant on primary education in Bihar is an urgent need which requires immediate ministration. It certainly cannot be long deferred.

"Sir, a representative from Bihar will not be true to his salt if he does not press upon the attention of the Government specially the needs of that province, which unfortunately are many and urgent; but while I do so, I beg most emphatically to dissociate myself from any sentiment that would insist upon a readjustment of the allotment and require any favour to be shown to the Bihar schools and colleges at the expense of those in Bengal. It is a suicidal policy to set fire to our neighbour's house with a view to appropriate his goods and chattels. We all feel that what Bengal has got is quite insufficient for her wants, and it would be unreasonable to expect her to cut off a slice from out of her slender share. The position that I wish to take up for Bihar, is that when opportunity presents itself in future, the wants of my poor backward province may not be overlooked by Government.

"In conclusion, I beg to express, in my own behalf and in behalf of my constituents, great satisfaction for the provision made in the budget of—

(1) a sum of Rs. 60,000 for feeder roads in the Sonthal Parganas, and
(2) a lakh of rupees for the drainage of Monghyr.

"We are pleased also to see that the recommendations of the Salary Commission have been given practical effect to, and we feel profoundly grateful for the raising of the petty grants to the Commissioners of Divisions from Rs. 75,000 to one lakh for prompt disposal of local wants."

The Hon'ble MAULVI SAIYID MUHAMMAD FAKR-UD-DIN said:—

"SIR,—Before I say anything on the present Budget, I think I should avail myself of this opportunity to express my dissatisfaction with the rules for the election of members for the Finance Committee. As a result of the defective rules framed as they are, I may be permitted to point out that not one member from the important province of Bihar could be elected to take part in the deliberations for the Finance Committee. It is not unnatural, therefore, to find that the needs and requirements of Bihar by proper and adequate provisions being made in the Budget did not receive full attention at the hands of the Select Committee. I am well aware that Your Honour's Government has keenly felt the absence of Biharees from the Finance Committee, but I thought it necessary on this occasion to bring the matter more prominently to the notice of the Council in the earnest hope that the Council will recommend that the present rules be changed so as to admit of the adequate representation of all classes. The next thing which I desire to place for Your Honour's kind consideration refers to the wholly insufficient time allowed to the members to give notice of the resolutions to be moved regarding the items of the Budget. I bring this matter forward for consideration of Your Honour's Government as it particularly affects the mufassil members. Your Honour is aware that this year the amended draft of the Financial Statement was issued on the 5th of March, 1910. Those who were in the metropolis must have received it on that very day, but the members residing in the mufassil could not have got it before the 7th, or at the earliest, before the 6th of March. Now the time fixed for sending draft resolutions to the Secretary's office under the rules in connection with the Budget was the 8th of March, so that practically it was impossible for a non-official member to draft and despatch his resolutions, if any, in time to reach Calcutta on the 8th, not to speak of the impossibility of going through the whole budget, item by item, and considering the different heads of receipt and expenditure. This result, to a great extent, has created a dissatisfaction which, I trust, will be obviated on other similar occasions.

"Now I wish to pass a few remarks in connection with the present Financial Statement, which no doubt has the peculiar characteristic of being very clear and lucid, and I think the Hon'ble Financial Secretary should be congratulated upon it.

Education in Bihar.—"I first take up the question of education in Bihar. It is no doubt gratifying to find that Your Honour's Government has extended the expenditure on education, and under the new University rules if the private colleges of Bihar had not received help and aid from the Government it would have been very difficult to maintain any of them, and it is with deep satisfaction that the Biharees look upon Your Honour's Government for further support and encouragement. It can be scarcely questioned that Bihar is still far backward in the matter of education, and we hope that the liberality of Your Honour's Government will be further extended to that province.

Patna College—"We have got only one Government college in Bihar. But even that college is not equipped with sufficient staff. There is no M. A. class in that college, nor is it affiliated in philosophy. It is deplorable, to speak the least of it, that the only Government college in Bihar should not be in a position to impart the highest education and allow the Biharee boys who cannot afford, by reason of poverty or climate, to come down to Calcutta to study for the M. A. degree of the University. I shall invite the attention of Your Honour's Government to the public declaration of Sir Andrew Fraser, our late Lieutenant-Governor, that the Patna College would be raised to the standard of a model college.

"Sir, regard being had to the statements made by the Hon'ble Mr. Gourlay in reply to the question put by the Hon'ble Maharaj-Kumar of Tikari, regarding the establishment of M. A. classes in the Patna College, it would not be out of place to mention that the considerations that have weighed on the Government not to allow M. A. classes in Patna will weigh heavier in the case of private colleges in Bihar.

"It cannot be denied that the people of Bihar are labouring under great disadvantages in comparison with the facilities afforded to the people of Bengal so far as the scope and opportunities for higher education are concerned. Bihar has always been, and is more so now, an important centre of attraction in this province. Both in point of area and population Bihar has got a prior claim on Your Honour's benign Government in the matter of higher education.

"It cannot be questioned that a sufficient number of students have always been found desirous of prosecuting their studies in M. A. classes, but for want of any M. A. classes in Bihar, a very few only who could afford to live in Calcutta at an enormous expense and at the risk of unsuitability of the climate to their constitution have been able to obtain M. A. degrees

"I understand that last year Your Honour's Government was approached on the subject on the occasion of the Budget discussion, and Bihar expected that due provision would be made for facilitating higher education in Bihar, but Sir, to the utter misfortune of Bihar, nothing has been done in this direction. Even if it be not possible to open M. A. classes for many more subjects at present, I understand that a little care to strengthen the present staff of that college can allow it to open M. A. classes in one or two important subjects, and I hope your Honour's Government will be able to find means to make provision for the same.

"Private Colleges in Bihar.—I now turn to the private colleges in Bihar. Your Honour is well aware that, strictly speaking, there are only three private colleges in Bihar, viz., (1 Bihar National College at Bankipore, (2) Tej Narain Jubilee College at Bhagalpur, and (3) Bhumihar Brahman College at Muzaffarpur. Besides the above, we have got Dublin University Mission at Hazaribagh and another college at Monghyr, but these are not the first-grade colleges. Up to the year 1887, we had only one college in Bihar, viz., the Patna College which had on its roll less than 200 students in that year. But just after three years, when the private colleges were established in Bihar, the number on the roll rose to more than 700. This proves that the Government college at Patna was in-sufficient to supply the growing educational needs of Bihar and that the private colleges filled a necessary place in the educational machinery of Bihar.

"From the statement supplied to us on the 26th February, 1910, in answer to certain questions put by me and the Hon'ble Nawab Sarfaraz Hussain Khan Bahadur, showing the extent of Government contributions to private colleges in this province, it appears that Bihar is so unfortunate as to get only one-eighth of the total grants.

"Bihar National College.—The Bihar National College owed its existence to the liberality and patriotism of the late distinguished Babu Biseswar Singh, but to the utter misfortune of Bihar he passed away before the college was placed on a sure footing, and some time after him the college had to depend for its existence solely upon its numerical strength. The result was that the college received severe condemnation at the hands of the University Commission, and the public having lost faith in the said institution the number on the roll at once fell down. The college was then handed over to a Council with the Hon'ble Mr. Justice Sharfuddin as its President and counting among its members the other leading men of Bihar. This college has received Rs. 24,000 during the years 1907-08 to 1909-10, as the Imperial and hostel grant, and is at present getting a maintenance grant of Rs. 2,400 a year. The total collections from fees and monthly subscriptions from private individuals are hardly sufficient to meet the monthly expenditure of that college. We are no doubt highly indebted to the Hon'ble Mr. Earle, for the help that the college received from him while he was the Divisional Commissioner in Patna. It was through his untiring exertions that we were able to secure a handsome amount of donations which, together with the grant made by the Government, could enable us to construct a laboratory premises and to purchase bungalows for the hostel. We have yet to supply the physical apparatus and to construct quarters for the Principal. We have not been able to purchase the college premises. We are indeed very much grateful to the Hon'ble Maharaj-Kumar of Tikari who has already helped us by his princely donation and promised to help us further in the purchase of physical apparatus for the laboratory.

"We have always tried to spend the money on economical principles, but it is estimated that at least a monthly grant of Rs. 800 more will be required to allow us to maintain the college in an efficient condition. The educational authorities have remarked on more than one occasion that the grant-in-aid of Rs. 200 a month to this college is quite inadequate.

"This is the only college in Bihar which gets the maintenance grant, and thus the total sum now allotted to Bihar is only Rs. 2,400, while nearly Rs. 68,000 are given away as aid to private colleges in Bengal.

"Sir, I do not for a moment grudge the Budget allotment for Bengal. What Bengal gets might still be inadequate to her needs, but what Bihar gets is certainly altogether insufficient. Bihar, as I have submitted above, has yet to make up a great leeway in the matter of higher education, and it has got a right to claim support from Your Honour's Government and sympathy from advanced Bengal.

"Tej Narain Jubilee College.—The Tej Narain Jubilee College got an imperial grant of Rs. 22,000 during the years 1906 and 1907, and the princely donation of seven lakhs from the Raja of Banailly has greatly removed the requirements of that college for the present.

"Bhumihar Brahman College.—The Bhumihar Brahman College was established in the year 1899 by the local Bhumihar community. This has been a boon to the people of the trans-Gangetic district. The college in its inception was a second-grade college, but in the year 1900 the college was raised to the B. A. standard. Tthis college was at first started by Babu Langat Singh alone, but under the new regulations of the University, when he found that the maintenance of the college in an efficient condition required considerably larger expenditure, he made over the college to the public in July 1908. Since then donations have been collected and monthly subscriptions have been promised. It has been estimated that in order to maintain that college in an efficient condition a monthly expenditure of Rs. 2,000 is necessary. Deducting from this a sum of Rs. 400 a month as probable income from fees, provision has to be made for Rs. 1,600 a month.

"I understand that the Director of Public Instruction has promised to recommend to the Government a monthly grant of Rs. 800, provided the college authorities are able to provide the like sum from private sources. I would like to impress upon Your Honour's Government that such a condition precedent should be dispensed with as it does not prove wholesome in many instances. We hope that Your Honour's Government will take the situation into favourable consideration.

"Law College.—The people of Bihar are indeed much indebted to Your Honour's Government for the establishment of a Law College at Bankipore. They are further gratified for a provision of a Law Library made in the present Budget. I have, however, to point out that the students find it very difficult to come down to Calcutta for the examination. Under the new rules students have to appear in two examinations: the first one is called preliminary and the second final. As Patna is not the centre for the law examination, students have to come down to Calcutta for the two examinations. Students of Bihar feel great difficulty in obtaining suitable accommodations, and even if they can, the cost they have to incur in coming and in settling down temporarily in a strange place is enormous. I understand that all other places, wherever law colleges have been located, have also been made a centre for holding law examinations. If this is so, why should Bihar be unfortunate in this respect? No doubt the holding of the examination at Bankipore will entail some additional cost, but I am sure Your Honour's Government will not grudge this petty cost in the interest of such an important province like Bihar.

"Patna Collegiate School.—Under the new regulations of the University, the Patna Collegiate School has been detached from the Patna College, and it has now been located in a rented house. No permanent building has yet been either acquired or constructed. As there is no play-ground attached to that institution, the students have to utilize the public maidan as their play-ground at a great inconvenience. The answer given by the Hon'ble Mr. Gourlay on the 14th March, 1910, to the question put by the Hon'ble Maharaj-Kumar of Tikari has given great satisfaction to the students of that institution and to their parents and guardians that immediate steps will be taken to make a temporary arrangement for the play-ground.

"Model Maktabs and Calcutta Madrassa.—The Muhammadans are grateful to Your Honour's Government for provision having been made in the Budget for model maktabs and hostel for Calcutta Madrassa. It is hoped that these model maktabs will be of great help to the Muhammadans in getting primary education.

"Extension of Canal Works in Bihar.—It cannot be denied that the canal works have always proved useful to the agriculturist class of Bihar. The effect of drought is much avoided by the system of canal irrigation. Moreover, it is not a losing concern. Therefore, I feel no hesitation in pleading for its extension throughout Bihar. The extension of this system will not only help the agriculturist to a great extent but will prove to be a better investment and a source of profit. Though it may be very difficult to give a complete effect to my suggestion at once, yet if Your Honour's Government will devote a reasonable amount every year, the agricultural condition of the country will be improved and much of the unrest will doubtless disappear.

"Improvement of the status and prospect of the Provincial Judicial Service.—I should like to refer to one more important matter regarding the improvemen of the status and prospect of the Provincial Judicial Service. This matter has been the subject of discussion on more than one occasion in the Council. The Hon'ble Babu Deva Prasad Sarbadhikari proposed to move a resolution on this point in connection with the discussion of the Budget, but it is a matter of great pity that the resolution was withdrawn. However, I think Your Honour will allow me to make a few observations in this connection.

"Munsifs.—Sir, under the present arrangement, the Munsifs in the first grade are generally vested with powers to try suits of the value up to Rs. 2,000 which are ordinarily triable by the Subordinate Judges, but though they are made to do this work in addition to their own work they do not get any compensation for it. It is difficult to comprehend the virtues of this arrangement. The officers of the Provincial Executive Service always get allowances for all the extra works which they are required to do. Why should these hard-worked poor Munsifs who are in no way inferior in educational qualifications to the officers of the Executive service be deprived of even that much advantage. The great pity is that many of the deserving Munsifs break down and retire from the grades of Rs. 400 without getting an opportunity of a higher lift to the post of a Subordinate Judge. I know that the matter of creation of a new grade of Rs. 500 for such Munsifs has engaged the attention of Your Honour's Government for the last few years, and it was last year that the Council was informed that the Government of India did not approve of this proposal. But, Sir, even if it be not feasible for the Government to open a new grade for hard-working Munsifs, why should they not be allowed to get a personal allowance of Rs. 100 a month which might go to compensate them for the work?

"Subordinate Judges.—Then, again, as regards the Subordinate Judges, it appears that half the appointments are confined to the third grade at present getting Rs. 600 a month. It is also evident that the majority of the Subordinate Judges have to retire from this last grade without getting a lift even to the second grade.

"There are others who are promoted to the second grade to fill in the new grade for a year or so. The pay which these officers get is hardly sufficient to compensate them for the hard work which they have to do. It is meet and proper that the amount of the lowest grade of Subordinate Judges should be raised to Rs. 700 or opportunities be afforded to the Subordinate Judges to get a lift to the second grade by reducing the number of appointments in the last grade.

"Being a member of the legal profession I fully realise the position of the officers of the Judicial service, and I feel no hesitation in respectfully recommending their position for favourable consideration of Your Honour's Government.

"Privilege leave.—The members of the Judicial service have got some grievances as regards their privilege leave. Under the existing rules the members of the Provincial Judicial Service are allowed privilege leave on half pay, whereas the members of the corresponding branch of the Executive service are entitled to privilege leave on full pay. Sir, is there any reason for this disparity in the leave rules? The members of the Judicial service are a great deal more hard-worked than the members of the Executive service, and they deserve to be dealt with with an equal degree of, if not more, liberality in the matter of leave. As the members of this branch are allowed privilege leave on half pay, they generally do not care to take this leave unless they are in pressing need for it, and thus they are found to continue their work even after exhaustion, and it is on this account that they are subject to diabetes. I should strongly but respectfully recommend that Your Honour's Government will be pleased to place them on an equal, if not better, footing with their brother officers of the Executive branch.

"Numerical strength of Munsifs.—Being a member of the legal profession I know the high pressure under which the Munsifs have to work. To avoid accumulations of arrears they cannot devote that time and attention which the nature of the case demands, and the hurry with which the cases are decided in the mufassil deprives the litigants on most occasions of proper justice.

"Having regard to the enormous income from the Civil Court it is but fair that the efficiency and strength of such court should be improved.

"Sir I beg to say one or two words in connection with the observations made by the Hon'ble Babu Baikuntha Nath Sen in regard to the system of Muhammadan Electorate who has been ruled out of order, as the matter was perfectly irrelevant to budget discussion. My Hon'ble friend suggests that the Muhammadan community are not satisfied with the present system of election. Being the representative of the Muhammadan community, I have the honour to submit that the Muhammadans are perfectly satisfied with the system of the special electorates. But as the matter is quite irrelevant to the budget, I need not deal with that question in detail."

The Hon'ble BABU BAL KRISHNA SAHAI said:—

"Although the scheme for the construction of the Ranchi Model College, a humble admirer of which I had the honour to be, seems to have been, at least for some time to come, shelved, and although there is a crying need for such an institution in our part of the country, Chota Nagpur feels very grateful to Your Honour's Government for budgetting a grant of Rs. 51,200 under the head of education for four of the schools in that Division. Ranchi Zilla School had in fact to shut the doors of education against many boys by refusing admission just for the want of room, and Your Honour deserves our sincere and hearty thanks for taking timely action in providing Rs. 20,800 for an extension of its premises, and thus enlarging the scope of its activities. Purulia, Hazaribagh and Chaibassa, as well, have got Rs. 15,400, Rs. 10,000 and Rs. 5,000, respectively, and let me hope, Sir, that Your Honour will always keep in mind this very backward part of the province over the destinies of which Your Honour holds reins.

"While speaking on education, I may as well mention that it strikes one to find no definite grants in the Budget for the private colleges, which, without the helping hands of the Government, will not be able to stand long or to properly discharge their duties. There is no denying that our Government has many demands on its purse, and private institutions should receive help from private sources, but unfortunately our country has not risen up to its duties and our countrymen, with some honourable exceptions, of course, have not yet realised the responsibilities they owe to their compatriots, far less to humanity at large.

"Ignorance, Sir, is the root of all evils and sufferings, and true knowledge is the only light that dispels darkness of our souls. The most abominable and disgraceful conduct of some of our rash youths and the anarchical movement are due to the want of, to use a common phrase, 'real moral education;' and it is high time, I beg to submit, that some rules should be framed to give regular moral training in our schools and colleges, and thus save the name and fame of the country whose oldest hymns sung the prayer in the Vedas,—प्रियं मा कृणु देवेषु प्रियं राजसुमाकृणु ॥ that is, make me loved by the wise, and make me loved by the king.

"True, no religious teaching is advisable or, for the matter of that, practicable, especially with so many different religions prevailing in our country; but religion apart, it cannot be denied that a moral tone needs very much to be imparted to our youths.

"Sir, one thing more in this connection calls for our attention, and I take the liberty of placing before Your Honour the claims of our little girls, the future mothers of India. I admit that provision for this has been made in Calcutta and at Bankipore. But, Sir, Calcutta and Bankipore do not cover the whole province under Your Honour's control. If, at present, we cannot afford to have girls' schools at all the places where we have boys' schools, let us have at least half of them or even a quarter of them; and that would not be a bad beginning. Yes, I am aware of the difficulties that will obstruct our way, but most of them, if not all, will become surmountable if only some provision is made for turning out good and competent lady-teachers, whose want is felt by all interested in the cause. I think the Hon'ble Mr. Küchler, as an educationalist, will bear me out in this statement. To suggest a possible means for this latter object, namely, of turning out good and competent lady-teachers, I would suggest that some scholarships should be awarded to grown-up and elderly ladies, widows preferably, as an inducement for receiving regular training.

"As in everything else, the question of funds will have to be considered first, and for this I would submit to Your Honour that out of the monies that have been budgetted to be spent exclusively over the division which I have the honour to represent, there is one item that may wait a while. The sum of Rs. 21,000 that has been budgetted for a house for the Executive Engineer of Ranchi seems to me unnecessary, or at least much more than what is absolutely necessary. If a house is at all required, Rs. 10,000, it is presumed, would be quite enough,—unless the Government has some other object in view in constructing a very large building—and the balance out of Rs. 21,000 could very well be invested in this direction. I doubt the urgency of quarters for the Executive Engineer because I know the Superintending Engineer, the Commissioner, and the Civil Surgeon even, have no quarters of their own. True, at a time there was a great demand for houses, but it is not so now. In any case, if the whole, Rs. 21,000, cannot be utilised, at least Rs. 11,000 can be spent in training tutoresses and establishing girls' schools at some places.

"Let us now turn to another important item in the current budget, namely, the sanitary improvement department. It is really a great satisfaction to find that Your Honour is fully alive to the responsiblities in this connection. While Malaria Commission is working on one side, the Budget provides on the other for an inquiry in connection with Beri Beri, and the amount, though seemingly small, was explained the other day to be sufficient for the purpose. As to malaria, whatever may be the opinion of the Medical authorities, to us laymen, it is plain that the existence of so many dirty tanks and cess-pools in most of the villages in Bengal is solely and wholly responsible for the disease as forming breeding places for anopheles mosquitoes. Certainly it is a very difficult question how to fill them up—so costly it seems to be, but I would suggest for Your Honour's consideration the desirability of taking up the most affected areas for experimenting upon first and filling up the tanks and cess-pools in those places; and if the measure proves successful, of extending the operations to other places similarly affected. May I hope in this connection that my hon'ble colleague, the Finance Secretary, will try to find out funds for this important item. There is another means that may profitably be tried. The Government may see its way to induce the landlords and tenants to take up their villages and to fill up the tanks and cess-pools therein. The non-official Members, I am sure, will be glad to help the Government in this direction.

"It is a good sign that a chair for a Professor of Anatomy in the Medical College has been provided for, and that a new Surgical Block at the Medical College Hospital has been budgetted; but so far as I am aware, there is already a chair for the same subject occupied by a member of the Indian Medical Service who is also Second Surgeon of the Hospital. It is unfortunately not clear whether the new post is an additional appointment or only preparatory for the abolition of the old one. If the latter, does not Your Honour think that it will decrease the efficiency of the institution very much?

"It is indeed our misfortune that anarchism and sedition should necessitate the enlarging of the police force and increasing the amount of expenditure over the prosecution of political cases. These not only affect our resources and absorb our revenues but put back our progress and advancement for which we might have utilised the said expenditure. It is a greater misfortune that along with the guilty many innocent persons suffer, but it must be admitted that the Government cannot help it. Let us hope and pray that the new Press Act and the other strong measures the Government have been compelled to adopt will have the desired effect and root out sedition and anarchism absolutely. Every right-thinking man is expected to help the Government in bringing peace and order into the country. It will not be out of place to repeat what has been often said that but for the large-heartedness of Lord Morley and Lord Minto, supplemented by the sympathetic policy of Your Honour, our country would have been deprived of the many benefits which have been conferred on us—the conduct of the so-called well-wishers of India notwithstanding—and the enlarged Council would have been nowhere.

"I find that the income from the Pleadership Examination fees is Rs. 29,000, and that the expenditure for the examination is Rs. 18,000 only. May I ask, Sir, if Your Honour's Government would see its way to provide the whole, or at least a larger portion of the saving, Rs. 11,000, for fees for the defence of paupers accused of murder, in place of Rs. 5,000 as provided in the Budget; or, if the amount of Rs. 5,000 be considered sufficient for that purpose, will it not be proper to reduce the fee payable by the examinees?

"The amount of Rs. 1,50,000 provided in the Budget for the ministerial officers removes a great grievance of a hard-worked and ill-paid class of our people who will no doubt pray for the prosperity of the benign Government.

"The excise income is a head which is very much criticised by the people both here and abroad. May we expect that Your Honour's good Government will find it convenient to do something in this connection. We have seen the aborigines of Chota Nagpur, both men and women, young and old, squandering their little incomes on positively harmful drinks. Any one passing by the liquor shops may notice to his great annoyance and inconvenience these ignorant people, specially on market days, freely indulging in drinks and mostly out of their senses—a few dead drunk. In not a few places these shops are by the side of public roads and, near market-places. Whatever its advantages or disadvantages in cold climates, here in India both the Hindu and Mahomedan religions decry its use, and if for no other reason, India is too poor to indulge in this luxury. It will really be saving the lives of many if Your Honour's Government just gives a few minutes' consideration to the subject and does what lies in Your Honour's power (which is by no means little) to help these people by strictly prohibiting these shops being opened by the side of public thoroughfares and in or near market-places.

"Before resuming my seat, Sir, I have one word more to add and duty demands that it should be added. Here I crave Your Honour's leave to draw your attention to the Drainage Scheme in progress at Ranchi and Hazaribagh. Both these Municipalities are too poor and the roads within their limits and under their control have extended very much; so for them it is really very difficult to meet all the expenses of the scheme without help from the Government. Last year some Municipalities had been provided for similar purposes, would it then be too much for us to ask the Government to help these Municipalities with funds out of the lump provision for grants for works of sanitary improvement?

"In conclusion, Sir, I beg leave to submit that in future Your Honour would kindly see that a little more time is given to Members to consider and discuss the Budget, as I am afraid in such a short time, as was allowed this year, we have not been able to discharge our duties properly."

The Hon'ble BABU BHUPENDRA NATH BASU said:—

"With Your Honour's permission I wish to say a few words about the juvenile population in the jails. In the last administration report on the jails the Superintendent complains that the period during which the juvenile offenders remain in jails is too short to enable them to learn any trade or occupation, and he was appealing to Government to take powers in the case of juvenile offenders to keep them for a longer period in jails so that they might be turned out of jail when they are able to earn a livelihood in future and not to take to crime. I respectfully venture to submit that it is a useful suggestion and ought to be well considered as to whether it is possible to put it into operation. There is another matter in connection with jail administration. It is pointed out that there is a large number of pulmonary affections owing to overcrowding, and that there is no accommodation—no place where prisoners affected with tuberculosis can be removed. There is hardly any separate accommodation in the jails themselves, and besides there is no special jail where cases of this description can be sent. It would be desirable, I think, in the interests of the jail population that separate arrangements should be made for housing prisoners suffering from this disease. I hope it will not be a very expensive experiment, and having regard to the fact that we have got such healthy stations as Ranchi and Hazaribagh, we may easily make arrangements for locating prisoners suffering from this unfortunate disease. Their number is not very large (300 or 400), and it could be easily done both for the sake of the non-affected as well as for those who are themselves the sufferers.

"Then, Sir, on a previous occasion I had the honour to place before the Council the needs of extending the operation of our primary educational system. It may be impracticable at present, especially when our finances are not in very good order, to introduce either free primary education or compulsory primary education. But it is possible to give effect to the practically unanimous resolution which was moved at the conference held at Darjeeling, that greater facilities should be given for the extension of primary education in Bengal. I find that the Government incurs an expenditure of about 6 lakhs and 50 thousand on primary education. That I respectfully submit is much too small for the needs of such a large growing Province as Bengal is. We have to provide for the growing needs of Bihar—a province which is happily awakening to its educational backwardness. We have also to provide for the growing needs of the Muhammadans who have hitherto neglected the opportunities which were at their disposal, and we have also to provide for the increased demands of the educational spirit amongst the lower classes. We must not omit to consider that amongst the depressed classes amongst the Bengali Hindus there is a desire to rise in the social scale—a desire to which both Europeans and Indians have lent a sympathetic ear, and this desire can only be fostered and given effect to by bringing within their doors the benefits of some sort of education. I do not mean to say literary education, but some sort of education which will widen the horizon of their vision, and for that purpose an allotment of 6 lakhs and 50 thousand is too insufficient. While dealing with this question of primary education I feel that our means are limited; at the same time I think that persistent efforts should be made to extend this system. I do not mean to say that higher education should be starved, but higher education affects a class of men who ought to be able to help themselves and are sometimes able to help themselves. But this affects a class of men who are unable to help themselves. In this connection, while dwelling on the question of primary education, I would call Your Honour's attention to the fate of those who are entrusted with the teaching of the boys in primary schools. I think that all Bengal must have noticed the condition of the primary schools themselves and specially of the gurus who do the work of teaching there. These gurus are a very miserable lot of men. Their salary at the highest is Rs. 3-12 a month, and generally, two rupees a month. One of our Inspectors of Schools writes that it cannot be regarded as wonderful if the poor allowance given to the gurus, not amounting in many cases even to two rupees, has created disaffection among them, and that they do not seem to care very much whether or not they remain in their posts. I think that no father who can afford it would willingly allow his son to fall under the depressing influences of such school masters. I know it is a very large question. There are so many primary schools and so many gurus to be provided that a slight increase in their charges means a large net increase upon the expenditure, but, at the same time, if these schools are to be resuscitated from their present condition, if primary education is not to be allowed to be merely a name but also a substance, if these gurus have to receive some training—a training which would be worth their while to obtain, we must face the problem of increasing their emoluments to such an extent that they may be able to earn a decent livelihood.

"Sir, while I speak on education, it is difficult for me to resist an appeal which the Hon'ble Mr. Küchler has addressed to us. I am afraid it was at my initiative some years ago that the question of the removal of the Presidency College was taken up. Opinions were invited and I believe the opinions against the removal were more voluminous than the opinions for the removal, and I think that during the administration of Sir Andrew Fraser the idea of the removal of the College was given up, and a scheme was formulated by which additional land was to be acquired and buildings were to be put on the new site costing altogether about 20 lakhs of rupees. I believe that that scheme has been put into operation and land has been taken. I do not for a moment doubt that if it were possible to remove the Presidency College to a site outside Calcutta and easily accessible from Calcutta it would be a good thing in the abstract, but at the same time, I feel that questions of such great moment cannot be allowed to hang fire indefinitely. The needs of the Presidency College are pressing, and while we are debating as to whether it should be maintained on its present site or removed elsewhere, we are doing injury to a generation of students. If it is possible to remove the College at once, if the Government can find the funds, if large-hearted benefactors of humanity can find funds, as they have done in Bombay like Karim Bhoy and Tata, then certainly the question can be solved at once, but if the question cannot be solved, I for one would protest against the idea of letting the grant of one lakh and fifty thousand rupees lie idle because perhaps at some distant date the Presidency College may be removed to a more desirable site. I would not like that the improvement of the College should be indefinitely delayed.

"There is another matter, Sir, that is, the question of sanitation in Bengal, which is a pressing question. The report of the Sanitary Commissioner in Bengal is one of the most dismal readings that we could have. But besides this, there are features in the report which show that with very little effort the ravages of malaria may be fought, and fought effectually. In the neighbourhood of Ranaghat, with the aid of crude kerosine oil improvement has been effected, and I would earnestly appeal to the Sanitary Department to take measures to demonstrate to the people that with a little expenditure of money and with a little careful living the present ravages of malaria which exact such heavy toll on human subjects in Bengal might be to some extent checked. There is one subject to which we wish to refer on this occasion. We have to offer our thanks for having very promptly secured for use of the people of Calcutta the services of a medical expert to investigate into the causes of the prevalence of the disease known as Berri Berri. On a personal appeal made to Your Honour, Your Honour was good enough to take immediate steps to secure the services of Dr. Grieg and to associate with him the great and eminent Indian Medical Practitioner Dr. Nilratan Sircar, M.A., M.D. We, the people of Calcutta, owe a great debt of gratitude and acknowledgment to Your Honour in this respect and we hope that much lucid information will be placed at the disposal of the public by the joint investigation of these eminent men.

"There is one other matter about which I feel that I should voice the sentiment of my countrymen in regard to the recent acts of Your Honour. Your Honour with conspicuous courage has dealt with the question of the fire that recently took place in Nimtolla.

The PRESIDENT :—

"I AM afraid I must rule out of order any reference to the fire. I have already done so in the case of one Hon'ble Member, the Hon'ble Rai Sita Nath Ray Bahadur."

The Hon'ble BABU BHUPENDRA NATH BASU said :—

"I will not say anything that will prejudice or hamper the course of the investigation that is now going on under the presidency of our esteemed and hon'ble colleague Mr. Slacke, but we expect good results to follow from it, and we owe to Your Honour an expression of our gratitude for having continued that inquiry."

The Hon'ble BABU BRAJA KISHOR PRASAD said :—"Your Honour, I must admit that I have taken twenty minutes of the time of this Council, and I shall not be justified in taking twenty minutes more. Therefore, I wish briefly to speak for about five minutes more and to bring to Your Honour's notice the case of the members of the Provincial Executive Service.

"I regret to say that the Budget presented to us is very disappointing to the hard-worked officers in this service. No provision has been made to improve their position and ameliorate their condition. The Budget provides, as explained by the Hon'ble Mr. Duke, for an increase of nine Deputy Magistrates in the lowest grade. This means a block of the already-retarded promotion in the service. It is an open secret that great discontent prevails among the members of this service who have many grievances which should receive the sympathy and favourable consideration of the Government. I shall very briefly bring to Your Honour's notice the grievances of these officers.

"1. The first and foremost is that the percentage of the number of appointments in the service is ludicrously low, and compares unfavourably with those of the other services. The grading of the Provincial Executive Service is not very reasonable and fair. In his reply to my question on the 14th of March last, the Hon'ble Mr. Duke has asked me to refer to the Civil List. On a reference to the latest edition of it, I find that the total number of appointments in the service is 382. The number of appointments in the different grades and the percentage of the number of appointments in each grade to the total number of appointments in the service are :—

Grade.	Number.	Percentage.
2	8	2·09
3	18	4·71
4	57	14·93
5	84	21·99
6	86	22·51
7	50	13·09
	382	100·00

The result of the very low percentage of appointments in the higher grades is that there is no free flow of promotion—rather there is a lamentable block in it. Naturally therefore there is discontent.

Take any other service you like, the grading is not so unbalanced and unreasonable as that of this service. I would take first the case of District

Magistrates and Collectors. The total number is 39. The number and percentage are: —

Grade.	Number of appointments.	Percentage.
2	13	33·33
3	14	35·90
	39	100·

The figures of Joint-Magistrates are: —

Grade.	Number of appointments.	Percentage.
2	12	37·50
	32	100·

The figures of Superintendents of Police are: —

Grade.	Number.	Percentage.
1	2	4·88
2	7	17·07
3	11	26·83
4	11	26·83
5	10	24·39
	41	100·

Even the Assistant Superintendents of Police are far better off. They stand thus: —

Grade.	Number.	Percentage.
2	10	30·30
3	10	30·30
	33	100·

The Deputy Superintendents of Police are not so fortunate as their brothers, the Assistant Superintendents, though they belong to a practically equal rank. However, their position is also better than that of Deputy Magistrates, as the following figures will show: —

Grade.	Number.	Percentage.
1	4	14·82
2	7	25·92
3	5	18·52
	27	100·

Here Your Honour will find that the 27 appointments of the Deputy Superintendents of Police have been distributed over four grades, whereas the grading of the 33 appointments of their fortunate brothers, the Assistant Superintendents, has been confined to their advantage to three grades only.

Now let us take the case of the Judicial Service, and we find—

District Judges.

Grade.	Number.	Percentage.
1	2	8·00
2	9	36·00
3	14	56·00

Grade.	Number.	Percentage.
1	5	13·16
2	10	26·32
3	23	60·52
	38	100

Munsifs.

Grade.	Number	Percentage.
1	50	29·41
2	48	28·24
3	46	27·06
	170	100

From the above it will appear that the Deputy Magistrates labour at a great disadvantage. The higher grades have a very small number of appointments, which is greatly disappointing to those concerned. It is a matter of regret that, with the reorganisation of many services and the bettering of their position, the Provincial Executive Service should be so long neglected.

In reply to my question on 14th March last, the Hon'ble Mr. Duke took exception to the drawing of analogy in the way I did and have now done. He said:—"It is impossible to draw any conclusion from a comparison of the grading of certain specific ranks of the Indian Civil Service or the Police Service with the grading of the Provincial Executive Service as a whole. To make any practicable comparison it would be necessary to take into account various appointments and grades which the Hon'ble Member has left out."

Perhaps what the Hon'ble Mr. Duke meant to say was that the comparison should be made, taking the appointments of District Magistrates, Joint-Magistrates and Assistant Magistrates, as a whole; of Superintendents and Assistant Superintendents as a whole; of Sub-Judges and Munsifs as a whole; and of Deputy Magistrates and Sub-Deputy Magistrates taken together. Even if we calculate in this manner, still the percentage of Deputy Magistrates in the higher grades is too low. Working out on this principle, the figures are:—

District Magistrates, Joint-Magistrates and Assistant Magistrates, taken as a whole.

	Grade.	Number.	Percentage.
District Magistrates	1	12	9·16
	2	13	9·92
	3	14	10·69
Joint-Magistrates	1	20	15·27
	2	12	9·16
Assistant Magistrates who have passed the 2nd standard. ...		50	38·17
Assistant Magistrates who have passed the 1st standard. ...		3	2·29
Assistant Magistrates who have not passed any standard. ...		7	5·34
		131	100

Superintendents and Assistant Superintendents of Police.

	Grade.	Number.	Percentage.
Superintendents	1	2	2·70
	2	7	9·46
	3	11	14·87
	4	11	14·87
	5	10	13·51
Assistant Superintendents ...	1	13	17·57
	2	10	13·51
	3	10	13·51
		74	100

Sub-Judges and Munsiffs.

	Grade.	Number.	Percentage.
Sub-Judges	1	5	2·40
	2	10	4·81
	3	23	11·06
Munsiffs	1	50	24·04
	2	48	23·08
	3	46	22·11
	4	26	12·50

Deputy Magistrates and Sub-Deputy Magistrates.

	Grade.	Number.	Percentage.
Deputy Magistrates	1	6	1·05
	2	8	1·40
	3	18	3·16
	4	57	10·00
	5	84	14·74
	6	86	15·09
	7	50	8·77
	8	73	12·81
Sub-Deputy Magistrates ...	1	9	1·58
	2	28	4·91
	3	54	9·47
	4	54	9·47
	5	43	7·55

Compare in any way you like, the result is unfair to the members of the Provincial Executive Service.

The last matter to which I would refer is that while Assistant Superintendents of Police with a pay of Rs. 300, Rs. 400 and Rs. 500 draw first-class travelling allowance, Deputy Magistrates with a pay of Rs. 500 draw only second-class travelling allowance. If it be argued that the nature of the work of Assistant Superintendents of Police entitles them to get first-class travelling allowance, I would humbly point out that there is no reason to keep this distinction between the Assistant Superintendents of Police and the Deputy Superintendents of Police who, in spite of their rank being practically equal to that of the Assistant Superintendents of Police, and the nature of their work being the same, are allowed to draw only second-class travelling allowance. There are many other grievances of these officers with regard to their pay, etc., but it would take a long time to enumerate them.

With these observations I would advise the Government to improve the status, position and condition of the Deputy Magistrates by increasing the number of appointments in the higher grades, by increasing their pay, and by allowing them to draw first-class travelling allowance."

The Hon'ble MAHARAJA SIR PRODYAT KUMAR TAGORE said:—

"YOUR HONOUR—We are dealing with what is unfortunately an 'Adversity' Budget and we all know that in matters financial, the uses of adversity are occasionally found to be far from sweet. I must, however, gratefully acknowledge that notwithstanding the stringency of the financial situation, Your Honour's Government has been able to provide for increased expenditure wherever it has become imperative, in order to keep pace with modern requirements. Sir, I have not proposed any alteration in the Budget, firstly, because it has been framed, as usual, with due care and caution, after a patient examination of rival claims and in full knowledge and consideration of all the facts which Government alone is in possession of; and, secondly, because I do not think I am called upon to play in the Council Chamber the role of a champion of any particular cause, class or interest. Referring to the revised estimate for 1909-10, I note that there has been a slight falling off in the receipts under Excise. If this decline has been accompanied by a corresponding decrease in the consumption of intoxicants, then indeed both the Government and the people have good reason to congratulate themselves. Sir, I do hope my fellow-countrymen will not fail to take note of the recurring expenditure representing law charges in connection with political cases. I devoutly hope and pray that the time is not distant when this item will disappear altogether from the Provincial Budget. Sir, having regard to the anxious times through which the country is now passing, I venture to say that Bengal is specially fortunate in having at the head of her administration one whose successful management of the finances of the Empire had only lately been the theme of general admiration and is it too much to hope that under Your Honour's skilful guidance, the cloud that now darkens the financial horizon will soon roll away, ushering in an era of prosperity which will enable Your Honour's Government to satisfy fully the demands of a progressive administration and of the most advanced province in the Empire?

"Your Honour, I should like to make a few observations before concluding my remarks. I am not at all surprised to find my friend the Hon'ble Babu Baikuntha Nath Sen challenging the claim of the zamindars to be regarded as the natural leaders of the people. I fancy the Council would have been spared those remarks if a certain number of seats on the Legislative Councils had not been allotted to the zamindars, and if the class to which my hon'ble friend belongs had continued to enjoy a practical monopoly of seats in the Legislative Councils, as had been the case under the old Act. But my friend need not be in despair, as experience has shown that successful lawyers generally end by becoming zamindars, and a time might come when he won't grudge a zamindar being called a natural leader of the people.

"With regard to the remarks of my Hon'ble friend regarding the Calcutta house-owner's representation in this Council under the new Reform Act, I may be permitted to observe, with your Honour's permission, that the citizens of Calcutta have been represented in the Provincial Council ever since the old Act came into operation, I mean that the Corporation of Calcutta, which represents the citizens of Calcutta, both European and Indian, enjoy the privilege of nominating a person from their own body, and now we have in our midst a gentleman of great ability in the person of my hon'ble friend, Mr. Apcar."

The Hon'ble MAHARAJ-KUMAR GOPAL SARAN NARAYAN SINGH said:—

"YOUR HONOUR,—As much has already been said about the Budget, I should refrain from making any remarks. I thank your Honour for the provision to Bihari Colleges, but permit me to say that the grants are by no means sufficient, as the education in Bihar is most backward, and I hope Your Honour will consider our claims as one of the most loyal provinces in Bengal in recent times. In conclusion, I would wish to endorse my fullest support to what has fallen from the lips of my friend the Hon'ble Maharajadhiraj Bahadur of Burdwan and Maharaja Sir Prodyot Kumar Tagore regarding our position as landlords as born leaders of the people."

The Hon'ble MR. SLACKE said :—

"Sir, In the course of his speech the Hon'ble Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari pleaded for an increase in the existing rates allowable to Kanungos in respect of travelling allowance. Formerly Sub-Deputies and Kanungos were in respect of travelling allowance ranked together, but now for reasons which could not possibly be applied to Kanungos, Sub-Deputy Collectors enjoy the rates applicable to Deputy Collectors. I am consequently not in a position to hold out any hopes to the Hon'ble Member that his request will be granted."

The Hon'ble MR. MACPHERSON said :—

"In connection with excise revenue, the Hon'ble Sir Prodyot Kumar Tagore has expressed the hope that the decrease in revenue has been accompanied by a decrease in the consumption of intoxicants. Such, Sir, has been the case. During the last two years, there has been a decrease in the consumption of intoxicating liquor in the areas that are supplied from the distilleries, and the causes of this decrease are to be found, as I stated when we were discussing the Financial Statement, in high prices, scarcity and depression in various industries. In the year 1908 there was a falling off in consumption of 10 per cent. of liquor in the distillery areas; and in the year that has just ended, though there has been a small increase of consumption of liquor in Calcutta, there has been a continued decrease in certain districts, including the Sonthal Parganas. Another Hon'ble Member has remarked generally that the excise income is much criticised in this country and in England, and he asks that Your Honour will do something in this connection. If the suggestion is that excise is not a proper source of revenue, the only answer that can be given is that excise of liquor and drugs is considered a proper source of taxation in all civilised countries, and that one of the main objects of such taxation is to check consumption by making liquor and drugs dearer. I should be out of order in a Budget discussion if I were to attempt to deal fully with the Hon'ble Member's appeal to Your Honour "to do something in this connection," or at least "to give a few minutes' consideration to the subject," but I may be permitted to remind the hon'ble gentleman that in recent years an Indian Excise Committee has made enquiries covering the whole field of the administration of the law relating to intoxicating liquors, and that the Government of India's seven comprehensive Resolutions on the subject are not yet three years old, and that last year a new Excise Act for the Province was passed into law and that it has not yet been four months in force. The same hon'ble gentleman made some remarks with regard to excessive drinking by the aborigines of Chota Nagpur. I have explained on a former occasion in the old Council the remedial measures that Government has sought to apply in the Chota Nagpur Division, and especially in the Ranchi district, by establishing a distillery system in place of the old outstills, and by continuously curtailing the number of liquor shops and by removing them from conspicuous sites so as to reduce temptation. This subject continues to have careful attention—and not only in rules and authoritative instructions. Strong and sympathetic officers in the Chota Nagpur Division have made continued personal efforts in this direction, and the results are to be found in the Annual Administration Reports of the Departments.

Another Hon'ble Member has asked that the safeguards provided by law in respect of the consumption of opium may be enforced. I need only say that this matter too receives special attention. There has been a reduction in the number of opium shops in Orissa, where the increased consumption attracted attention; the duty on excise opium has also been raised in Orissa. In Calcutta and the adjacent districts the use of opium has been restricted, in order to check the operations of opium-smuggling It may be my duty to make further proposals for the increase of the excise prices of opium in certain districts."

The Hon'ble MR. DUKE said :—

"The first subject, Sir, to which I desire to refer very briefly is one which has been brought forward by the Hon'ble Babu Baikuntha Nath Sen and the Hon'ble Babu Hrishikesh Law, viz., the separation of the Judicial and Executive functions, for which they have pressed, begging that they should not be long delayed. As I had occasion recently to say in Council, the matter is still under consideration and no pronouncement can be made upon it at present; but when so many demands are being made for improvement and reform, all of which require increased expenditure, it may be well to remind members that no change in this direction can be made without considerable cost, and that that is not the least of the many considerations that have to be taken into account. The Hon'ble Babu Baikuntha Nath Sen lightheartedly said that expense should not stand in the way. While that is the view of every one who is advocating particular reforms, reforms are many, and revenue, especially in a year like this, is very limited, and it must be admitted that expense is not the least of many considerations that have to be taken into account, and when the change does come, the expense will be a very high figure indeed.

"Another subject which has been brought up by the Hon'ble Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari and particularly by the Hon'ble Babu Braja Kishore Prasad, is the condition of the Provincial service, particularly the Provincial Executive service. I wish that I had not to answer the suggestions which have been made because the Provincial service is one with which I have been particularly connected. The Provincial Executive service is a meritorious and useful body and in fact one of the main agencies by which Government carries on the administration, and if anybody ought to look after their interests it is surely the Government which they serve, and it is hardly pleasant for the Government to have to face the suggestion from outside that the service has not been properly treated and that its members are discontented. However, I would point out that all improvement is a question of money, and that the money required is to be obtained not from any mere abstraction called the Government, but from the general tax-paying public, and it has either to come by additional taxation, or by giving up some other desired improvement.

"The Hon'bleBabu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari made the suggestion that the service was neither contented nor well paid. The Hon'ble Babu Braja Kishore Prasad went somewhat further, if I heard him rightly, for he suggested that the discontent was notorious. I am quite willing to believe that there may be some amount of discontent. There are extremely few persons in or out of Government service who would not like larger pay than they draw, and there are very few indeed who do not think that they deserve it; but if we look at the question from the point of view of the employer, who is the Government, and of the tax-payer,—and these points of view should be identical,—the question is whether there is any serious and justifiable discontent to be met. The pay of the Provincial Executive service, like that of several other services in India, remains what it has been for may years past, and therefore some sort of case could be made out that prices had risen and the general standard of living become more expensive, and therefore that the pay should be raised; on the other hand it could be answered that the emoluments compare favourably with those of many other services which demand similar attainments. There is no lack of well qualified applicants of good character and position. There is no complaint that the standard of efficiency has fallen off owing to the effect of inadequate remuneration.

"The Hon'ble Babu Braja Kishore Prasad has certainly put me at a disadvantage by coming here prepared with an elaborate argument from figures and percentages which I now hear for the first time, but I gather that the gist of it is that the superior grades of the Provincial service are very small in comparison to the service as a whole, and he has tried to support that argument by showing the different percentages in the grades of District Magistrates and District Superintendents of Police and Assistant Superintendents of Police and in the grades of District Judges. I may mention that the trend of that argument is fallacious. The Provincial Executive service is one in which a man serves from the time he enters the public service as a rule until he retires. There are a few exceptions on one side of men who may have come in later in life by promotion. There are also a few exceptions on the other side of perhaps half a dozen prize appointments outside the service, but upon the whole the service is as nearly as possible self-contained, and a man serves in it throughout the whole period that he serves Government. Under these circumstances it is only reasonable and in accord with all precedent that these prize appointments at the top should be very limited. What a man has to look to are the reasonably well-paid and substantial appointments in the middle grades, and these of course are the large grades of the service on Rs. 300, Rs. 400 and Rs. 500. It does not depend on the percentage of a few higher appointments, but whether these appointments in the middle of the service are sufficiently well paid? There is no comparison with the grades of District Magistrate and District Judge which are the average appointments of the Civil Service, while the prizes are the few higher appointments beyond these grades.

"I am not happy that I have been put in the position of arguing against the Provincial Executive service. I do not suggest that they have no grievance, but I do assert that these grievances must be brought up in a reasonable and considered manner, if Government is to accept them. There is no evidence that discontent is prevalent, and I deny altogether that any inference of ill-treatment of the service can be drawn from the sort of arguments from figures which have been produced just now. It is quite possible that an examination of the figures may prove that in proportion to other services the number of high prize appointments is too limited; but if that is to be established, it must be established on quite different grounds and on quite different data than those which have been put before us to-day."

The Hon'ble MR. GOURLAY said:—

"Before dealing with the points which concern the departments of which I am in charge, I may be permitted to refer to the speech of the Hon'ble Mr. Das on the subject of school gardens. The value of school gardens in the training of the young is universally acknowledged, and I have great sympathy with Mr. Das's aspirations. There are two difficulties, however, to be surmounted—(1) the training of teachers, and (2) the provision of necessary land. The training of the teachers is now being taken in hand in the guru-training schools, and I hope that through the sympathy and generosity of zamindars of the Province it will be possible in time to obtain small plots of land in the vicinity of primary schools. Mr. Das will be glad to hear that enquiries are at present being made with a view to providing some primary schools in the Dompara, Banki and Khurda estates with small gardens for this purpose.

"The Hon'ble Khan Bahadur Maulvi Sarfaraz Husain Khan has brought forward a suggestion for establishing an economic museum in Bankipore. I have had experience of the interest taken by the Hon'ble Member in the Bankipore Agricultural Show, which is one of the best in the Province; and if the members of the local Agricultural Association will take the matter up and provide a building, the Agricultural Department will furnish it with a collection of the economic products of the Province.

"I do not propose to speak again on the subject of the Subordinate Judicial Service; but I would not have it thought, when I spoke last on the subject, there was any want of appreciation of the work of the members of that service, many of whom are my personal friends. My desire then was to show that there was another side to the question, and that the service was not unpopular as might have been supposed.

"My friend, the Hon'ble Member for the University, suggests bringing up the matter again in this Council, and before that time I hope we may have an opportunity of discussing the subject so that we may each be able to fully appreciate the point of view of the other.

"The Hon'ble Member from Ranchi is concerned with the small allotment which has been made for defence of paupers accused in murder cases. The charge is a new one; we have very little to go upon in framing our estimate, but I can assure the Hon'ble Member that if the Rs. 5,000 provided is likely to fall short of the sum required, endeavours will be made to find the balance by reappropriation later in the year.

"The Hon'ble Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari has referred to the decrease in Jail manufactures to which I drew attention when introducing the budget. As I said then, this is a matter which is receiving attention, but I think perhaps the Hon'ble Member is under some misapprehension. Less than 10 per cent. of the manufactures supplied by the jails are sold to the public. The balance is sold to other departments of the Government. The decrease in the revised estimate for 1909-10 is three and-a-half lakhs of rupees. I find that about one and-a-half lakhs is due to the falling off of the demands of the Ordnance Department for tents, and the balance is due mostly to the smaller demands from other Government departments, but also to an increase in articles manufactured for other jails which are supplied at the cost of the material. The stocks held by the department shew an increase of about one and-a-half lakhs during the year. As I have said already this matter is receiving attention.

"The only other point to which I desire to refer is the falling off of registration fees. As the Hon'ble Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari has pointed out, the problem is an interesting and complicated one. Both stagnation in trade and scarcity affect stamp duties and registration fees. To clearly explain all the reasons for the decrease and increase would entail a very searching enquiry, but I think it is probable that the decrease in the number of transactions during a period of stagnation of trade would directly lessen the stamp revenue; while a period of scarcity when the cultivator is driven to mortgage his holding would necessarily increase the number of registrations and the amount of the registration fees. The estimate for the year 1910-11 is based on the actuals for 1909-10, and even though the explanation offered may not be exhaustive, it would be very unwise to estimate for a large revenue."

The Hon'ble MR. KÜCHLER said:—

"Marked attention has been drawn not only in the course of the present debate, but also at previous Council meetings, to the state of University education in Bihar, and it has been suggested that University colleges in that part of the province do not receive the same measure of Government support as in the Burdwan and Presidency Divisions. This conclusion is, however, I venture to think, founded on an erroneous interpretation of the figures and other data that have been put forward in its support. It is perfectly true that if we compare the population of Bihar with that of Bengal, the amount of public money spent on University education in the former appears to be inadequate, but this is not a sound basis of comparison. We have heard a good deal from Bihar members about the educational backwardness of their part of the country, but I think it will be generally conceded that this backwardness is not due to want of facilities of education, but on the contrary that educational institutions are few in number, because Biharies have hitherto shown no eagerness to make use of them. If we proceed then by figures at all, we should, I think, compare not the population or areas of Bihar and Bengal proper, but the number of University students reading in these two parts of the province, or perhaps, even more usefully, the fees paid by these students. Taking for instance the comparison instituted by the Hon'ble Member Khan Bahadur Maulvi Sarfaraz Hussain Khan between the grants-in-aid to Bihar and for Bengal colleges, which at first sight are very striking, to make it really effective, it is neces-sary to give the additional figures which I have previously suggested. The numbers reading in the Bihar colleges are:—

In the Bihar National College	... 184
In the Taj Narain College	... 207
Bhumihar Brahman College	... 77

While those in the four Bengal colleges are:—

St. Xavier's College	... 330
Bangabasi College	... 443
Metropolitan Institution	... 740
Scottish Churches College	... 780

"I take the most recent figures, namely, for 31st December, 1909. The totals are 468 and 2,293, respectively, a proportion of about 1 to 5, while the imperial grants as given by the Hon'ble Member show a proportion of between one-third and one-fourth. Again, taking the fee receipts, the figures for the two groups of colleges work out at Rs. 12,699 and Rs. 74,344, giving a ratio even less than that for the number of students. Judged therefore by either of these two tests, Bihar colleges would appear to be more than equitably treated. In the same way, if we consider the figures for the whole province, we find that the recurring grant of Rs. 2,400 for the Bihar National College, though apparently insignificant compared with the total amount of Rs. 68,000 spent in this way on all the colleges of the province, is not largely disproportionate to the corresponding student population. In 1908-09, for instance, for which year I have the complete figures, there were only 83 students in the Bihar National College out of a total of 3,262 in all the private colleges of the province. I do not, however, attach too much importance to these data. The argument from figures is apt to be misleading, especially in the present case, and there are other considerations of at least equal importance which regulate the question of grants-in-aid to private colleges. To Government one of the most important of these is how far the actual demand for University education justifies the rapid extension of existing institutions. I should like to say just a word or two on this point. In doing so I must in the first place acknowledge the extraordinary enthusiasm shown by the leaders of the Bihar community in the cause of education and the splendid liberality in which that enthusiasm has found material expression. In this respect Bihar now undoubtedly stands in the forefront and has shown a noteworthy example to the rest of the province. But, and I say it with all due diffidence, has not the desire on the part of the leaders for extended facilities for University education outrun the demand of the community itself, and is Government, therefore, which is the custodian of the public purse, justified in subsidising such an extension? I will take a typical instance. There are two colleges in Patna—one the Government college and the other the Bihar National College, a private institution. When the new regulations were introduced, it was considered doubtful whether there was room for two first grade colleges in Patna, that is, two colleges teaching up to the B.A. standard, but the Bihar National College was given an experimental grant of Rs. 200 a month, pending the final decision on this question. Since then, that is, during the last three years, the numbers both in the Bihar National College and the Patna College have been under careful observation, and so far it would appear that although there are enough students to justify the establishment of intermediate classes up to the intermediate standard in two colleges, there are certainly not enough for two independent systems of B. A. classes. It is sufficient to give the figures for the present year. In the third-year class of the Bihar National College, there are only three students, and in the 4th year 10, while the corresponding figures for the Patna College are 32 and 38, but while these figures are very significant, especially those of the third year, I acknowledge that it would be very dispiriting to the authorities of the college and to the members of the staff to discontinue the B. A. classes altogether. The whole character of a professor's work is undoubtedly benefited if it includes advanced teaching, and the dignity of the college is also at the same time largely increased. Some allowance must also be made for the struggles which private colleges have to undergo in coping with the new regulations, and an experiment such as the present must not be discontinued too early, even if it does not at once meet with success at the beginning. At the same time it is perfectly clear that for the present the Bihar National College should very carefully limit its affiliation up to the B. A. standard. I have repeatedly impressed this point on the authorities of the college, but I regret to say that they have disregarded my advice, and have extended their affiliation before the resources of the college have justified such a step and before they have sufficiently considered whether such an extension has been called for on other grounds. The figures, however, which I have just given, show clearly that there is no room at present for two independent grade colleges in Patna with extended affiliation. There is, moreover, another aspect of the question which I feel bound to bring to the notice of the Hon'ble Members from Bihar, and that is this. As the Bihar National College improves in general efficiency and extends its affiliation in the subjects for the B. A. Examination, the Patna Government College will inevitably suffer so far as its numbers are concerned. This is only natural when we consider that the fees in the former college are only Rs. 3 and Rs. 4, while in the latter they are Rs. 6 Nor is it a matter merely of speculation. In the years 1900-01 the number of students on the rolls of the Patna College was 306; on the 31st March 1909 it was 167, and though there have been ups and downs the fall on the whole has been continuous. It is true that in the present year the numbers have jumped up again to 243, but this sharp rise is shared with all the colleges in the province and is due to the large number of passes in the Entrance Examination of 1909. It does not show itself to any material extent in the B.A. classes with which we are more immediately concerned at present. The issues here involved are very important, and I do not wish to dwell on them now. It is sufficient if those who are interested in the welfare of the Bihar National College realise that the question of the extension of the affiliation of the college is not free from complications.

"Another case which has been pressed on the attention of Government is that of the Bhumihar College, and the question of a grant-in-aid to this college is governed by the same considerations as in the case of the Bihar National College. When an application for Government aid was first submitted to me at the end of the year 1908, I strongly advised the committee in view of the exacting requirements of the new University regulations to put the college on a sound second-grade basis, and only to establish B.A. classes when there was clear evidence of a strong local demand for such higher teaching. At the same time I undertook to recommend to Government their application for a grant in-aid sufficient for the working of a first-grade college, if they could show that such an institution would supply a real want in North Bihar. No attempt has, however, been made to produce any evidence to this effect, presumably because it does not exist, and the Committee is still pressing for a large Government grant to enable them to maintain the institution as a fully staffed and fully equipped first grade college. Unfortunately the figures at my disposal entirely fail to support their claim. The number of students reading in the third and fouth year classes has always been very meagre and shows not the slightest tendency to increase. In the present year there are only three students in the third year class and four in the fourth. The Hon'ble Member Babu Braja Kishore Prasad has stated that the college has fully justified its existence as a first-grade college by turning out a good number of graduates in a few years of its existence. But on examination I find that during the last three years it has only turned out four which hardly seems to support the claim he has put forward. Nor is there any prospect of the numbers in the B.A. classes increasing, for in the two other private colleges in Bihar taken together the corresponding numbers are only 15 in the third and 30 in the fourth year. The whole number of Bihari students reading in the three private colleges for the B.A. Examination could therefore without difficulty be provided for in any single one of them. I would appeal therefore to the Hon'ble Members from Bihar whether these figures do not show that there is great waste of resources in the matter of higher University education, and whether Government is not fully justified in jealously scrutinising applications for the multiplication of first grade colleges under present conditions. So far for the private colleges. Another ground of complaint is that the Patna Government College does not include a sufficient number of subjects in its curriculum. More specially it is urged that there should be a provision for teaching Philosophy and that M.A. classes should also be opened. I would point out, however, that having regard to the number of its students, Patna College is far more liberally staffed than any other Government College in Bengal. The present proportion is one professor to 14 students. It likewise has the advantage of a splendid site, ample space for play-grounds, excellent hostels and liberal class-room accommodation, and when the new laboratory which has been administratively sanctioned is erected, it will be in every way the model college which Sir Andrew Fraser intended. It is obvious, however, that under the new regulations no college can be affiliated in every subject recognised by the University, and the smaller the college the more restricted must its affiliation ordinarily be, but as I have already pointed out the staff of the Patna College and consequently its affiliation is on a singularly liberal scale and no further extension is justified at present. With regard to the particular subject of philosophy it was represented by the Principal that this was a very unpopular subject and that students were unwilling to take it up. Affiliation in Political Economy and Political Philosophy was therefore substituted in its place, and this subject forms a much more natural combination with History, in which the college is also affiliated, and which is one of the most popular and desirable branches of University study.

"As to the want of M.A. teaching, this point has already been dealt with in the answer which was given by the Hon'ble Mr. Gourlay to a question on the subject. I do not think Hon'ble Members sufficiently realise as yet the very high standard of the new University courses for the M.A. degree and the consequently small number of students who are qualified to pursue these studies. It is a commonplace of University education that the more specialised a subject is the fewer can be the centres at which that subject is taught, and for many years to come M A. teaching in this province will have to be confined in this province at least to Calcutta. Even at the Presidency College affiliation up to the M.A. standard has so far only been secured in four subjects. Scholarships have, however, been instituted by Government in order to enable promising mufassal students to pursue their studies for the M.A. Examination in Calcutta, and that this will amply meet the wants of Bihar for a very considerable time to come will be shewn by the following figures which I have at my disposal. In the first place the total number of students at present reading in the fourth year classes of the Bihar colleges is 72: taking the proportion of passes in the past, perhaps some twenty-five of these may be expected to pass, and of the latter three or four to take honours. It is only these honour students who may, with any reasonable hope of success, attempt to go in for the M.A. Examination, and it is therefore clear that the time has not yet come for the establishment of independent M.A. teaching at Patna. Still more conclusive, however, are the figures with respect to candidates who read for the M.A. Examination in the years before the introduction of the new regulations, when Patna College was not precluded from preparing and sending up candidates for the M.A. Examination. In the years from 1901 to 1909 only 11 candidates appeared from Bihar, of whom six passed. These figures speak for themselves, and require, I think, no further comment.

"Another point which has been raised with regard to education in Bihar concerns the Patna Training College. This was started experimentally in October 1908, as it was felt that a certain amount of hardship would be created if Bihar teachers were compelled to come to the David Hare Training College at Calcutta for their training. It was decided that owing to the paucity of Bihari graduates the usefulness of the institution would be largely increased, if it prepared candidates for the Licentiate of Teaching diploma instead of for the Bachelor of Teaching degree, the examination for the former being open to all under-graduates who have passed the Intermediate or First-in-Arts examinations. There is no question of preparing for both examinations. Even the David Hare Training College with its larger staff and greater number of students has to limit itself to the preparation for the Bachelor of Teaching examination. It is therefore obvious that the best results will be obtained if the Bihar Training College adheres to the Licentiate of Teaching examination as the basis of its curriculum. I should add that we have still not enough data to enable a definite decision to be arrived at, as to the question of the permanent retention of the college itself. Personally I do not anticipate any difficulty in this respect, but it is well to bear in mind, when proposals are put forward for extension of staff and curriculum, that the college has not yet been two years in existence, and that it has not yet passed beyond the experimental stage.

"In connection with the new Law College at Bankipore, the point has been raised that students find it difficult to come to Calcutta for examination, and it has been suggested that Bankipore should be made a centre of examination.

This is a matter, however, for the Syndicate to decide, and I have no doubt that if a proper representation is made to that body, it will receive very careful consideration.

"As regards the question of a play-ground for the Patna Collegiate Schools, I can only say that enquiries are being made on the subject, and I hope that the issue will be favourable.

"The Hon'ble Khan Bahadur Maulvi Sarfaraz Husain Khan has made a reference to the Patna Female Training College and has expressed himself in somewhat pessimistic terms as to the success of the institution. He seems inclined to favour, in preference, the peripatetic system of teaching and to question the qualifications of the staff of the college. No representation has, however, been received from the Advisory Committee suggesting a diversion of the funds allotted to that institution to other methods of providing education for Muhammadan girls. I have no reason to believe that such a representation will be forthcoming, and I am more hopeful than the Hon'ble Member appears to be as to the future success of the college. On this question, however, it is far too early to pronounce definitely. As to the qualifications of the assistants to the Lady Principal, it is perfectly true that the lady occupying the post of Mistress of Method has had no preliminary training for this work. It was found impossible at the time of the opening of the college to secure the service of a trained Muhammadan lady teacher. Such in fact do not exist. It was intended, however, as soon as things had settled down at the college, to depute the ladies who are now acting as Mistresses of Method to the Ahmedabad Training College for training, and I hope that it will still be possible to carry out this idea.

"The Hon'ble Babu Braja Kishore Prasad has also referred to the question of secondary education. I am in full sympathy with him as to the necessity of improving secondary education, and as has already been intimated in Council the matter is at present under the consideration of Government. There are one or two points, however, in his speech which call for remark. Owing to the difficulty of obtaining Bihari graduates, I have found it necessary in several cases to offer Rs. 50 as a commencing salary, though even this amount is not sufficient to attract graduates to Chota Nagpur or for the district of Purnea. It is impossible, however, to offer these terms on an unlimited scale, as to put a Bihari on this pay into the Subordinate Educational Service constitutes a grave injustice to the graduates from Bengal, who are recruited on lower terms in the Lower Subordinate Education Service. It is therefore necessary to restrict the number of graduate teachers in Bihar schools and to content ourselves with the under-graduates, if we are to maintain the principle that posts in these schools should as far as possible be filled by Biharis, and this restriction must inevitably continue until the prospects of the service as a whole are improved.

"I am afraid I have occupied practically the whole of the time at my disposal with the educational problems of Bihar. Fortunately the points raised by other Hon'ble Members with regard to the budget provision for education in the rest of the province can be dealt with very shortly. It has been stated with regard to technical education that only Rs. 59,000 has been provided in the budget for this purpose. Fortunately I am in a position to correct the misapprehension of the Hon'ble Member Rai Sita Nath Roy Bahadur on this subject. The Rs. 59,000 to which he refers includes the Serampore Weaving School and the Ranchi Industrial School. There is also an extra grant of Rs. 6,600 towards the former as shown in the schedule of the financial statement, and under grants-in-aid there is an item of Rs. 11,540 towards technical and industrial schools. All this perhaps does not amount to very much, but I am afraid I must disagree with the Hon'ble Member in his suggestion that the grant of Rs. 3,15,000 for the Sibpur College should not be regarded as coming under technical education. Though the college cannot be regarded as a technological institution in the full sense of the term, it includes in its curriculum not only civil Engineering which of course belongs to technical education but also Mechanical Engineering and Mining, and provision has been also made for opening classes this year for instruction in Industrial Chemistry. It will be seen therefore that technological education is not being neglected by Government, but that a very important beginning has been made, which will no doubt undergo considerable development as the industrial conditions of the country demand it.

"I sympathise with the Hon'ble Member Babu Bal Krishna Sahai in his desire for increased facility for female education and for training female teachers. The training of female teachers is, however a matter in which we have to proceed most cautiously and in which we require at every step the support and advice of the Indian community. A very promising beginning has, however, been made both at Patna and Calcutta, and though the results may not be very striking at first, I feel certain that the institutions which have been started at these two centres contain the germs of future success.

"The Hon'ble Member has also raised the question of moral training in schools and colleges. So recently as the year 1905 it was decided by the Government of India that morality should be inculcated in schools only by indirect methods, but events have marched rapidly since then, and it is possible that the decision arrived at then may yet have to be reconsidered. The question of moral teaching, I may mention, was fully considered at an International Conference which sat in England in the year 1908, and though opinion was strongly divided on the subject, several valuable instances such as that of the French schools were quoted, where the system of direct moral teaching seems to have been successful.

"The Hon'ble Mr. Das has referred to the desirability of attaching experimental farms to village schools and of teaching school-boys some form of handicraft. Both of these questions have received attention in the revised syllabus for Standards I to VI, but it has been thought more useful to provide school gardens rather than experimental farms for the training of school children. I have now under consideration a scheme for attaching a school garden for all the zilla schools in the province, and it is hoped that the example will be followed later on by private institutions.

"I am afraid I have left myself no time to discuss the important questions of primary education and the removal of the Presidency College. The former is a very large question, but its discussion would serve no useful purpose, as it has been sufficiently shown in the debate which took place on the subject in the Imperial Council that no material advance can take place without a large grant from Imperial revenues. There were one or two statements, however, made by the Hon'ble Babu Bhupendra Nath Basu in dealing with the questions which require some modification. The Hon'ble Member gave the sum of Rs. 6,20,000 as covering the total expenditure of Government on primary education. It is, however, much larger than this, for he has overlooked the expenditure on maktabs, which are the schools for the primary education of Muhammadans on guru-training schools, and, though I am loth to mention it in view of the inimical attitude of certain Members of the Council on the subject—on inspection. A very large amount is spent on the pay and travelling allowance of Sub-Inspectors, who are the officers more immediately concerned with the control of primary schools. Again as regards the pay of gurus, the Rs. 2 and Rs. 3-8 referred to by the Hon'ble Member does not represent the total salary of these unfortunate individuals. The greater part of the income of the gurus is derived from the fees of the children who attend the schools, and their average pay may be stated at about Rs. 7.

"As regards the removal of the Presidency College, my only object in introducing the subject into my budget remarks was to give an opportunity to the public of giving expression to any change of opinion which might have taken place since the matter was first discussed. I find, however, notwithstanding the strong advocacy of removal by the Hon'ble Mr. Apcar, that opinions are still very much divided on the question. It is true that I am personally in favour of removal, but I am still more strongly in favour of finality, and in the absence of unanimity of public opinion on the matter, it is better that it should be decided to retain the College on its present site."

"In conclusion I hope that the explanations I have just given will have served to put in a clearer light some of the points raised by Hon'ble Members and will have shown that in such cases, not a few in number, I am afraid, where Government has not been able to satisfy the demands for increased expenditure on the part of the Hon'ble Members, the refusal has been dictated not by want of sympathy, not by merely financial reasons, but by considerations which have presented themselves after a full and careful examination of the merits of each question."

The Hon'ble Mr. Wheeler said:—

"It remains only for me, Sir, to explain a few points in connection with the administrative departments with which I am concerned, as regards matters which have not been noticed by other Members in charge. These refer to the Medical and Sanitary Departments, and to the affairs of District Boards and Municipalities.

"In the Medical Department I think I can allay the fear expressed by the Hon'ble Babu Bal Krishna Sahai that the creation of the separate chair for the Professor of Anatomy at the Medical College may result in a loss of efficiency if the present appointment of Professor of Anatomy and Second Surgeon be simultaneously abolished. There is no such intention. The teaching of Anatomy has been combined with the duties of Second Surgeon since the establishment of the College, but the increase of surgical work, which will be added to still further when the new Surgical Block is opened, has prevented the Second Surgeon from devoting as much personal supervision to the professorship as was desirable, and the combination of surgical practice with work in the dissecting room is obviously open to objection. The new Professor will devote his whole time to the teaching of anatomy; the Second Surgeon will thus have more time for surgical work proper, and will conduct practical classes in clinical and operative surgery, while also delivering a special course of lectures on throat and ear diseases. The standard of teaching in the College on these subjects should thus be materially improved.

"With reference to the Hon'ble Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari's suggestion that retrospective effect might be given to any reorganisation of the services of Civil Assistant Surgeons and Civil Medical Assistants, I am afraid the usual rule will apply, namely, that the change will be introduced from the date of the orders approving it, but in the case of the Civil Medical Assistants we hope those orders will be passed almost at once. This is what is being done in the case of the improvement of the ministerial services, orders as regards which were passed some time ago, although delay has subsequently ensued in working out the details.

"Turning to the matter of sanitation the Hon'ble Babu Hrishikesh Laha fears that we have unduly cut the allotment for sanitation and vaccination in the Medical Budget which amounts to Rs. 2,33,000, but the decrease in comparison with the preceding year is mainly due to the omission of the provision for the reorganisation of the Sanitary Department, and to the fact that the Budget for 1910-11 contained a provision of Rs. 30,000 for enquiries recommended by the Drainage Committee. Any such expenditure during 1910-11 will be met from the grant of 4½ lakhs for sanitary improvements. For plague preventive measures there is a separate provision of Rs. 48,500 which the Hon'ble Member has perhaps overlooked.

"Otherwise the general drift of the criticisms which have been made is that something more should be done for the improvement of the sanitation of the country, but these remarks seem to me to overlook the two main issues, namely, the organization by which these sanitary measures are to be undertaken, and the funds from which they are to be financed. Really the second question is the vital one, and until Hon'ble Members can show us from whence the money is to come to pay for the different works of improvement which they wish to see carried out, the discussion must always remain to some extent unreal. Towards organization we have Municipalities, District and Local Boards and Union Committees, but the true difficulty lies in the absence of an active agency in the villages themselves; the history of Union Committees has been a somewhat chequered one, and the results of recent attempts to resuscitate village panchayats have still to be seen. Progress will inevitably be slow. When we touch on finance we are at once confronted with the reluctance of the people who ask for these works of improvement to pay for them. Government already does help Municipalities and District Boards to a far greater extent than it ordinarily gets credit for, and it is difficult to see how the extent of that assistance can be materially increased. The alternative is local taxation, but if there was anything more marked than another in evidence which I not long ago had to listen to and read in connection with the Decentralization Commission it was that no one in any part of India wanted to pay for sanitary improvements. This is the history of so many sanitary schemes; they are urged by the local residents, examined, and worked out, only to collapse for want of funds. I recently was reading the papers of a scheme, doubtless known to some of you, for the improvement of the Nawi and Soonthi rivers in the neighbourhood of Baraset; the unhealthiness of that area has been often represented, and schemes have been discussed since the eighties onwards. A project has now been sent up; yet in the course of enquiries about the incidence of the cost, a certain section of the inhabitants urged that the place was not unhealthy at all. Another scheme is at present before Government which has been elaborated at considerable expense and towards which both Government and a Member of this Council have promised help, but objections are now being raised locally to the cost. It is this question of finance which is the stumbling-block, and if more is to be done to improve sanitation, the cause will perhaps be better furthered by enlisting the practical co-operation of the localities concerned than by pressing for larger allotments at a time like the present.

"The Hon'ble Babu Boikanta Nath Sen has drawn attention to two conspicuous examples of private liberality in the Murshidabad district, in which Funds have been created for the improvement of the water-supply and works of sanitation, and that example is doubtless most laudable; but as regards the claim for the special treatment of the district in recognition of this fact, it may be pointed out that out of the sanitary improvement grant for 1909-10, Murshidabad in one way and another received Rs. 57,500.

"As regards the subject of Local Self-Government generally we have the criticisms of the same Hon'ble Member that the villagers in the mufassal do not receive an adequate return from the District Boards for their payments of the road and public works cesses, and as regards Municipalities that these should be left a freer hand in the management of their own affairs. The first point touches rather the administration of the District Boards, and is thus scarcely connected with the present Budget. It has been admitted that the resources of District Boards might with advantage be increased, and this has been practically recognised by the grants-in-aid now given equal to 25 per cent. of the net road cess receipts, which in the current Budget account for no less a sum than Rs. 8,90,000. Government also makes a number of miscellaneous grants to District Boards. Within the funds at their disposal I have never heard it established that District Boards, as a whole, are wasteful in their administration, and if they are, the remedy lies mainly in the hands of the members of these Boards.

"As regards the control exercised by Government officers over the proceedings of municipalities, we recently had occasion to examine a number of suggestions and criticisms which were made by the Decentralization Commission on the subject of Municipal administration generally and the net result, as regards Bengal, was that no case had been made out for much radical change. The principal suggestion of the Commission was that municipal budgets should be exempted from all control by District Magistrates and Commissioners, and in the case of four large Municipalities in the Burdwan and Presidency Divisions, with an annual income of over one lakh of rupees, it has been decided to make an experiment in this direction. It was not thought expedient to relax all supervision in the case of smaller towns, more especially in Bihar and in the Chota Nagpur and Orissa Divisions, but the policy of Government is to discountenance interference with details and to endeavour to assist municipalities by advice in the first instance, rather than rigidly to curtail the exercise of their discretion. It is doubtful whether in any matters of importance, municipalties are unduly checked and fettered, and the Hon'ble Member must have personal knowledge of at least one case in which they have been allowed to land their affairs in a state of considerable confusion. The difficulty is that when this ensues application is at once made to Government for help, and this fact necessitates the retention of powers of supervision in the hands of Government which perhaps would not be required were public interest in the efficient management of local affairs stronger. An enquiry is now in progress whether the elective system could usefully be extended to any municipalities which do not at present enjoy that privilege.

"As regards the plea that larger grants-in-aid should be given to municipalities it is perhaps not generally known that in 1908-9 the total grants given by Government were equal to 8·8 per cent. of the total municipal income in the province (excluding the opening balance of the year), the corresponding figure for 1907-08 being 6 per cent. and for 1906-07, 3·8 per cent. Substantial assistance is, therefore, already given, and such grants are showing a tendency to increase. In 1908-9 they amounted to Rs. 5,33,238.

"With reference to the recommendation of the Hon'ble Maharajadhiraj of Burdwan, that Government assistance to local bodies should not be made absolutely conditional upon the contributions of two-thirds of the cost of the project from local resources, he will find by reference to various recent instances that that limit has not been applied in the past with absolute rigidity. Government has always considered each application upon its merits, and has only insisted, as it is bound to insist, that the local co-operation should be substantial, and in reasonable proportion to the total expenditure involved.

"The Hon'ble Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari complains of the grants-in-aid given to the Calcutta and Howrah Municipalities, and urges that the money could have been better applied to the poorer towns, noticeably Hooghly and Puri. The case of the widening of Seal's Lane in the Howrah Municipality is still the subject of correspondence; it is in contemplation to make over certain lands acquired, if the municipality constructs a drain and metals and lights the road, etc. Government is interested in the matter for the improvement of its property in that town. The two subventions to the Calcutta Corporation are in connection with the realignment of a sewer near the new Presidency Jail and the drainage of the fringe area. The first work was undertaken at the instance of Government and in the interests of the jail; hence the cost of it is being met by Government. The second grant was the outcome of considerable discussion with the Corporation. That body urged a large claim against Government for assistance towards the drainage of the land in question, in respect of the action of Government in connection with the Circular Canal and the intercepting sewer. Government did not admit the claim as one of right, but a promise of help was given in September 1908. I agree that the Corporation was treated with considerable liberality, but I doubt if the representatives of that body who are in the Council would admit this. I would recommend the Hon'ble Member to fight out the matter with the Corporation. As regards the competing claims of other bodies, the Hon'ble Member will find mention of various grants-in-aid to different municipalities in paragraph 61 of the Budget notes. It is true that neither Puri nor Hooghly are included therein, but the former town received Rs. 75,000 in 1907-08 towards its drainage project and Rs. 1,04,000 in 1908-09 towards its water-supply scheme. It has scarcely therefore any very valid ground of complaint. Hooghly was promised a lakh under certain conditions in 1908, towards a project of water-supply, and was actually given Rs. 30,000 in 1908-09. The total estimate amounts to Rs. 4,53,118, and the question of finance is at the present moment the subject of discussion with the municipality.

The Hon'ble Babu Bal Krishna Sahai asks for special assistance to the drainage schemes at Ranchi and Hazaribagh. The project for the latter town was administratively approved in December last at an estimated cost of Rs. 88,459 and will be undertaken gradually as funds permit. Government has already made a grant of Rs. 10,000, and has promised a loan of Rs. 20,000, which is all that the municipality can immediately afford to take. Government surveyors are working on a drainage scheme for Ranchi, but the plans and estimates have not yet reached Government. When they come up the question of finance will be examined, and I have no doubt that if the local municipality is willing to co-operate, help from Government will be forthcoming.

"I do not think there are any other administrative points to which I need refer, and as touching the Budget generally, the general trend of these debates has been sympathetic. It is inevitable that there should be a cry from various directions for more, but as regards the method of the distribution of what we have got, there has not been much criticism. The Hon'ble Babu Braja Kishore Persad asks for more detail to be furnished in the Budget, more especially as regards the grant-in-aid allotment of the Education Department. If he refers to preceding Budget discussions of this Council, he will see that that is a matter to which the Finance Department has paid attention in the past, and various changes have been introduced from time to time amplifying the details given. In the particular instance he cites, I will see whether something can be done. The Education Department is responsible for the distribution of the lump grant, but there are certain recurring grants which it is known will be made from year to year, and it should be possible to give details of these. In any case detail of the distribution of the preceding year could be given, as has been done in the case of the sanitary improvement grant.

"Finally it remains to refer to the various criticisms which have been made on the subject of the procedure which has been adopted this year in the discussion of the Budget. These have been directed mainly against the shortness of the time which was allowed to Hon'ble Members for the examination of the Revised Financial Statement and the filing of Resolutions in respect of it. As I understand the Hon'ble Mr. Das he would have liked to have had two meetings for the discussion of the Revised Financial Statement: the first at which the different Members in charge would have offered their explanatory remarks; the second for the moving of Resolutions In the first place I would emphasise the fact that whatever the defects of the system followed this year, it constitutes a great advance on anything which was done before to enable the Council to grasp the contents of the Budget and to offer suggestions for its amendment. Under the old rules there would have been one discussion of the Budget, and one only, such as we have had to-day; under the new procedure the Council has had three opportunities of discussing the figures in whole or part. The first was by the Finance Committee of the Council, of which half the Members were elected. It is true that the Hon'ble M. Saiyid Muhammad Fakruddin complains that no Biharis were elected to that Committee, and desires the amendment of the rules so as to ensure their return. It is not quite clear what change he desires. The Committee is the agent of the Council to advise upon a particular portion of the Budget—the distribution of the unallotted expenditure—and it is for the Council to elect representative nominees, who will see that the interests of all parts of the province are, so far as practicable, represented. Moreover, it should be quite possible for any Member of this Council who was not upon the Committee to ensure the examination of any matter in which he was particularly interested; if any such point had been brought to my notice, I would certainly have been glad to look into it. Subsequent to the Finance Committee the Council had before it the Revised Financial Statement, head by head, and finally we have the present discussion. These changes were all intended to make for the better understanding of the figures and for expressions of opinion regarding them.

"But this elaboration of procedure has had two results. Compliance with it has meant that we are tied down to an exact calendar of dates by which the different stages have to be got through; secondly, the multiplicity of the stages has meant that the permissible interval between each is necessarily short. It is to be remembered that in respect of its Budget Bengal is not independent; our figures have to be submitted to the Government of India and passed by them. They too have their own Budget to compile, in which our figures and those of other provinces find a place. Apart from the proceedings in Council there are various stages of first, second and final editions, all being corrected and amended in view of later actuals and developments, and the whole thing forms a somewhat intricate chain in which each link has to be completed by a certain time. It is not open to the Local Government to delay a particular stage; if it were to do so the Imperial Budget would be thrown out of gear. At the same time all these stages have to be crowded into a very brief space.

"I admit that the interval given to Hon'ble Members for giving notice of Resolutions on the Revised Financial Statement was regrettably short. I can assure Hon'ble Members that if the intervals between the different stages of the Budget were longer, the lives of the Finance Department in the cold weather would be far easier, and it is from no disinclination to extend them that we have been actuated. The question is solely one of what is practicable. The procedure followed this year was new, and we have now had experience of its working. None of the Hon'ble Members have put forward suggestions for shortening the procedure, and that is really what is wanted. It is likely that the whole matter prior to next Budget will be further examined. Our difficulties in Bengal are probably not unique, and it can be seen how other provinces have surmounted them. We seem to need to eliminate some of the stages, possibly sacrificing some statistical accuracy, but giving longer time for the more essential portions of the system. For instance, speaking purely for myself, I am not at all sure that the discussion of the estimates on two occasions, once piecemeal and once as a whole, is really necessary. The discussions tend to overlap and to extend to matters not directly concerned with the Budget. However, it is unnecessary to enter into details now. The essential point is that the system was new, and its working this year shows that at some stages it moves rather creakily. We shall have to see before next Budget how far it can be improved upon.

"On the subject of the financial position of the province generally, it is perhaps unnecessary to say much. We are better off now than it was thought we should be when the Budget for 1909-10 was under discussion, because it was then thought that we should end the year with nothing by way of a true balance. We hope to end the current year with our minimum balance of 20 lakhs, and so far there is a considerable improvement, but it is obvious that we have still no available margin which will permit of lavish expenditure. We can keep the machinery going and improve it slowly, but that is about all. As for the future, I would commend to the attention of the Hon'ble Babu Baikuntha Nath Sen the recent remarks of Sir Guy Fleetwood Wilson regarding provincial financial settlements generally. So far as I can gather, other provinces in the course of that debate seem to have thought that Bengal was peculiarly favoured, and while it is scarcely to be expected that I should admit that, we have certainly been greatly helped by the special assistance that the Government of India have accorded to us. Whether we are likely to get more is a question upon which I would not now care to enter. We should certainly like more if we can get it.

"Before I close, there is only one personal matter to which I would like to refer. This concerns an officer of the Financial Department. He does not figure in this Council, but his work is known to many of us. I refer to Rai Surendra Nath Mitra Bahadur, who after many years honourable service in the Financial Department, finally attained the position of Under-Secretary, and is now about to retire. He has for many years helped in the framing of the budget, and as this is the last budget with which he will be connected it is right that the good work done by him should be publicly recognised.

"GENTLEMEN OF THE COUNCIL,—You will, I am sure, be glad to learn that it is not my intention to trouble you with a lengthy speech on the present occasion. The points that have been raised by the various non-official speakers have, for the most part, been dealt with fully and effectively by the various members who have replied on behalf of the Government, and it is unnecessary for me to go over the same ground again. I propose to confine my remarks to two or three matters, and these I have selected partly because of their intrinsic interest and importance, and partly also because in regard to them I wish to add a few remarks to what has been said concerning them by the official speakers.

I was very pleased to hear what fell from the Hon'ble Mr. Wheeler just now about Rai Surendra Nath Mitra Bahadur. My acquaintance with the Rai Bahadur goes back to the year 1882, when I first came down to the Secretariat to officiate as Under-Secretary in the Financial Department, and during the twenty-eight years that have passed since then, the Rai Bahadur must have coached, I do not know how many Secretaries and Under-Secretaries in the Financial Department, and he has always done his work with the greatest willingness and the greatest capacity. It was a matter of much gratification to me when I learnt two years ago that there was a possibility of rewarding his admirable services by promoting him to the position of Under-Secretary.

The next point relates to the remarks which have been made concerning the rules which govern the business of the Council itself. Several Hon'ble Members have complained of the shortness of the time which the rules allow for moving resolutions in regard to the budget: others have taken exception to the method of electing members of the Finance Committee; more than one member has hinted that under the operation of these rules the province which they represent has been virtually excluded from the Committee. One Hon'ble Member has gone so far as to criticize the rules for the constitution of the Council itself, including in his condemnation the special electorates, which form an essential part of the present system; the exclusion from the Council of what he describes as the 'real leaders of thought'; and the nature of the non-official majority.

With regard to the last point I must point out that the observations of the Hon'ble Member were not strictly in order in connection with the budget debate; and I only refrained from interposing because we are always anxious to ascertain the views which are held on this important subject by all members of the public. I was glad that I allowed him to speak, for his remarks promptly called up those non-official Hon'ble Members, who expressed very different views, and dissociated themselves from what he had said. In any case the Hon'ble Member cannot possibly expect that Government will give any reply to his specific criticisms on the present occasion. I will merely say, with reference to his observations on the subject of special electorates, that this particular question was the subject of very full public discussion during a large part of last year, and it was decided on by the Government in this country and by the Secretary of State after the fullest consideration. Speaking for myself only, I think it is exceedingly doubtful whether any modification of this principle is in the least likely to be agreed to.

"With reference to the complaint that the time allowed for moving resolutions was inconveniently short, I am disposed to agree with the view that Hon'ble Members have taken, and we shall be prepared to consider whether it is possible to extend the time in any way. But, as the Hon'ble Finance Member has explained, the period is in the long run determined by the dates fixed for the various stages of the Financial Statement in the Imperial Council, and I am not very sanguine that it will be possible to arrange for any material extension. I quite agree with the Hon'ble Members who have commented on the procedure for choosing members of the Finance Committee. This matter has been privately brought to my notice already, and before next year comes round we hope to be able to place the arrangements on a more satisfactory footing.

I cannot, however, understand in what way the province of Bihar has been prejudicially affected by defects in this part of the rules more than any other part of the province. We should certainly have preferred if the Finance Committee had included representatives of Bihar, but it is not very clear to me that their absence on the present occasion was due to any defect in the rules rather than to the abstention of the Bihar members themselves.

"The next point to which I will refer is the demand which has been put forward by a considerable number of Hon'ble Members for increased expenditure on sanitation. This is a demand which comes up with considerable regularity almost every year, and it is not a matter for surprise that it should have been brought forward on the present occasion. I regard the persistence of Hon'ble Members in this matter as a good sign rather than otherwise, for it indicates the increasing interest which the representives of the public feel in a matter which is necessarily of the greatest public importance. But, when Hon'ble Members are engaged in criticising the allotments for sanitary improvements and demanding larger grants in every direction, would they not do well sometimes to consider what is actually being done and what has been accomplished in the past. I seldom find any recognition or appreciation of past or present progress in the remarks which are laid before Council on these occasions, and it must be manifest that, without some knowledge of what has been and is being done, the criticisms of Hon'ble Members are liable to miss the mark. In passing I may say that by the term sanitation I refer to two classes of work only, namely, water-supply and drainage. Strictly, of course, the term includes other matters also, by no means unimportant in themselves; but in comparison with these two primary items they are relatively negligible. Now, gentlemen, I find that in the year 1909-10 which has just come to a close, sanction was newly given to no less than 17 fresh projects of which five were for water-supply and 12 for drainage. All these schemes had been fully worked out, and adequate arrangements had been made to finance them. These are new additions to a larger number of similar projects which had been sanctioned in previous years and which are in progress at the present time. In every case grants from Government have been given in aid of the works, and if it is the case that in some instances the allotments are smaller than the local authorities would like, I can assure you that they are as much as it has been possible for Government to afford. If Hon'ble Members will turn to page 18 of the Financial Statement, they will find a list of the grants which have been given during the year that has just closed for works of this nature. They will see that there are no less than 23 of them, of which 16 are for drainage and seven for water-supply. Now, gentlemen, I cannot admit that this is altogether a bad record. If we go on sanctioning and carrying out new schemes of drainage and water-supply at this rate without any check or set back, we shall, within a generation, have made adequate provision for all big towns in the province, and even for a tolerable number of the larger villages also. When I came to India some 31 years ago, if I remember rightly, the only town in Bengal which possessed a system of filtered water-supply was Calcutta itself. How many towns possess that enormous advantage now? There is ample room for difference of opinion whether we can do more than we are doing; but at all events no one can deny that appreciable progress is being made. The question is almost wholly a matter of funds. Mr. Wheeler has told us of the strong objections which were taken before the Decentralization Commission to the levy of taxation for this purpose. You probably share those objections: and without some such measure I can see little prospect of materially increasing the funds available.

I now turn to the question of education. There we find, as usual, an appeal put forward for enhanced expenditure in every branch. Primary, secondary and collegiate education, female education, training of teachers, technical and industrial education, all have their ardent advocates in this Council, and none of them experiences much difficulty in establishing a strong case in favour of his own special interest. Here again, gentlemen, I must ask you to look back a little and see for yourselves what progress has actually been made in the recent past. If you turn to the figures in the Financial Statement as the Hon'ble Siva Sankar Sahai has done, you will find that between the years 1906-07 to 1910-11, that is a period of four years, the total sum provided in the Education Budget has risen from 38½ lakhs to over 59 lakhs, that is to say, by more than 20 lakhs, and by considerably more than 50 per cent. These figures are exclusive of the educational expenditure which passes through the accounts of District Boards, but which is for the most part provided from Government sources. Gentlemen, you will admit that that is a very large and a very rapid increase. We can certainly afford no more: I doubt if we can really afford so much. I would add that these figures do not include the cost of educational buildings constructed or maintained by the Public Works Department. I fear that I can hold out little expectation of any rapid expansion of the educational allotments in the immediate future.

"I now desire to make a few remarks regarding the question of the removal or retention of the Presidency College, which has been referred to by several speakers to-day. This is a most important and interesting question, and I do not in the least regret that it should have been raised, though I fear that I cannot regard the proposals for the removal of the college as of a very practical nature. I am not insensible to the force of the arguments put forward by Mr. Apcar in his powerful speech: but my own views are much more in accord with those expressed by the Hon'ble Babu B. N. Basu and the Hon'ble Mr. Küchler. I would remind the Hon'ble Members that this question was raised five years ago in the budget discussion of 1905 by the Hon'ble Babu Bhupendra Nath Basu. Thereupon for more than two years it was fully considered and discussed. Great efforts were made by the Government of Sir Andrew Fraser to ascertain the trend of public opinion in regard to it. The opinions of all important public bodies were obtained, and almost every gentleman who was interested in, or acquainted with, the subject was invited to express his views. The result was that the educational experts for the most part were found to be in favour of the removal of the college to some other site, and these had a considerable body of public opinion behind them. On the other hand, a great majority of the public bodies consulted were quite opposed to the transfer, and these also received no little independent public support. The final conclusion arrived at in 1907, after two years of careful consideration, was that the College should be retained on its present site. Now in a practical question like this there must be finality somewhere. It may be true that the removal of the college to an ideal site somewhere else would be the best solution of all; but if the best is not within our reach, we must be prepared to accept the second best, and to make this approximate as nearly to the best as we can. We have high authority for the view that even on its present site the Presidency college is capable of being improved and elevated so as to take its fitting place as the model college in the province; and I cannot agree to hang up those improvements, which have been so long demanded and are so urgently required, for an indefinite period on the mere chance that at some future time public opinion may have been educated so far as to insist on the removal of the college, and also be prepared to provide the necessary funds. I propose to accept the decision of 1907 as final, and to press on the requisite improvements, year by year, as funds are available in the budget. I trust that in this way we shall before long improve the college so greatly that the demand for its removal shall lie dormant for at least a generation; and though I am certainly not an educational expert, yet, as a practical man, I venture to believe that in this way we shall serve the cause of education better than by holding out for a counsel of perfection.

"A year ago, when winding up the debate on the budget for 1909-10, I took occasion to remind the then Council that, under the new conditions on which we were about to enter, it would be neither necessary nor permissible for the discussions in future years to cover the same wide range of ground as had been customary in the past. These anticipations have been realized to an appreciable extent, and I think that an impartial observer would acknowledge that a genuine effort has been made by Hon'ble Members to confine their remarks more closely to the budget than has been the practice in the past. At the same time, it must be admitted that a good deal still remains to be done in this direction. It may be that the chains of habit were too strong to be broken and discarded at the first attempt: and perhaps it was asking too much to expect that so complete a revolution of past practice should be achieved within the limits of a single session. Those of us who have attended or studied the recent discussions in the Council of His Excellency the Viceroy will have noticed similar characteristics in the proceedings of that body. I have, therefore, refrained from enforcing the rules of relevancy with the strictness which might have been justified. This concession, however, must not be drawn into a precedent. A reasonable degree of leniency in interpretation may be defensible on the first occasion on which the Council has been called upon to discharge its duties under the new conditions, but no similar justification can fairly be pleaded a second time. When, therefore, a year hence, the time comes round for us to consider the budget for the following year, I venture to hope that all Hon'ble Members will bear in mind the regulations by which the discussions purport to be governed; and if they will co-operate with us in carrying them into effect, I am confident that the debate will lose nothing in public interest or practical utility."

The Council was then adjourned to Monday the 4th April, 1910.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

CIVIL SURGEONCIES IN BENGAL.

The Hon'ble MAULVI SAIYID MUHAMMAD FAKR-UD-DIN asked:—

(a) Has the attention of the Government of Bengal been drawn to the reply given by the Hon'ble Sir Harvey Adamson to the question put in the Imperial Council on the 18th March, 1910, about the Civil Surgeoncies in Bengal, wherein he said that up till now out of the four appointments allotted to this province, only one has been filled by the appointment of a Civil Assistant Surgeon?

(b) Will the Government be pleased to state if they intend to fill up the remaining three posts by appointing Civil Assistant Surgeons at an early date?

(c) If so, in what districts are such appointments likely to be made?

The Hon'ble MR. WHEELER replied :—

(a) "In the course of an answer to a question in the Imperial Council it is the case that Sir Harvey Adamson recently remarked that in Bengal one Civil Assistant Surgeon held substantively an appointment as Civil Surgeon of a district, while four such appointments had been allotted to Bengal, subsequent to the Partition, for transfer to Civil Assistant Surgeons."

(b) "As was also explained by Sir Harvey Adamson, and as was stated in this Council by the Hon'ble Mr. Shirres in answer to a question on the 25th March, 1905, the transfer of all four appointments to Civil Assistant Surgeons is contingent upon the retirement of officers in the Uncovenanted Medical Service. As a matter of fact, at the present moment, in addition to the Civil Assistant Surgeon who is Civil Surgeon at Jessore, the Civil Surgeoncies of Khulna and Palamau are temporarily held by officers of that Service."

(c) "Government is not now prepared to state when the four appointments will be permanently transferred to Civil Assistant Surgeons or what districts will be thus allotted."

THE CALCUTTA AND SUBURBAN POLICE (AMENDMENT, BILL. 1910.

The Hon'ble Mr. Duke moved that the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill further to amend the Calcutta Police Act, 1866, and the Calcutta Suburban Police Act, 1866, be taken into consideration.

He said :—Sir,—"It is now more than eight months since I introduced this Bill in Council, and the subject has been kept continuously before the Council and the public during that period. As the present Council is very different in composition to that in which the Bill was first introduced, I may be excused for recapitulating something of what I have said regarding it on previous occasions, but I propose to do so only in the briefest possible manner. The prime reason for the introduction of the Bill was that since the original Acts were passed 44 years ago the conditions of administration had become greatly more complex. The Acts had been amended from time to time to meet the changed conditions, but the attention of Government had again been drawn to many matters in which they appeared still to be defective. They referred in fact to a state of things very different to that now existing, they failed to provide for modern development both in larger matters and as regards the inclusion of new facts of the same classes as were dealt with originally. Government considered that the City of Bombay Police Act which was passed in 1902 afforded a suitable model in the matters in which a change was desired. Amongst changes of definition, I referred to one to provide for new explosives of which there are so many, while 44 years ago gunpowder was the only one dealt with. New kinds of places of amusement and new kinds of vehicular traffic had also to be considered. Provision was made to prevent Police-officers from engaging in trade or other private occupation, clauses were framed to deal with the habitual petty pilfering of unidentifiable goods which is so great a nuisance to the commercial community. I drew attention particularly to clause 14 which gave more precise power in dealing with assemblies and processions, with the control of persons who carry passengers' baggage in the neighbourhood of the docks, with illuminations, the lighting of vehicles and the carrying of unwieldy articles which interfered with traffic, all of them matters which have become important owing to the increase of business and traffic in the city. I referred to clauses 18, 19 and 20 which substituted the provisions of the Bombay Act as regards arrests. These, on the one hand, make the law more precise and somewhat widen the powers of the police, but on the other, protect the public by requiring due warning to be given and legalise the practice of allowing an offender in certain cases to proceed voluntarily to the police-station instead of in custody. Other provisions referred to were those for the recovery of persons believed to be unlawfully confined, for increased facility in arranging for search warrants between Police-officers in Calcutta and those in the districts, and for dealing with unclaimed property with a view to protecting petty intestate estates from plunder.

"The Bill was subjected to a great deal of criticism based principally on the fact that in various particulars it increased the powers of the police. It was observed that I had made very little allusion to this fact when introducing the Bill, but I must point out that although I laid more stress on the necessity of precisely defining the powers of the police than on increasing them, yet the subject was sufficiently clearly indicated in what was said about clause 14, and I am perfectly prepared to maintain the position that at the present time and under modern conditions increased powers are necessary for dealing with all kinds of public assemblies and processions in the streets and open spaces of a great city. It was argued that the analogy between Bombay and Calcutta was not a fair one, that the Bombay districts are much more criminal than those of Bengal, and that the Bombay Act was originally framed to suit the Bombay districts and from thence imported into the city. It was, however, easy to show that the two cities are comparable in size and population; in both there are great numbers of aliens of all classes from far distant parts of the country. The volume of crime in both is similar. No evidence had or up to now has been produced that the Bombay Act does not work efficiently, and, furthermore, it is to be remembered that we are not introducing the Bombay Act as a whole, but only a comparatively few provisions from it which upon careful examination have proved most suitable to existing conditions in Calcutta. It was, however, apparent when the Bill came on for consideration in August last that there was a very prevalent feeling that sufficient opportunity had not been given for public criticism, and that the public bodies which have been consulted had not had sufficient time to form matured opinions. Especially, it appeared to be desired that the opinion of the High Court should be obtained upon the Bill. The Bill was accordingly recommitted to the Select Committee, and further opinions were asked for from various public bodies and the High Court. Shortly afterwards the new Council was constituted and a new Select Committee formed, but we were unable to proceed with the consideration of the Bill until we had the opinions which we desired, and of these, that of the High Court was the last to arrive. It is therefore only at the end of the session that we find ourselves able to take the Bill into consideration.

"I regret that, although the Bill has been very fully discussed in Select Committee, and I think it will be admitted, with patience and a mutual desire to understand and, if possible, reconcile opposing points of view, the report is still accompanied by notes of dissent. It will appear that a considerable number of alterations have been made in Select Committee, and while some of these have been made with general consent, and have upon the whole had the effect of strengthening the Bill, there are other matters in which changes have been made with a desire to soften provisions which appear too stringent, but regarding which the dissenting members remain unsatisfied. I refer particularly to clause 14 which both Select Committees have successively modified so as to reduce the possibility of interference with private rights, for example, by restricting the control of illuminations to such as are immediately over or abutting on the public streets. It would, I think, be no unreasonable interference with private rights that the Chief Police-officer of the city should be able to make rules regarding all kinds of illuminations, for all illuminations have their dangers, and I fancy that in most of the capitals of the world he would have such power, but it was obvious that there was a strong feeling against such regulations except for the immediate protection of persons using the streets, and we readily consented to limit the provision accordingly.

"I do not complain of the notes of dissent. It is natural that questions of principle should be regarded from different points of view, and that when there are very important and interesting questions involved, members should state their views in notes of dissent. But I should rather complain, if at all, of the amendments before the Council as a whole, because I think they indicate the negation of the whole position that materially increased control is necessary for the efficient management of the city. I think that if the whole of these amendments were given effect to, not only would the present Bill amount to nothing but the administration of the police in Calcutta would be considerably weaker than it is at present.

"So, too, in section 14A, we have restricted any interference with music or noise to the actual streets, and have left the public free to make such noise as they please even in public buildings and their compounds without interference from the police. Upon the important question of the control of public meetings and processions we have been unable to agree, and I do not suppose that we could have arrived at any agreement which involved any degree of increased control whatever. Yet it seems to me that at the present time there is the strongest necessity, in the interests of the public peace and safety, for strict and efficient police administration in this respect. There should, at any rate, be no uncertainty, and the Chief Police-officer of the city should be able to act confidently and decisively whenever the peace of the city is threatened, while his subordinates should be guided by definite rules and orders framed by him to provide for all emergencies which can be forecasted.

"The opinions which we received in the second stage did not carry us much further.

"The High Court, as was to be expected, for it is in accordance with their usual practice, declined to give any opinion on questions of administrative policy and therefore limited themselves to very few remarks. But one of these raised the question of the legal sanction for the introduction of clause 23 which proposed to regulate the conditions in which suits or charges could be brought against Police-officers for acts done in execution of their duty. We have found that there is strong feeling against the introduction of this clause based upon the idea that the definition of 'good faith,' which does not penalise simple negligence, would afford an undue measure of protection to Police-officers. The Commissioner of Police has admitted that under the existing law he is not able to instance any want of efficient protection for his subordinates, and from the Government point of view the question was rather one of form than of essentials. Accordingly, the clause has been dropped, and it might have been hoped that the controversy as to whether it possessed the necessary sanction would drop with it, but I observe that the Hon'ble Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari has embodiedt he greater part of his erudite argument on this subject in a note of dissent. If I rightly understand this note, the other main point of principle which it raises is that the sanction of the Government of India is required to be stated in the recital in the preamble of the Bill, because penal clauses are included which may affect the Penal Code. On this point I can only say that the Government of India are the guardians of their own prerogatives. The Bill has been submitted to them and previous sanction has been obtained to the penal clauses. We have reason to believe that they have carefully examined the whole subject, and it is not for us to suggest deficiency in their sanction. The Hon'ble Mr. Apcar has also in a note of dissent drawn attention to the archaic language of the existing section 99 of the Calcutta Police Act. His views on this subject are very much those of the framers of the Bill, but since the amending section proposed was not acceptable and has been dropped, the clause which has served for the last 44 years must continue to do duty, although its language is out of date. I will refer briefly to the more important of the remaining points upon which there have been differences of opinion. The first regards the necessity of excluding from the definition of 'places of public amusement', places where money may be collected for bonâ fide religious purposes. It is far from the intention of the Bill to propose that there should be interference in any place where a bonâ fide religious service or ceremony is going on, and it seems that some degree of imagination must be necessary to bring such a place within the definition of 'place of public amusement', which to quote the definition is a place where music, singing, dancing, or any diversion or game is provided and to which the public are admitted, either on payment of money or with the intention that money may be collected. It has been sought to show that certain religious or quasi-religious performances might be held to come under this definition. No one is likely to want to bring them under it, but if we are asked expressly to provide that when such proceedings are being carried on for a bonâ fide religious purpose, all jurisdiction shall be ousted, we are unable to agree, because of the extreme difficulty of deciding what is a bonâ fide religious purpose in a country where religion enters into so many departments of life. It is therefore impossible to say that whenever religion is imported all police jurisdiction goes out: no police law could possibly be worked on such principles. It is in fact very easy to understand how the plea of religion might be raised to oust the jurisdiction of the police in cases of every conceivable description. Objection has also been taken to the inclusion of places where only food and non-intoxicating drink are sold amongst places of public entertainment, but such are unquestionably places of public entertainment, and the need for control depends not on what is sold in them, but on the number and class of persons who frequent them, and the manner in which they are conducted.

"There are other matters which will doubtless come up and be moved as amendments if Hon'ble Members consider that they have sufficient importance, which I need hardly refer to here.

"I will notice at this stage the objection which is taken to the moderate penalties provided. There are a large number of amendments to be found on the agenda paper which are moved with the object of reducing penalties. The maximum penalty fixed is in no case very high, but of course it is enormously higher than the average penalty, which would be imposed in an ordinary case. I cannot understand the attitude of mind which objects to the provision of a penalty sufficient for an extreme case. The principle runs through all penal legislation. In the Penal Code, for instance, the offence under section 352, that of a common assault, may be visited with a penalty of Rs. 500 fine or three months' imprisonment, but as Hon'ble Members are well aware, thousands of offences under this section are tried every year, and in the vast majority a fine of not more than Rs. 5 is inflicted. The Magistrates work with the discretion which might be expected of them, and why should it be supposed that the Presidency Magistrates in Calcutta will not exercise the same discretion? Suspicion of the police is common enough, but surely this question of penalties is not a question of suspicion of the police, but of suspicion of the magistracy. The police may prosecute, but the Magistrate fixes the penalty. Offences, however trifling, may require a comparatively severe penalty, if they are committed by very wealthy persons to whom a small fine is of no consequence, or if they are repeated in circumstances of great perversity or obstinacy.

"The question of searches has been carefully gone into and put on a much more precise and definite footing than before, and although we have not agreed upon all points, we at any rate now propose a law of search for Calcutta which is much more in accordance with the general law of the country. As I have mentioned, the clause of the Bombay law which regulates suits against the police has been dropped. We have now very elaborate clauses which impose penalties on the police for wilful dereliction of duty. They are new here and they form extremely strong provisions. It is only fitting that, when so much has been done to improve the personnel and condition of the police in Calcutta, a higher standard of conduct should be imposed upon them, and we think that we can now fairly demand from them a standard which perhaps a few years ago we should have been doubtful of obtaining. There is one final point in the Bill to which I am glad to be able to refer as one on which there has not been any contention. That is the provision for confining beggars convicted under section 70 of the Calcutta Act in a notified refuge instead of in a jail. The question of beggars has been a burning one for some time. The law provides sufficiently drastic means so far as the law can do, but the humanity of the Magistrates makes it difficult for them to impose sentences of imprisonment on unfortunate creatures suffering from loathesome diseases or deformities and quite unable to help themselves, and if such persons are sent to jails they are a nuisance and a danger there and an obstruction to the administration. We have accordingly introduced a clause to make it possible for Magistrates to order the detention of such persons in the refuge instead of in a jail. One refuge established by Mr. A. M. Biswas has already been in existence for some years. It may be that others will spring up in course of time. At any rate, it is an alleviation of the law that the detention may take place in such an institution instead of in jail The Government of India have assisted us in this matter by readily according their sanction, although the subject was brought up at the very last moment."

The Hon'ble BABU DEBA PRASAD SARBADHIKARI said:—

"As a member of the old Select Committee, who had no previous opportunity of expressing gratitude for the action that Your Honour was pleased to take with regard to the Bill, I desire to say a few words. The thanks of that Select Committee and of the public at large are pre-eminently due for Your Honour's considerate postponement of the measure which has made deliberate consideration and criticism possible. Your Honour's action has been completely justified by the event, for the Bill has much improved during the last few months, as is borne out by the Report now before the Council. Foremost of these improvements is the abandonment of clause 23, which, it was apprehended, would affect the jurisdiction of the High Court in damage cases against offending Police officials and would give them inordinate immunity under the protection of 'good faith' in its laxer and more objectionable sense. Round this clause considerable criticism naturally gathered, and this truly large concession to public opinion is announced by the Hon'ble Member in charge with characteristic modesty and moderation beyond which I would like to go for obvious reasons. We have otherwise gained much from the postponement, as will appear from the Report and the several dissents; and considering the way that both Official and Non-official Members approached the consideration of the outstanding matters in Select Committee, I am not without hopes that some more improvement will be possible in Council to-day. Some of these were matters of principle that could not be dealt with in Select Committee, however sympathetically the Official Members might be inclined, and could be dealt with by the Council and the Government.

"I shall not attempt to anticipate the amendments on the agenda, but must make a passing reference to the important question of principle involved in the absence of the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council recited in the preamble. The objections that have struck me are detailed in my Note of Dissent, and I shall not repeat them. And as no amendments are possible under this head, I can but make a general reference, and the rest is for the Government and its Law Officers to consider and advise upon. To those whose answers to these objections are shortly of the factum valet type, my reply would be of the lis pendens order. Because some enactments have been passed in contravention of recognised principles and established rules, and because on other occasions corrective validation was authorised seems to me to be little justification for not correcting an error, presuming it to be an error, if it is detected early. Nor does the plea appear to be weighty that the power and usefulness of local Legislatures that have been slowly, though unwarrantably, earned and increased ought not to be circumscribed by constant interference of the Supreme Government, which has been somewhat indulgent of an occasion. I have tried to be full and fair in my statement of the case and have furnished facts and arguments not ordinarily accessible, even though they could be capable of being used against me. I am, therefore, not a little concerned that the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill should have thought fit to make a caustic allusion to my note. Nothing could be further from my idea and desire than to bring my facts and arguments 'merely to notice', by which is probably meant 'to notoriety', if they had no bearing on and relevancy to the occasion. I have sufficient other opportunities of bringing my facts and arguments 'to notice', and if I had to choose this particular way it was because I thought that this would be the best. The omission of the clause affecting the High Court does not relieve the whole situation, and, so far as that particular aspect of the case is concerned, I scored out the whole of the facts, arguments and authorities bearing on the question, from my original draft. My hon'ble friend has only to refer to the Secretary, and he will find that this is so. Having regard to the regrettable practice of calling upon dissenting Members to produce their Notes of Dissent within as many hours as the Official Members take days, or probably weeks, to draw up their Reports, I prepared my draft in advance before the abandonment of clause 23 was announced, and I immediately omitted all redundant matters. What is now left is, I believe, necessary and relevant because of the penal clauses, and there is no warrant or occasion for my hon'ble friend's reflections on my note. There it stands for what it is worth, and it is for the Government to consider and decide the matter. That my position is not wholly untenable is apparent from the cautious and significant language used by the High Court, which confirms me in my doubt as do many of my eminent lawyer friends who have done me the honour of reading my note and who have not taken the same view of it that the Chief Secretary has thought fit to do. The High Court advised a reference to the Law Officers of Government as Sir Henry Maine did many years ago, and we do not know what their advice and opinion are. In the absence of their formal expression of views and opinions, it is my duty to draw the attention of the Council to these doubts and difficulties.

"There are one or two misapprehensions regarding the Bill and its progress through the Committee stages which ought to be removed. These were dealt with in a note that I submitted to the old Select Committee after the postponement in August last, and I would, with Your Honour's permission, read an extract from it, as the note is not and will not be before the Members of the Council or the public, except in so far as I have embodied it in my present dissent :—

'There is an impression abroad that the dissenting members of the Select Committee are alone responsible for representation of non-official views and opinions, which resulted in such of the improvements in the Bill as were made in Committee. The Hon'ble the Maharajadhiraja of Burdwan, who would be the last to attempt to remove such an impression, took quite as keen and active an interest in the details of the Bill as any of us, and to his initiative and insistence are due some of the best changes. We owe it to him, as much as to ourselves, to own this. There is an equally unfounded impression that the safeguards of the Bombay Acts now incorporated in the Bill had to be wrung out of an unwilling Government. The fact is quite the other way, for the omission had only to be brought to the notice of His Honour the President to be rectified. This was done in quite an informal and unofficial way, long before any complaints or comments in the Press, and even before the provisions were considered by the Select Committee. His Honour readily approved of the inclusion of the omitted provisions, which was communicated to the Select Committee, and their acquiescence was also as ready.'

"In the absence of the other dissenting Member of the previous occasion—Babu Radha Charan Pal, whom we much miss, it is my duty to disclaim credit on his and my own behalf for what was then attained on the Select Committee. The improvements such as they are are due alike to official and non-official exertions, and above all to Your Honour's sympathetic treatment of the suggestions made from time to time so far as Your Honour saw your way to adopt them; there was no waste of time in discussing matters in Committee regarding which there was a consistent agreement to disagree from the beginning, and these are matters that the Council will now be invited to consider. From our official colleagues we had nothing but courtesy and consideration throughout, for which Non-official Members are grateful. I should have thought that my hon'ble friend on his own part would have acknowledged the spirit in which Non-official Members worked on the Select Committee, but instead we have severe references to our notes and the amendments which my hon'ble friend has sought to anticipate.

"There is one other erroneous impression that ought to be removed. The Bill is not an emergency measure occasioned by the exigencies of the time, but was in fact in draft long before they arose. They affect the every-day life of the average citizen, special exigencies being naturally left to emergent measures that have been or may be provided from time to time. It will therefore behove this Council further to soften down the rigours and irregularities that the Select Committee has not coped with or has not been able to cope with."

The Hon'ble KHAN BAHADUR MAULVI SARFARAZ HUSAIN KHAN said:—

"Your Honour,—The Hon'ble Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari has taken objection to the Bill not having received the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council. This matter has been dealt with by the highest Judicature in the land, which has remarked: 'This is a matter of considerable importance, but has no doubt been settled by the Local Government by reference to the Advocate-General and its Law officers'. Besides, when the learned Advocate-General has been consulted by the Local Government and when the local Legislative Council has a member in an equally capable Standing Counsel, I do not see why any reference should have been made by my hon'ble colleague to the fact that the Advocate-General is not a member of our Council or that the Bill has not received the administrative sanction of the Governor-General in Council. Then again the Hon'ble Member seems to be labouring under a misconception when he says in his Note of Dissent: 'A question that the High Court considers is of considerable importance can hardly be dismissed as merely technical'. In my mind, the High Court has expressed its satisfaction with the procedure taken by the Local Government by observing 'but has no doubt been settled by the Local Government by reference to the Advocate-General and its other local officers." The Hon'ble Member has made a quotation from the writings of Sir Henry Maine with a view to strengthen his position. The quotation is as follows:—'When a question of convenience arises and when a legislative question like this has reached its proper stage, the joint opinion should be asked from the Advocate-General and the Standing Counsel.' Here I may say that the action of the Local Government in this connection is quite in conformity with the opinion expressed by Sir Henry Maine, in that it had referred the matter to the Advocate-General and its Law Officers and has the Standing Counsel as a member of its Legislative Council to express an opinion on the Bill in question. Then my hon'ble friend has proceeded to question the legality of the power of this Council and has cited the names of some of the most distinguished men to support his contention, but I fail to see how my hon'ble colleague can maintain his position in the face of the opinion already expressed by the High Court concerning the legality of the measure.

"With the permission of the President and the Council I beg to read the following extract from the note by the Hon'ble Maulvi Saiyid Zahir-ud-din:—

> 'I have studied carefully the literature of the Police Bill in its different stages, but have not been able to discover in it, as re-amended by the re-constituted Select Committee, anything objectionable from the point of view of a police statute, having regard to public policy and the urgency of maintenance of public tranquility under the present exigencies of the times.

'The essence of the Pax Britannica consists mainly in the maintenance of the interests and safety of the British Empire.

'Section 47 of the East India Company Act, 1793 (33 Geo. III, C. 52 empowered the 'Supreme Council at Fort William and the Councils at Fort St. George and Bombay to take measures for the interests of the Company or the safety or tranquility of the British possessions in India or any part thereof.' It has been the duty and policy of the Indian Legislatures to enact laws for the aforesaid purposes. The tendencies of the times led to the passing, from time to time, of such laws, as Regulation X of 1804 (State offences and Courts-martial), Regulation III of 1818 (State prisoners) and Act XI of 1857 (Trial of State-offences); and the series of recent events have necessitated the enactment of the Seditious Meetings Act, 1908, the Newspapers (Incitements to Offences) Act, 1908, and the Indian Press Act, 1910) I of 1910.)

'The Calcutta and Suburban Police Acts have been on the Statute Book for the last forty-four years, and times having changed, the present crisis calls for their amendment and improvement by taking more stringent measures for combating with the present conditions, and preventing lawlessness, prevention being better than cure.

'The new clauses introduced into the Bill are more or less in conformity with the provisions of Police Enacments in force in Northern India (The Police Act V of 1861), and in the Presidencies of Madras and Bombay, and which are not said to have caused inconvenience or hardship to the public, and which work smoothly in the Provinces in which they are in force. It is feared that the abuse of some of the provisions of the proposed enactment by police officers might, generally or in individual cases, lead to oppression or inconvenience. This is true. Whenever a power is given, there is always an apprehension of abuse. The finality of decrees of Courts of Small Causes and of certain sentences passed by Magistrates of the first class is fraught with fear of miscarriage of justice; but in spite of the admitted possibility ot danger in individual cases, these powers must be conferred on grounds of public policy and administrative and judicial convenience.

'That regard be had to the public welfare is the highest law (Salus populi suprema lex). There is an implied assent on the part of every member of society that his own individual welfare shall, in cases of necessity, yield to that of the community, and his property, liberty and life shall, under certain circumstances, be placed in jeopardy or even sacrificed for the public good Likewise, in less stringent emergencies, the maxim is that a private mischief shall be endured rather than a public inconvenience (Blackstone's Commentaries, pages 138 and 139).

'The Hon'ble Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari has in his learned Note of Dissent taken exception to the Bill, as amended by the Re-constituted Select Committee, that the provisions thereof tend to alter in some way the Indian Penal Code. As a matter of fact the Indian Penal Code is, in no way altered. The Indian Penal Code (Act XLV of 1860), is according to the preamble a general Penal Code for British India, which does not affect any special or local law (section 5), as defined in sections 41 and 42 thereof. The Indian Penal Code is the general substantive criminal law, defining offences generally and providing punishments for them. The Criminal Procedure Code and the Police Acts, which are adjective laws, prescribing the procedure for bringing offenders to justice and for preventing the commission of offences, are not laws altering the general substantive criminal law, theIndian Penal Code. The Police Acts are not penal statutes. They only prescribe measures for preserving the public peace and for preventing wrongs to persons or property. With a view to achieve those ends. they, in certain cases, however, prescribe light penalties forcertain acts or omissions which are neither directly provided for nor contemplated by the general penal law, the Indian Penal Code. Section 5 of the Indian Penal Code does not affect special or local laws, containing penal provisions such as the Police and Municipal Acts, the Railways, the Canals and the Ferries Acts. The Police Bill does not directly or indirectly repeal, vary or affect the Indian Penal Code, and no sanction of the Governor-General in Council is required under the Indian Councils Act, 1861. The object of the Police Bill is to amend the Calcutta Police and the Suburban Police Acts, passed by the Bengal Legislative Council, and not to amend the Indian Penal Code. A legislative authority that has power to pass a law has the power to repeal or amend it. The power to make a law includes the power to amend the law."

The Hon'ble MR. SAIYID ALI IMAM said:—

"Your Honour,—In regard to the question of the constitution of this Council and its authority to pass this Bill, I had not intended to say anything, inasmuch as I understood that the main ground of objection had been taken away by the announcement that the Local Government before adopting this Bill had obtained the sanction of the Viceroy. I propose to put before Hon'ble Members one or two matters in connection with the objection that has been taken even after the announcement made by the Member in charge of this Bill. I was not the Law Officer who was consulted in regard to this question, inasmuch as, at that time I had not accepted the office that I hold at present, but if I were asked now to give my opinion on this question as to whether this legislation aims at altering the Indian Penal Code directly or constructively, I should without hesitation give the opinion that this is no alteration of the Indian Penal Code one way or the other. My ground for urging my argument is that whereas the alteration of the Indian Penal Code would involve, as it were, the taking away of the jurisdiction of the Courts here in Calcutta in regard to the exercise of their powers under the Penal Code, if there were any such alteration, but the Bill does not aim at any such thing at all. It in no way affects the jurisdiction of the Courts in regard to the application of the provisions of the Indian Penal Code. What it aims at is that it gives further powers to the police without in any way taking away from the Courts the authority they have under the Penal Code, and it will be entirely a question of choice whether the one law or the other is applied to particular cases, and it seems to me that, to quote the words of the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill, it is desirable that such an Act were passed for the town of Calcutta. I fail to see how this Act could be looked upon as an Act which altered the Penal Code. I may submit that is the view I hold—and in that view I am supported by the Minute of Sir Henry Maine who, after giving the subject every possible consideration, urges that only such Bills as have for their main object and direct purpose the alteration of the Penal Code would be looked upon as those that were not allowed to be passed by a Provincial Council. What does the present Bill aim at? Does it apply to the whole of the Province? It applies only to limited areas, and as such in its main object and purpose it is in no way an alteration of the Indian Penal Code. Therefore, so far as that goes, it may be urged that the Law Officers who gave their opinion on this part of the case were in very good company when they were supported by such a high authority as the authority of Sir Henry Maine. I may also point out in this connection that there is some misconception as to the authority that the local Council have in regard to legislative matters which may in a way affect Acts of Parliament. This matter is concluded by authority. When we go to the authority cited in the Indian Law Reports, Volume VIII, Bombay Series, we find that a learned Judge there in a connected matter gave his opinion as to how the Local Council can take upon themselves the jurisdiction and the right to promulgate laws that may not affect the jurisdiction, for instance, of the High Courts, but would affect the rights, the obligations, and, in some cases, the liabilities of the subject. Now, we find a very clear pronouncement of this position in the judgment of Justice West, when he tells us: 'The jurisdiction of the High Courts rests on the Statutes 23 and 24, Vic., c. 101, and the Letters Patent issued under that Statute. The legislative power of the Local Government rests on 23 and 24 Vic., c. 67, sections 42 and 43.' The learned Judge further says:—

'But, then, it is to be remembered that this restriction of the one authority by the other relates only to matters of jurisdiction, that is, of the exercise of the judicial function and matters ancillary to this. Granting the existence of any particular law, the mode in which it is to be interpreted, the jural relations it creates, the duties it imposes, and the way in which these are to be enforced—all such questions have to be determined by the High Court, and any attempt by the Local Legislature to control it in the exercise of these functions would be simply abortive. But a different proposition is stated when it is said that because in a given state of the law this Court may establish particular relations and issue particular commands which must be obeyed, that state of the law cannot be altered because the range of operation of the Court's powers will be altered at the same time. Such a construction of the Statutes, as pointed out in the case of Premshankar Raghunathji versus The Government of Bombay[1] would make legislation by the Local Government virtually impossible. It is plain on reflection that jurisdiction relates to authority in ascertaining and giving effect to the law as it is; and as the substantive law changes while the jurisdictional power remains constant, the actual result must be variable. Thus legislation on the rights and obligations of its subjects by the Bombay Government in no way necessarily infringes on the authority of the High Court unless the powers of the latter in dealing with the law when made are in some way affected.'

"Now, that is a considerable authority, and I am not aware that this has been overruled. Similarly, I see that in the present instance, when we are dealing with this Bill, what we have got before our eyes is this. Does this Bill have for its purpose an alteration of the Indian Penal Code? Will the passing of this Bill take away from the Courts the jurisdiction they have in regard to the trial of cases falling under the Penal Code? If this Bill has got no such provisions, I submit to the Council and to the Hon'ble Members present that this is no attempt either constructively or directly to alter the Indian Penal Code, and as such on that point I may without hesitation give my opinion that there is no apprehension nor can any apprehension be entertained as to any attempt towards the alteration of the Indian Penal Code. Furthermore, apart from the points of reasoning, apparent from the authority that I have just quoted, I am further fortified in my submission by the obvious position that the Bill deals with matters that are limited to certain areas. I contend that it would be inconceivable that a Bill like this be not permitted to be taken up by a Local Council, inasmuch as this is the intention that there should be first of all the sanction of the Imperial Government obtained. If there is any force in this, it comes to this that local requirements, local needs and conditions would be presumed to be known more by the Imperial Government than by the Local Council, which is obviously unacceptable. It seems to me that, on the ground of general convenience, no other course is open to the Council except the one that I have submitted. So far as the question in relation to the legal aspect of the case goes, I can say without any difficulty or hesitation that we may stand together on the opinion given by Sir Henry Maine, and this opinion, I submit, receives great support from the authority that I have ventured to quote before the Council.

[1] 8 Bom. H. C. Rep., A. C. J., 195.

"Then in regard to some general observations that have been made as to the so called rigour of the clause that give the police an overwhelming amount of authority, I would draw the attention of the Hon'ble Members and specially those who come from the mufassal that the condition of life in Calcutta is wholly different from the condition of life in the mufassal. I venture to submit that the experience I have had, although very short of Calcutta conditions—the trial of cases in the High Court Criminal sessions, the attitude of mind of the Calcutta jury and complexity of the condition of life—leads me to the conviction that the state of affairs in a large town like Calcutta is wholly different and must be differently dealt with from the state that prevails all over the rest of the country. I find for instance that whereas the law, say the Indian Penal Code, in regard to criminal trespass may have a very good safeguard in it, and that is that the prosecution that has to prove in the mufassal that there was not only a civil trespass but that there are other elements of crime prevent. If the Council is prepared to put a stop to the crimes that are prevalent here, the Council will have to take into considerations the peculiar condition, and in view of that we have got to arm the police with authority. In these circumstances, both on the ground of the failure of the technical question raised by my learned friend the Hon'ble Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari and also upon the general utility of the policy of the Bill, I beg to support the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill."

"I intend to make at the present stage only a few general observations on the scope of this Bill. I must say that our thanks are due to the Official Members of the Select Committee, who listened with attendion to the representations that we had to make on behalf of the public in the Select Committee, and, as a result of their consideration of the points that we had raised, we have got before us a measure which has lost much of the original characteristics which evoked such strong opposition from the public and the Press. I shall not go into the questions to which the learned Standing Counsel referred in such eloquent and impressive language, for when the time comes we shall take up the consideration of those matters, and I hope I shall be able to satisfy the Council that there are men in this Council who can profess to have a longer experience of Calcutta than the learned Standing Counsel, and I venture to say, that notwithstanding his experience, much of the rigour that is sought to be introduced by the Bill may safely be done away with. But apart from that, Sir, the question is—is the Bill intended to meet with a specific set of circumstances or is it going to be an enactment for the guidance of the police and for the protection of the people for a considerable time at least? If it is a temporary measure intended to deal with a given set of circumstances which had temporarily arisen, I do not suppose that any one of us here would oppose the Bill. But what I feel, and those whom I venture to represent in this Council do feel, is that the Bill is going to be of a permanent nature, and it affects popular rights and privileges in a way which ought not to be allowed if possible, or if we can avoid them. I know, Sir, from personal experience in the past that it would be difficult and a hard struggle for me to resist what we conceive to be an invasion on popular rights. But I do think that the matters which I shall place before the Council will receive due consideration, and, if possible, the severity of some of the provisions may be, to some extent, mitigated, if not altogether removed. In that view I have been encouraged by the attitude which the Select Committee had taken and by the generous concession which Your Honour has made. The obnoxious provision of clause 23, which, notwithstanding all that has been said by the Hon'ble the Chief Secretary, practically rendered the police immune—immune it is—but it tried to make it more immune, that is, if it were possible to paint the lily or gild the gold. But the removal of that clause has considerably encouraged us in the belief that the Government does not want to introduce into the Bill any provisions which would unnecessarily place fetters upon public liberty or make it difficult for the public to obtain redress against the high-handedness of the Police. Sir, I speak in the presence of my friend, the Commissioner of Police, and I say that in Calcutta there is no more dreaded individual than the Commissioner of Police. He is feared more, I am afraid, than the Autocrat of all the Russias, though he is esteemed and respected by all who have the high privilege of coming in personal contact with him. My friend, the Commissioner of Police, will admit that he does not require further powers than he has already for carrying on the duties of the great office entrusted to him.

"We have no complaint, Sir, as the public of Calcutta, against the Police that they are armed with insufficient power. Whenever protection has been necessary, we have found it; and we do not complain that the powers of the Police, are such that they should be strengthened for the protection of the public against acts of lawlessness or violence. I will not go into the details of the measure at the present stage. There are amendments to the Bill which will come up presently, and which will afford us an opportunity of examining the Bill in detail. There is one other matter to which I shall respectfully call the attention of the Council. It is the power of the Police to stop processions, to stop assemblies, to stop what are called harangues—it is, I am afraid, what I am delivering just now—to stop public speeches and above all to stop public meetings at the discretion of the Commissioner of Police. Sir, knowing the present Commissioner, as I have the honour of knowing him, I do not for a moment doubt that that discretion will be used with the greatest caution and with the least hardship to the public. But for the present I hope I shall be excused if I eliminate all personal considerations. Sir, on a late occasion, a great official had to go to Austria for an example of a piece of legislation to which some people had objected. I will do better and I will go to mediæval Spain in the reign of Phillip the Second, in support of my proposition that the best way to secure thrones and dynasties is to allow the public to have their say—to let them vapour forth, as Phillip the Second put it, their grievances in public. I am quite sure that there is no feeling in the 20th century any where that the expression of public opinion should in the least be suppressed. If that is so, I respectfully ask the Council—will it not be placing too much power and responsibility in the hands of one single individual who has to administer the criminal affairs of a large and populous city, the second in the Empire: is it not too much to expect that amidst the multifarious duties and worries of his office, he would be able to give careful attention to all the matters that may be reported to him and to decide on the spot as to whether a certain public meeting ought to be allowed or not? I say, Sir, with all respect, that great mistakes have been made in the past even by large bodies of men. Socrates, the great teacher of Plato, and from whom Aristotle derived his transcendent system of philosophy, was convicted as a heretic and as the corruptor of the youth of Athens. Much more than that, I would ask the attention of this Council to the scene on Calvary where He, whom half the world now adores as an Incarnation of God, was crucified by men who honestly believed that He was a heretic. Coming to more recent times we find that Joan of Arc was burnt at the stake. These are examples which are historic, but which, I am afraid, are much too solemn, much too great to be cited on an occasion like this. Your Honour will allow me to remind this Council that we have before us the question of the right of the subject against the encroachment of the executive and as that also is a subject of great solemnity and importance, I may refer to another instance. The greatest of the Roman Emperors, Marcus Aurelius, who, without being a Christian, has bequeathed to posterity a treatise which gives consolation and solace to thousands of men, Christian and non-Christian, was the greatest persecutor of Christianity in his days. Therefore, I say, Sir, that if we allow a single individual discretion to stop public meetings, public speeches, public assemblies, public processions, which may have something to do with the important political movements of the day, we invest him with very great powers indeed. And therefore I say that those powers ought to be very carefully guarded. In summarily stopping a public meeting, Your Honour sees that in the Bill, it is proposed to make the Commissioner of Police subject to the control of the Lieutenant Governor in the exercise of his power. In the case of a public assembly, a meeting or a procession, it may be stopped at once by the issue of a notice which may be revoked and reversed by Your Honour afterwards. But in the meantime the mischief has been done, and even the most peaceful meeting may be stopped upon a misrepresentation of facts. Only the other day in our sister province a meeting for the elevation of the depressed classes was stopped, I am sure, owing to a misapprehention of facts—for I am convinced that no official would willingly stop a meeting which had for its object the elevation of the depressed classes. These are the dangers to which I beg to call Your Honour's attention. A great writer on Political Science, whose books are considered as a standard work of authority—Professor Sidgwick— says in one place that 'there may be occasions when it is necessary to put a check upon expressions of public opinion,' but he also says that 'there is an obvious risk that such powers may be abused and it is important that such powers should only be conferred on special grounds and exercised under careful limitations.' That is the deliberate opinion of men competent to deal with things like these. I do respectfully ask Your Honour,—Where are those checks? Where are those special grounds? Where are those limitations? The checks and the limitations will all come into force after the evil has been done, after the meeting has been suppressed. Therefore, Sir, I plead, that if you wish to stop public meetings—and I do not deny that there may be circumstances under which public meetings may be and ought to be stopped—I say provide us with safeguards, provide us with limitations. My friend the Standing Counsel has said that the condition of Calcutta is so different from any other city—and I am quite sure he will excuse me—so novel to him that he thinks anything is good or bad enough for us, the people of Calcutta. But I will take him to a city where the criminal population of many cities congregrate—I will take him to the great city of London and I say there the police have not got the powers which are sought to be placed in their hands by this Bill I quote from a book on the Metropolitan Police: 'the fear expressed and no doubt felt on the first establishment of a regular system of police that the holding of meetings and utterances would be suppressed has been dispelled. The police are expressly enjoined not to interfere unless specially ordered, and such orders are not to be given unless disorder or breach of the peace is imminent.' I will not tire your patience by quoting further. I again appeal to my friend the Standing Counsel that if the London Police does not think it necessary to have, or are excluded from exercising, these powers, why should our police have these powers? Our police, I may remind my hon'ble friend, are not always in touch with those who hold political meetings or political demonstrations. Oftentimes there is a feeling, I will not say anything stronger than this, a feeling of suspicion against those who mix themselves up in public affairs and hold public meetings—a feeling of suspicion, a feeling that those people are not as good citizens as they might have been. These are considerations which I respectfully seek to place before the Council. Your Honour has always shown a ready alacrity to listen to public criticism and to give public criticism a fair and impartial consideration. I am quite sure that I have not overstated the case. I crave from Your Honour and from the Members of this Council a fair and impartial consideration of the question that I have raised. Let us not feel, Sir, that we are knocking against a dead wall. Let us rather feel that you sympathise with us and with our difficulties, that you wish to make the public life in Calcutta and the suburbs compatible with the growing political needs of the people, and that no unnecessary obstacles will be placed in the path of those who seek to ventilate public grievances—a course beneficial to the State and to those who live under the Government."

The Motion was then put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Duke moved that the clauses of the Bill be considered in the form recommended by the Select Committee.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

Clause 3:—

first definitions.

The Hon'ble Rai Shiba Shankar Sahai Bahadur moved that for the words "and 'cognizable offence'", in line 3 of clause 3 of the Bill,the following be substituted, namely:—

'cognizable offence' and 'non-cognizable offence'.

He said:—"This paragraph in the Bill is borrowed from the Bombay Act (section 3*a*). Amongst other phrases, 'non-cognizable offence' has been omitted from our Bill, although it appears that this expression is used in the body of the Bill. (I beg to refer to clause 4A amongst others.) It is necessary to insert 'non-cognizable offence' in this paragraph. This is only a formal amendment."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

definition of "Officer in charge of a police-station."

The Hon'ble Babu Bal Krishna Sahai moved that the words "above the rank of Head Constable" be substituted for the words "above the rank of constable", at the end of the definition of "Officer in charge of a police-station", in clause 3 of the Bill.

He said:—"In view of the fact that certain powers which were formerly not exercised by Police-officers are proposed to be given to them, I beg to submit, Sir, that it is safe to entrust these powers only to officers of higher rank of the Police force than ordinary constables. We know, Sir, that the powers exercised by Police-officers in charge of stations are multifarious, but at the same time powers should be given to such officers who are trained and epucated enough to exercise proper discretion. I think, therefore, that these powers should be given to Sub Inspectors."

The Hon'ble MR. DUKE said:—

"I am unable, Sir, to accept the amendment. The question is as to what officer shall exercise the powers of the officer in charge of the police-station. It is the aim of Government that in Calcutta every police-station shall be in charge of an officer not inferior to a Sub-Inspector, and, as a matter of fact, there is at least one Sub-Inspector in charge of every station in the town and suburbs and very often there are two, but at the same time it is not possible to guarantee that the Sub-Inspector will always be present and in charge of a police-station for the moment. The powers referred to are those of the police-officer who is present at the station-house, and it is quite possible that both of them may be absent. It is essential that some one should exercise the powers for the time being, and therefore we found it necessary to retain the head-constable within the definition, and, for the reasons which I have explained, I regret I cannot accept the amendment".

The motion was then put and lost.

Clause 4:—

definition of "explosive substance."

The Hon'ble Rai Shiba Shankar Sahai Bahadur moved that after the words "explosive substance," in line 2 of the definition of "explosive substance," in clause 4 of the Bill, the following be inserted, namely:—

if there be reasonable grounds for believing that such materials are intended for making an explosive substance.

He said:—"According to this definition any ingredient of an explosive substance, such as charcoal, sulphur, nails, etc., would be an explosive substance.

"I beg to refer the Council to section 60 of the Calcutta Act and section 37 of the Suburban Act which authorise the Commissioner of Police to issue a warrant for the search of a house if he suspects that any explosive substance, is manufactured, sold or kept. In other words, we are reduced to this absurd position that mere possession of charcoal, or sulphur, even necessary for domestic use, will give the police jurisdiction to order house-search. This I presume could not be the intention of the Government or of the framers of the Bill.

"This definition of explosive substance is taken from Act VI of 1908 (Explosive Substances Act), and it is suggested that what is a good definition for the India Council Act ought to be good for our Act.

"I beg to point out, however, that the aim and effect of the two Acts are quite different. The Explosive Substances Act is a very short Act, which deals with cases where either (1) an explosion has been caused, or (2) an attempt has been made to cause explosion, or (3) an explosive substance is made or kept with intent to endanger human life, or (4) explosive substance is kept under such circumstances as to give rise to a reasonable suspicion that it is not kept for a lawful object. In these cases, therefore, the definition of explosive substance to include any ingredient of explosive substance, can not only cause no hardship but seems to be absolutely necessary. But, in the present Bill, the object is amongst others to give the police power to make a search, and if the definition includes any ingredient of explosive substance, it may cause hardship if not properly safeguarded.

"My amendment, if accepted, while it will not hamper the police in their work, may prevent hardship to peaceful citizens."

The Hon'ble MR. DUKE said :—

"Sir, I do not think that Government ought to accept the proposed amendment. I admit the force of the argument that it appears possible that people might be in some way or other troubled or oppressed for the possession of some quite innocent substance, which might conceivably be an ingredient of an explosive substance, and the Hon'ble Member has rather put the matter on that footing, but I would point out that after all explosive substance is only mentioned in the Act in two connections. One of these is with reference to the issue of warrants to search for explosives. Police-officers have no power to go on their own account or to arrest people on the suspicion of possessing explosives. The provision of law under section 60 of the Act, as we propose it to be, is that the Commissioner of Police, on credible information given on oath, may issue a warrant to search for explosive substances. It seems to me that that provision deprives the definition of any possible danger that it might otherwise possess. The Commissioner of Police, on information given on oath and reduced to writing, may issue a warrant to search. The information must necessarily be explicit and state the nature of the explosive that is being looked for, and surely the discretion of the Commissioner can be trusted not to issue a warrant to search for any substance which is devoid of danger. The other operative provision regarding explosives is under the proposed section 62 (1) (ff) of the Act [Bill, cl. 14] and here the previous sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor is required for the Commissioner to make rules to prohibit the carrying of any explosive substance in streets. The rules must necessarily be explicit. The conditions under which the rules can be made surely afford sufficient safeguard that the rules will be reasonable rules. If the rules are reasonable, no power will be given to the police to interfere with harmless substances. Lastly, there is also always some objection to introducing a limiting clause into a general definition. As the Hon'ble Member has pointed out, explosive substances have been defined in Act VI of 1908, that is, an Act which for offences against it imposes a heavy penalty, and it seems hardly necessary that in a much more trifling matter, the regulation of the possession of explosives, we should attempt to define and limit the expression 'explosive substance' much more closely than was done in that Act. These are the reasons for which I think the amendment, should not be accepted."

The Hon'ble Babu Bhupendra Nath Basu desired that a division should be taken. This was done, with the following result:—

definition of "place of public amusement."

The following motion was, by leave of the President, withdrawn:—

"The Hon'ble BABU BAL KRISHNA SAHAI to move that the words 'whether permanent or temporary,' in lines 2 and 3 of the definition of 'place of public amusement,' in clause 4 of the Bill, be omitted."

The HON'BLE BABU DEBA PRASAD SARBADHIKARI moved that the words "or religious" be inserted after the word "charitable" in the third to last line of the definition of "place of public amusement" in clause 4 of the Bill.

He said:—"The object of this amendment is to have excluded from the operation of the interfering clauses places where 'music,' 'singing' and 'dancing' go on for religious purposes. The reason of my asking for this exclusion is to be found in clause 14 (1) (g). That clause gives the Commissioner of Police power to regulate the means of entrance and exit at 'places of public amusement' and the lighting thereof and 'providing for the maintenance of public safety and the prevention of disturbance therein' which would give the widest possible scope for interference if the police be so inclined. So far as mere rule-making is concerned, the matter would not possibly be open to much objection. Having regard to the possibility of a certain interference on the part of the police, I think it is right that places where music, singing and dancing go on for bonâ fide religious purposes, ought to be excluded at least in the same way as places where such performances go on for charitable purposes in the manner provided in the definition. One would not ordinarily have thought that places for religious exercises could by the wildest stretch of imagination be mixed up with places of 'public amusement.' But having regard to the definition of 'public amusement' in the Bill, I am afraid there would be no help for such mixing up and consequent police interference, because music, singing and dancing are a part of most religious performances in this part of the country, so far as our community is concerned, and the public are and have to be admitted where such performances go on, though payment is not a sine qua non of admission. Money is paid by and collected from the people present, and it is generally intended that money should be so collected. All these elements would bring in such places within the definition of 'place of public amusement.' Those of us who are aware of the habits and customs of the country know that on ceremonial occasions in almost every Hindu household, music, dancing and singing go on in connection with religious observances and collection of money also takes place. If the definition were framed in the same way as the definition of 'place of public entertainment' has been framed, and if the motive is that police control would only apply in cases where it was proved, as in the case of the definition of place of public entertainment, that profit or gain accrued to the 'person owning or having an interest in or managing such place,' then my amendment might not be necessary, because in the class of cases that I am thinking of, the person owning or having an interest in or managing a place, which would be the householder, generally does not expect or receive that profit, but it ordinarily goes to the officiating priest, the singer or the dancer for whom these collections are primarily intended. It is well known that when a preacher or singer is engaged for this purpose, he is only given a retaining fee, and the guests who are assembled generally make up the rest of his profits. It is a well-known and well-established thing in the Hindu community, and there is hardly a sradh performance or a puja where such things do not occur every day of our life. The singer sings, and if his powers are anything like what they ought to be, money flows in in profusion. I see the Maharaja of Burdwan smiling—I do not know whether it is a smile of approbation or disapprobation—but he will remember that within his elaka there are or used to be kirtaniyas who go to every part of the country and who are paid very small fees by the householder himself by way of a retainer, the rest being made up by the guests, amongst whom the Maharaja of Burdwan might have been one. This is the understood, accepted and intended arrangement, and it would therefore bring such a function and such an occasion within this definition. Sir, in these cases police interference would be extremely undesirable and objectionable. I do not anticipate that the police will not be very careful in the exercise of their powers, but if you give them powers like these, they are very liable to be abused. Moreover, I am not sure that under the new provisions the police will have much discretionery power and will not be bound to interfere whenever there is occasion. If there are reasons why charitable performances should be excluded, there are greater reasons for excluding religious performances, for people are proverbially jealous of all interference regarding religious matters in this country. I confess I do not feel very much the weight of the opening remarks of the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill with regard to this matter. He said in effect that if only you introduce possibilities of exclusion of police interference because of religion into the Bill, you get rid of all likely safeguards in regard to it. I do not anticipate any such difficulty. Of course charity covers a multitude of sins, but I think religion covers a greater multitude and there is the greater reason for excluding this. We have also things like kathakathas and jatras as parts of our religious performances, and they are held in connection with every ceremonial in Hindu households, and I think, Sir, that the exclusion of these from the clause will not in any way act to the detriment of objects we have in view in this Bill."

The Hon'ble BABU BHUPENDRA NATH BASU said :—

"I have much pleasure, Sir, in supporting my Hon'ble friend, and as this is a provision which affects Bengali life in Calcutta, I think both my friend and myself are entitled to speak with some amount of knowledge, if not of authority, on this subject. I am quite sure, it is known to my friend the Commissioner of Police, that in Calcutta there are many ceremonials where religious preachers and singers have to take part—one of which has been referred to by my friend—the sradh ceremony. These sradh ceremonials take place in private houses and in private compounds and men are brought down to sing the kirtanas, which are a sort of laudatory hymns to the deity. A large crowd of guests assemble there who feel it their duty to make some presents to the singer. It is a duty which must be discharged, and the singer therefore does collect money on the occasion. I am sure our friends who are non-Bengalis in this Council will sympathise with the feelings of the Bengali community when they say that it would be a great interference with private arrangements if on an occasion like the sradh of a father, a mother or any dear relation, police arrangements are allowed to intermeddle. There is another class which also is known to the Police Commissioner. The Ramayana is sung in many places in the Indian part of Calcutta and a large number of people flock there to hear it sung. Rich and poor, all go there with presents and offerings of money and things. This also would come under this definition. What we respectfully ask is this : whether you think—and I think you are right in excluding from the operation of this clause, places where these things are done for a bonâ fide charitable object,—there is any harm in also excluding places where music and singing and dancing go on for a bonâ fide religious purpose. I am afraid I did not hear what the Hon'ble the Chief Secretary was pleased to say as to the possibility of its opening the door for imposition. Of course, as regards imposition, there are remedies for it, but even the best of us may be imposed upon by 'charitable purposes'. And I am quite sure that if it is made clear that the Ramayana or kathakata is sung or chanted for religious purposes and the people who go there are mostly old men and women and not the political agitator, then there would hardly be any need for interference. Therefore, I appeal, with some degree of confidence, to the Hon'ble the Chief Secretary and to my friend the Commissioner of Police that the amendment proposed by my Hon'ble friend Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari may be accepted."

The Hon'ble MR. SAIYID ALI IMAM said :—

"I submit, Sir, that the point has been somewhat missed in the two addresses that the Council has just heard. The first case where objection is taken by the Hon'ble Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadihikari is the case of the singer whose capacities are such that money flows in, and the second is the case to which reference has been made by my Hon'ble friend Babu Bhupendra Nath Basu, and that is the occasion of the sradh. Both these speakers laboured in the interests in the one case of the singer and in the other case of the preacher, and they laboured with the point that money might be collected for a bonâ fide purpose. I have very grave doubt if such money collected would not be characterised as charitable because it is not religious.

"It is for the temporal good of, in one case, a very able preacher, and in the other, of a very great musical talent; so it seems to me that the point has been somewhat missed in the arguments put forward, inasmuch as the two cases put forward would be covered by the provision of charitable purpose in this definition. Furthermore, it strikes me that unless it is made out that it is undesirable that the police should have any control in places to which the public is invited either on payment of fees or in the hope that a collection will be made, the force of the argument of the two Hon'ble Members is completely lost."

The Hon'ble SIR CHARLES ALLEN said :—

"Sir, I should like to preface my observations with regard to this amendment by one general remark which is to this effect that this amendment belongs to a class of amendments which all proceed generally upon the same assumption—that assumption being that the officers upon whom is imposed the duty of administering the Bill will necessarily administer it in the most vexatious possible manner. That is rather a strong statement, perhaps, Sir, and I wish to explain to this Council what I refer to.

"If the Hon'ble Member who proposed this amendment will refer to clause 14 (1) (g) of the Bill, read with the definition of 'place of public entertainment' and 'place of public amusement,' he will find that the effect of the definition of the two phrases 'place of public entertainment' and 'place of public amusement' in clause 3 of the Bill is that the Commissioner of Police is enabled, with the previous sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor, to make rules regulating the means of entrance and exit at such places when used by the public, and for the maintenance of public safety and the prevention of disturbances therein. Well, Sir, the mover of this amendment and the Hon'ble Babu Bhupendra Nath Basu have both referred this Council to instances in which the use of the powers of the police in connection with such places of amusement and entertainment, respectively, might cause hardship, and I think, Sir, that the members of this Council will entirely agree with the Hon'ble mover of the amendment, that if the police were to interfere in such matters as private sradhs and private pujas very great oppression and private inconvenience might result. But, Sir, I would appeal to the Hon'ble Member not to believe that the Commissioner of Police and the Lieutenant-Governor are going to frame rules which will give the police such opportunities or that any intention exists in the minds of the Government or of its officers to work oppression in the manner indicated.

"I think, Sir, that as reasonable men we must assume throughout this legislation that it is the intention of the Government and the intention of its officers to work under the provisions of this Act with ordinary discretion so as to prevent the infliction of any unnecessary private inconvenience, and Sir, I think also that the members of this Council will agree with me that the Lieutenant-Governor and the Commissioner of Police are officers to whose hands the administration of this clause can very properly be entrusted. Under these circumstances it is surely unnecessary to look through these clauses to find opportunities for the police to abuse their powers, and we are bound to assume that the police will use a proper discretion in the exercise of the powers vested in them under this Act. I make these general observations not only with regard to this amendment but also with regard to several other amendments which have been tabled before this Council.

"After that preliminary observation I should like to say with regard to this particular amendment that the introduction of the phrase which the Hon'ble mover of the amendment proposes is likely to cause difficulty in working the Act and is certain to hamper those whose duty it will be to administer the Act. It will be exceedingly difficult for the Commissioner of Police or his subordinates to attach any precise meaning to the expression which the Hon'ble mover of the amendment proposes to introduce, and I fear that under the colour of the proposed amendment objection will be taken which will be wholly unreasonable. Therefore, I would ask the Council to reject the amendment, as I believe it to be entirely unnecessary and that it will raise difficulties in the execution by the police of their duties under this Act."

The Hon'ble MR. DAS said :—

"Your Honour, the illustrations that were used by the Hon'ble mover and by the Hon'ble Babu Bhupendra Nath Basu were not exhaustive. They were only particular instances. Of course, I fully accept Sir Charles Allen's view of the position. He thinks that it is the duty of the police to keep order as regards people coming in and going out in a place where a certain number of people congregate, but there is no reason why a meeting that has been got up for charitable purposes should be an exception to the rule; even when people congregate for that purpose, a certain amount of order ought nevertheless to be maintained by the police. But charitable meetings have been excepted, as the clause now stands, by the words 'otherwise than bonâ fide charitable purposes'. These words, Sir exclude assemblies that have been got up for charitable purposes from the purview of that definition. Now, if a meeting or assembly, which has been gathered for a charitable purpose, is to be excluded from the definition of a 'place of public amusement' because the object is charitable, a fortiori, I submit that a meeting that has been got up for a bonâ fide religious purpose ought to be excluded, because religion is in no sense an amusement and certainly should not find a place in the definition of a place of public amusement. I can very well conceive cases where, for instance, Christian people get up a meeting and have singing there in order to get up funds which are to be used for building a church; that would distinctly be a bonâ fide religious purpose. There is no doubt about it. The difficulty we have to face is that such singing ought not to come in the definition of 'place of public amusement'. In devotional church services people sing, but in that case the object is very different. It is not amusement. We stand here in this anomalous position. We exclude charitable purpose, and yet we do not exclude religious purpose. I can fully understand Sir Charles Allen's difficulties that in working the Act the police might be in a very difficult position, because it is sometimes difficult to say which is religious and which is not. There are different sects of religion. What one party calls religious another calls heretic. As the clause stands, religious purpose ought to be excluded because the definition is 'a place of public amusement'. But then Sir Charles Allen might say it is difficult to see how dancing can come in as religious.

"These are our difficulties. I submit that something ought to be done to exclude religion, and yet it cannot be consistently made an exception in a definition of 'a place of public amusement,' if it is to be excluded, as it ought to be. There ought to be a provision which should exclude both religious and charitable purpose, leaving it to the authorities to decide which is religious and which is not, in doubtful cases."

The Hon'ble MR. DIP NARAIN SINGH said :—

"The important qualifying phrase 'bonâ fide' has been overlooked. Wrongs can be committed under the cloak of religion as under the cloak of charity. What I wish to submit is that if bonâ fide charity is to be excluded, bonâ fide religion, on the same grounds, ought also to receive the same treatment. I beg the amendment may be accepted by the Council."

The Hon'ble BABU BAIKUNTHA NATH SEN said:—

"I wish I could endorse what Sir Charles Allen says about the intention of the Government and of the high officials with regard to the operation of this Act, and I wish I could say the same about the lower grades of the Police-officers. But unfortunately we are fully aware of the fact that the Acts of the Police-officers of lower grades, with a few exceptions, are not in accordance with the intention of the Government. The particular instances that have been mentioned by the Hon'ble mover and by my Hon'ble friend, Babu Bhupendra Nath Basu, deserve careful consideration. These are matters which are known not only in this metropolis, but throughout the province of Bengal. During puja occasions it is the case that dancing goes on and payments are made. Then during occasions of sradh, sankirtan is considered to be a part of the religious ceremony. These are particular instances, and I appeal to Your Honour to consider whether or not some sort of safeguard with regard to these occasions should be made. I think the suggestion which has been made by the Hon'ble mover is quite fair and is not likely to create any difficulty in the carrying out of the operations of this Act. These are particular instances which may be accepted. The Hon'ble Sir Charles has observed that it is not necessary to specify 'religious' as the word 'charitable' includes 'religious,' but unfortunately the remarks made in the Council are not considered during the construction of the Act, when a case is tried by our Courts. The only thing that I would beg to submit to Your Honour is to save, as it were, these classes of dancing, singing, etc., which are really for bonâ fide religious purposes."

The Hon'ble MAULVI SAIYID MUHAMMAD FAKR-UD-DIN said :—

"I beg to support the amendment, because there will be no danger if the words 'or religious' be inserted after the word 'charitable.' The Hon'ble movers of the amendment have illustrated various religious instances, and they have shown the difficulty which might be felt in the performance of certain religious ceremonies, and I think, therefore, that it would be better to insert the words 'or religious', as proposed by the Hon'ble movers. When the word 'bonâ fide' is before the word 'charitable' this word will govern and qualify the word 'religious' as well. The Commissioner of Police will be able to know the bonâ fides or otherwise of religious gatherings and the collection of money for religious purposes. It will be too hard if the bonâ fide religious gatherings or the collection of money for bonâ fide religious purposes are not excepted from the definition. I think I am therefore fully justified in supporting the amendment."

The Hon'ble BABU DEBA PRASAD SARBADHIKARI said :—

"In the first instance I wish to point out regarding Sir Charles Allen's observations that the words 'bonâ fide charitable purposes' appearing in the definition which appear to him to be no less objectionable than 'religious purposes' are not a part of amendment here or in Select Committee at all, but a part of the old draft taken from the Bombay Act. The exclusion of religious purposes from the definition does not occur in the Bombay Act, and not knowing the Bombay conditions, I cannot say whether it was necessary there or not. Because this was not thought necessary or insisted on in Bombay is little answer to the demand for exclusion here. Conditions vary in different parts of the country, and apparently some of our Bihar friends do not know what is the prevailing order of things in Lower Bengal, at least in Calcutta and its suburbs, which this Bill seeks to control. 'Bonâ fide charitable' being thus already excluded, I do not think Sir Charles Allen's general observations—or rather the particular observation which followed his general observations—apply to this case. We have the fact that Government has thought fit to exclude charitable purposes, and a very special case has to be made out before such exclusion is denied with regard to religious purposes. As we view it, the necessity for that exclusion is much more paramount than in the case of charitable purposes. People are not bound to be charitable, but they cannot do without religion. If they find that it is not safe to be charitable, they will cease to be charitable, but they cannot dissuade themselves from being religious. While Sir Charles Allen has made a general appeal to which we would not hesitate to give our assent, we also like to make a general observation which had been already made also in a previous note of mine. Is there a guarantee that sympathetic treatment will always be characteristic of police administration? We are legislating for a long time and we must be careful that no loophole is found by which gratuitous popular annoyance may be possible. I am sorry, Sir, that the learned Standing Counsel has spoken, and I think that when I have spoken after him, he will be still more sorry that he spoke. In the first instance, he says that this payment of fees I have spoken of, is for the temporal good of the recipient and has nothing to do with religion. It may, therefore, well rank as charity and thus take the whole affair out of the purview of the definition. All that I can say is that if there is such a difference it would not in any case be honest and would not hold good. Moreover, the recipient himself would strongly object to consider the earnings as charity. I should like my Hon'ble friend to meet the infuriated priest and offer him charity like that. They do not look upon this as a part of charity at all. It is considered rightful gain, earned in due course under a system that has grown long in the country. It might possibly have been objected to, but no one has objected, that if there is not the intention that money should be collected in this particular way, the case would not be covered by this definition. The case is however different, and on all these occasions, be he a millionaire householder or be he the poorest of men, the intention is and the practice has always been that money shall be collected for the benefit of these men and in this particular way. Therefore there is the necessary intention always. It may be a problem for social reformers, whether this ought to be or not, but it is there, and I am afraid it will be there for a very long time to come. As my Hon'ble friends Babu Bhupendra Nath Basu and Mr. M. Das have pointed out, there are innumerable cases where this goes on, and I did not attempt to exhaust the list. In private temples, too, this goes on from morning till evening; and if the police is inclined, there is nothing to prevent interference. Now, Sir, that being so, and the religious susceptibilities of a very important section being concerned, I very respectfully appeal that this harmless amendment ought not to be rejected. Of course some of my Muhammadan friends spoke against it, and I was putting down that opposition to my idea that all singing and dancing and music in connection with religious matters are objectionable from their point of view. I am glad, however, to have the support of one of my Muhammadan friends in the Council, and that shows that there is a feeling which Hindus and Muhammadans alike share.

"And it is also shared by Christians as the Hon'ble Mr. Das has demonstrated by his support. It is not right that the people should by and by have to think that they should drop practices which have been cherished institutions of the land for a long long while, and the regret and the mischief will be the greater because they are connected with religion.

A division was then taken, with the following result:—

So the motion was lost.

The following motion was, by leave of the President, withdrawn:—

The Hon'ble BABU DEBA PRASAD SARBADHIKARI to move that the word 'gymnasium', in the last line of the definition of 'place of public amusement', in clause 4 of the Bill, be omitted.

The following motions were taken together, namely:—

definition of "place of public entertainment."

10. The Hon'ble BABU DEBA PRASAD SARBADHIKARI to move that for the words "food, drink", in line 3 of the definition of "place of public entertainment", in clause 4 of the Bill, the words "spirituous drink" be substituted.

11. The Hon'ble BABU DEBA PRASAD SARBADHIKARI to move that the following words in the definition of "place of public entertainment," in clause 4 of the Bill, be omitted, namely:—

"refreshment-room," "eating-house," "tea-shop," "boarding-house" and "lodging-house."

12. If Motion No. 11 be not carried, the Hon'ble BABU DEBA PRASAD SARBADHIKARI to move that for the words "lodging-house, hotel," in line 7 of the definition of "place of public entertainment," in clause 4 of the Bill, the following be substituted, namely:—

or lodging-house in which any kind of spirituous drink or drug is supplied for consumption on the premises for profit or gain, and a hotel.

He said:—"The object of all the three amendments are of course the same, and in moving them together, as suggested by Your Honour, I only hope, Sir, that in case the first two are lost, the third may have separate and independent consideration. The words which I seek to omit from the definition in clause 4 of the Bill are 'food and drink,' and I ask that the words 'spirituous drink' be substituted in their place. The Council will remember that it was at my instance that 'drug' was included in the definition, and the Council will thus be satisfied that I have no desire to restrict the scope of the definition unnecessarily or improperly. The amended definition will give control only with regard to the premises where spirituous drink or drug is supplied, and would leave out refreshment-rooms, eating-houses, tea-shops, boarding-houses and lodging-houses. If at these places spirituous drink or drugs are allowed, they will come in, as a matter of course, under this definition, whether it be a refreshment room, or an eating-house, or a tea-shop, or a boarding-house, or a lodging-house. I do not know what the feeling of my European friends are with regard to the matter of boarding-houses, lodging-houses and refreshment-rooms. But we have amongst us a class of these institutions—small hotels, mithai shops, small eating-houses owned by Brahmans—where the poor and some of the middle classes go for their meals, and which manage to carry on some sort of existence with a modicum of profit to those who start them but to the great good of those who have no other place to go to. If these places are subjected to interference, the inconvenience will be great. Many members may have noticed, during midday adjournment of offices and courts, poor clerks make their way into mithai shops, where they are allowed to sit and are given some food and a little water which they take inside the shop. Supposing this clause is brought into force, the shop-keepers will say to their customers: 'You cannot step into the premises. You may stand on the foot-path and eat away as much as you like.' Of course this may be called an extreme case; but when occasion arises with regard to institutions of other kinds, interference like this will be unavoidable. If orderliness is the end in view, I submit, Sir, my provision with regard to spirituous drinks or drugs ought to suffice, and mere service of food ought not to cause interference. It may be urged that in recent times some of these boarding-houses and lodging-houses have been centres of undesirable gatherings which have to be put down with all the rigours of the law. But they can be dealt with under other laws, and for the purpose of dealing with them, we ought not to interfere with general and ordinary public convenience. It is therefore important that these places should be excluded from the purview of police action. But this is not all. Considering how the definition has been framed, I am afraid the class of cases that I refer to in connection with places of public amusement will also be subject to control contemplated by this definition. What we are told here is that a place will be considered a place of public entertainment if food is supplied for consumption on the premises for profit or gain of any person managing such a place. That being the case it is not merely the tradesman that would come in. It is possible that in places which are not trading concerns at all, but where food is supplied and the person supplying it benefits in money, the operation will come in. Here, again, is a matter of common knowledge amongst our Hindu friends that in puja houses or in sradh houses and on the occasions of weddings, money offerings in various shapes are made, not for the benefit of the singer, the dancer or the musician, but for the benefit of the householder. I am sorry to have to tell these things to non-Hindu members of the Council, and I do not know how social reformers will view them. But there is hardly a ceremonial occasion, Sir, when guests are fed and some money offerings are not made by them. In weddings or funerals it goes to the pockets of the householder who feeds his guests. It is not a consideration, it is not a thing that he insists upon, but it is a thing that exists. I do not anticipate that a Police-officer who knows his duty will be found indulging in the pastime of interfering in these affairs. But they are a class of cases that is more than conceivable, and if I read the law aright the police will be bound to interfere unless the rules are specially careful and wide. Whether it be in the case of a tradesman or a householder, the fact that some profits have been made out of a transaction or operation—because it may not be a transaction in all cases—ought not to make it amenable to police interference or police control. Moreover, an addition of powers like these will give more work to the already overworked police, and those fine distinctions that are at times necessary for determining action will be by and by impossible, and may result in the abuse now anticipated. I therefore ask, Sir, that the words 'refreshment-room,' 'eating-house,' 'tea-shop,' 'boarding-house' and 'lodging-house' may be omitted, and that 'spirituous drink' may be substituted for the word 'food, drink' in the definition in clause 4 of the Bill."

"I do not think it is possible to accept this amendment. I would draw attention to the fact that all these places which the Hon'ble Mover of the motion wishes to exclude from the operation of the law relating to places of public entertainment, have always been included in the definition of places of public entertainment. Under section 35 we find the same sort of places mentioned—boarding-houses, eating-houses and the like. All these places cannot be conducted without a license, and it must be recognised that all licensed places ought to come under some measure of control. Let us now see what the effect of the present definition of a place of public entertainment is. The only operative clause, I take it, is clause 14 (1) (g). They come under the power of making rules to provide for the maintenance of public safety. One would think from the line of argument taken that the immediate effect of including them in the definition of places of public entertainment would be that the keepers of such places would be handed over to the mercies of the police. But as a matter of fact the only effect of their inclusion is that they are liable to be regulated by rules made by the Commissioner of Police with the previous sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor. Here, again, some degree of discretion must be expected in the framers of the rules that they will not make rules for regulating the exit and entrance to tea-shops in small godowns. The rules will be made for places which require regulating, and I would point out that to limit places of public entertainment to places where spirituous drinks are sold is illogical in itself. The question is not what is sold, but the number and character of the people who frequent the place. It may be only a tea-shop, but if it is a tea-shop which is frequented by an undesirable class of people in great numbers, it is most essential that some sort of regulation should be possible. Now, in the same way, it may seem somewhat absurd to maintain order in a boarding-house which may be a most high class and respectable place. On the other hand, it may be a lascars or coolies' boarding-house with hundreds of doubtful characters. Is it possible to say that there should be no power of regulating the management of such a place?"

The Hon'ble BABU DEBA PRASAD SARBADHIKARI said:—

"I may be permitted to say that, so far as section 35 is concerned, it deals with the question of licenses, but here what we are doing is somewhat in advance of that, and are legislating not only with regard to means of entrance and exit, but of lighting and of prevention of disturbances in the premises concerned. I submit, Sir, that the class of operation that goes on in a premises ought to determine the amount of interference, and what is necessary and good in the case of spirituous drink or drug does not apply in the supply of food. If largeness of public resort is to be a warrant for such interference, I do not know why, by and by, we should not have to think of regulating public resort to places like Whiteaway and Laidlaw or other big shops, where a large number of people goes especially during the bargain sales. What is urged in favour of the definition would be quite good authority for doing it. Sir, my friend has referred to section 35, but even that section does not touch the tea-shops, and I would plead for that, if for nothing else. I do not know whether it is due to my own personal predilection for tea. Coffee-shops are often dens of crime in the Machua Bazar portion of the town, but in a tea-shop the most innocent of things may be going on."

The motions were then separately put and lost.

definition of "Police-officer."

The Hon'ble RAI SHIBA SHANKAR SAHAI BAHADUR moved that the words "or Assistant," in the third line of the definition of "Police-officer" in clause 4 of the Bill, be omitted.

He said :—"This amendment is only formal. The definition is borrowed from the Bombay Act, section 3 (b). Apparently in Bombay we have a class of officers called Assistant Commissioners of Police [I beg to refer to section 6, clause (1) of the Bombay Act]. We, however, do not provide for the appointment of an Assistant Commissioner of Police in Calcutta (I beg to refer to section 5 of the Calcutta Police Act). Therefore I propose that the word 'Assistant' be omitted from the definition."

The Hon'ble MR. DUKE said :—

"I beg to accept the amendment. The word does not occur in the present Act, nor does it appear necessary, as this function could not be introduced without legislation. It will be time enough when this function is introduced, to introduce the word. It seems to have got in because of a recommendation of the Police Commission."

The motion was put and agreed to.

definition of "public place"

The Hon'ble BABU DEBA PRASAD SARBADHIKARI moved that the words "a right of" be inserted before the word "access" in line 2 of the definition of "public place" in clause 4 of the Bill.

He said :—"This will, if accepted, bring 'public place' in line with the definition of street, which is the next definition in that clause. Street is defined as any road, lane, etc., to which the public have permanently or temporarily a right of access. I am merely suggesting that the same words should occur in the definition of 'public place.' If the word is necessary in the case of street, where right of access might be presumed, I think there is a greater need for it in the case of public places. The mere fact that the public have access to a place ought not to make it a public place; there ought to be right of access to bring it under the category of 'public place.' Unless we have it, the mere fact of the public having access, whether as a matter of right or not, to a place, would make any warehouse,—and there are many in Calcutta,—a public place. I therefore submit, Sir, that this ought to be allowed."

The Hon'ble MR. DUKE said :—

"I am unable to accept the amendment. As to the difference between street and public place, street has been defined as a road, lane or any public place or thoroughfare to which the public have a right of access. Public place is defined as a place to which the public have access. It is difficult to explain why the question of right is introduced in one case and not in the other; but as regards streets, the right is almost the only way of distinguishing from public streets and private avenues. But in dealing with public places and places like the banks of the river, it is not the concern of the police whether the people who are there have a right to be there, but whether they need to be controlled. The point for police purposes is that they are there, and that is really the whole case. It would be absurd that contentions should be raised subsequently that the action taken was wrong because, although the people were there, they had no right to be there."

The Hon'ble MR. SAIYID ALI IMAM said :—

"I do not know, Sir, whether, if I speak, my learned friend, the Hon'ble Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari, will again indulge in prophecy in respect of the acute state of mental suffering I shall have after I have spoken, and perhaps worse after my Hon'ble friend has spoken in reply. But I venture to put before the Council that the Hon'ble Member has not appreciated this particular part of the Bill. He has absolutely, I may submit with a great deal of deference, overlooked certain considerations that arise when we give due weight to those words 'banks of the river, docks, jetties, warehouses,' to which the public have a right of access. If the Council were to accept for a moment the suggestion that has been put forward, we should be reduced to this necessity that—in the case of the bank of a river which may be the private property of a zamindar, but which is let out as a matter of indulgence to the public to be used for the purpose of bathing, and which, say, for the sake of my argument, belongs to the Maharajadhiraja of Burdwan,—the result will be that if the Maharaja's magnaninity allowed a large part of the public as a matter of convenience to use this particular bank, and as such there is access of the public there, then, if we accept the amendment, the result would be that there would be a very large assemblage of men on such a bank and they may take to any excesses they like; because, if the amendment is accepted, the police could not possibly have any control upon such a large assemblage on the ground that, if this suggestion is accepted, the police will have no control over this mass, because it will be said that this particular assemblage had no right to that place inasmuch as it did not belong to them, nor had they any right or title to go to the place. The result is that all such assemblies would be absolutely out of the control of the police. I submit the amendment will be destructive of the very object the clause has in view.

The Hon'ble BABU DEBA PRASAD SARBADHIKARI said :—

"The very moderate statement of my Hon'ble friend has quite convinced me that I was in error with regard to banks of rivers, docks and jetties, and I was about to say so when the sledge-hammer of my Hon'ble friend the Standing Counsel came in. That did not, however, convince me as to the propriety or necessity of warehouses being considered as public places simply because the public have access to them. I would, therefore, invite the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill to exclude warehouses from the definition of public place because the public happen to have access there. I am sorry my Hon'ble friend, Rai Sita Nath Ray Bahadur, is not present here to-day, and he would have borne me out that there are many large warehouses—and I directed my observations chiefly to warehouses—which would have to suffer if the mere reason of access were to make them public places. With that observation I invite the Hon'ble Mr. Duke to consider at least the case of warehouses and exclude them from the definition. There are many other places situated like warehouses which are not included in this definition, and if restrictions are considered necessary in the case of warehouses why should these other places be excluded?

The PRESIDENT said :—

"I am afraid that I cannot allow it. A warehouse certainly may be a public place for all practical purposes, although it may be so merely through the courtesy of the owner of a warehouse. The Hon'ble Member will move the amendment as it stands or else withdraw it."

The motion was then, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

Clause 4 A.

The Hon'ble RAI SHIBA SHANKAR SAHAI BAHADUR moved that the word "needless", in line 1 of sub-clause (j) in clause 4A of the Bill, be omitted.

He said :—"There is no reason as to why in conducting searches a Police-officer may have at all to be rude. This is pointed out by the Vakils' Association (paper No. 9), and their objection is worthy of consideration. By the insertion of this word we to some extent legalise rudeness which is not necessary."

The Hon'ble MR. DUKE said :—

"I wish, Sir, that I could accept the amendment. I do not think, however, that it would be entirely reasonable to do so. I do not wish to appear as an advocate for rudeness in the police under any circumstances, but it is one thing to disapprove of rudeness and another thing to make a statutory provision that on no occasion is rudeness to be exercised. It must be remembered that the people with whom the police deal are not the most refined classes of society. On the contrary, they often come against people who treat them with extreme rudeness. Such rudeness must be met with some degree of harshness. Although it may be fully justifiable, it is capable of being considered as rudeness. It must be remembered that this provision as to the duties of Police-officers, which is contained in clause 4A of the Bill, is governed by an extremely severe sentence, namely, that in proposed section 13B in clause 6 of the Bill, by which an officer who contravenes any of its provisions or is guilty of any dereliction of duty, is liable to three months' imprisonment or a fine which may extend to Rs. 100.

"I think it will be rather too much to lay down that an officer who was guilty of rudeness, even under provocation, should be liable to that very severe penalty."

The motion was then, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

The following motions were, by leave of the President, withdrawn :—

16. The Hon'ble BABU HRISHIKESH LAHA to move that the words "being rude" be substituted for the words "needless rudeness" in lines 1 and 2 of sub-clause (j) in clause 4A of the Bill.

17. The Hon'ble RAI SHIBA SHANKAR SAHAI BAHADUR to move that the words "or damage" be inserted after the word "annoyance" in line 3 of sub clause (j) in clause 4A of the Bill.

section marked A.

The Hon'ble RAI SHIBA SHANKAR SAHAI BAHADUR moved that for the following words in section A in clause 6 of the Bill, namely :—

The Commissioner or a Deputy Commissioner of Police shall not, without the permission of the Lieutenant Governor, and a Police-officer of lower rank than that of Deputy Commissioner shall not, without the permission of the Commissioner of Police.

the following be substituted, namely :—

No Police-officer other than a special Police-officer shall, without the permission of the Lieutenant-Governor.

He said :—"This amendment is proposed to bring the Calcutta Act into conformity with section 17 of the Bombay Act.

"It is highly desirable that the members of the police force should not be allowed to engage in trade, etc., where they act as Police-officers. There may be some exceptions to this rule; but the power of making exceptions should be cautiously and very rarely exercised. I do not mean any disrespect to or want of confidence in the Commissioner of Police when I suggest that the power of making exceptions with regard to his subordinates should not vest in him but in the Government. I feel that if the matter has to be referred to Government it will be seldom or rarely necessary to make exceptions, and that is the object I have in view. I further beg to point out that the proceedings of the Bombay Council show that there, as in the present Bill, the power was proposed to vest in the Commissioner of Police. But subsequently, on objection, it was altered, and in Bombay this power vests in Government alone.

"The object of my amendment is to follow the exact wording of the Bombay Act, especially as it was passed after consideration and discussion of the particular point before the Council."

The Hon'ble MR. DUKE said :—

"I do not think, Sir, that the amendment can be accepted. But the Hon'ble Member is under a misapprehension as to the Commissioner of Police or any superior authority encouraging the members of the force to engage in any sort of trade or business outside their regular profession. There is not the least fear of anything of that sort occurring, but the point is that it is necessary to provide for cases which arise. A very great number of the members of the force are inhabitants of Calcutta and members of Hindu joint-families, and are constantly interested in a very small way in transactions in immovable property. Suppose that a family house has to be sold in which some Sub-Inspector of police is interested, it is necessary for him to obtain the consent of his superiors, but it is not reasonable that every such case shall have to be reported to the Local Government. The matter is one of discipline. As to engaging in trade, it is inconceivable that any active officers of the force should be permitted to engage in any trade, but many of them are poor men; and if an officer should be compelled to take leave for a long period without pay, he may quite properly engage in some trade, and so long as he is not an active officer of the force, he may be permitted to do so. All these are subjects in which the Local Government ought not to be troubled, but they are departmental matters in which the Commissioner might be left to judge. In the cases of superior officers, they must come before the Local Government, but for officers of lower rank I think that it might be taken that the control of the Head of the Department is sufficient."

The Hon'ble BABU BHUPENDRA NATH BASU asked :—

"Is there not a rule prohibiting Government servants from engaging in any trade? I believe there is such a rule."

The Hon'ble MR. DUKE replied :—

"Yes, there is such a rule."

The motion was then, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

The Hon'ble Babu Bal Krishna Sahai moved that the following portion of section A in clause 6 of the Bill be omitted, namely :—

(a) engage in any trade, or.

He said : —"I find from the answer given by the Hon'ble the Chief Secretary that there is a general rule which prohibits Government servants from entering into any sort of trade, so it will be misleading to have this clause, and Government will be pestered with applications from the employees of the Police Service asking for permission to enter into trade or other business The object is to discourage trade by Police-officers and to avoid misinterpretation; it is safe to omit this clause.

The Hon'ble MR. DUKE said :—

"I think it is better that the thing should be specifically provided for in the clauses of the Bill. There is a general rule for Government servants against engaging in trade, but I know of no specific legislation. The Bill, however, leaves it in such a position that the Head of the department might, if there is any necessity, permit it. It is not conceivable that this should take place with regard to officers in active service: it only applies to officers who are not in active employment."

The Motion was then put and lost.

section marked C.

The Hon'ble Babu Bal Krishna Sahai moved that after sub-clause (a) of section C in clause 6 of the Bill the following be inserted, namely :—

(aa) in conducting a lawful search, causes damage or annoyance vexatiously or negligently, or acts in excess of authority.

He said :—"This amendment has been provided for the purpose of ensuring the safety of innocent people from acts done by Police-officers in excess of their authority or vexatiously."

The Hon'ble MR. DUKE said :—

"I am quite unable to accept this amendment. The conduct of searches is dealt with in clause 4A (j) of the Bill, and any Police-officer, who contravenes the direction, is liable to punishment under proposed section 13B in clause 6 of the Bill. The punishment is quite heavy enough, and there is no reason to enhance it under this clause. I think probably that the Hon'ble Member has omitted to notice this point, or otherwise he would hardly have provided another clause with different wording for the same purpose. It would be going very far to provide that mere negligence or acts in excess of authority, where the line may be very finely drawn, may be punished with six months' imprisonment. For such acts the civil remedy is surely sufficient."

The Motion was then, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

The following Motions were, by leave of the President, withdrawn :—

New clause 7A.

21. The Hon'ble Rai Shiba Shankar Sahai Bahadur to move that the following clause be inserted in the Bill, namely :—

Amendment of sections 18 to 21 of the Calcutta Act.

7A. In sections 18, 19, 20 and 21 of the Calcutta Act, for the words "constables" and "constable," wherever they occur, the words "Police-officers" and "Police-officer" shall respectively be substituted.

New clause 7B.

22. The Hon'ble Rai Shiba Shankar Sahai Bahadur to move that the following clause be inserted in the Bill, namely :—

Amendment of section 18 of the Calcutta Act and section 12 of the Suburban Act.

7B. (1) In section 18 of the Calcutta Act, and in section 12 of the Suburban Act, after the word "authority" the words "at any time" shall be inserted.

(2) In the same sections, after the word "appoint" the words "any able-bodied male persons between the ages of eighteen and fifty-five to be" shall be inserted.

New clause 7C.

23. The Hon'ble Rai Shiba Shankar Sahai Bahadur to move that the following clause be inserted in the Bill, namely .—

Amendment of section 21 of the Calcutta Act and section 15 of the Suburban Act.

7C. In the first paragraph of section 21 of the Calcutta Act, and in the first paragraph of section 15 of the Suburban Act, after the words "shall be vested with all the powers, privileges and duties of" the following shall be inserted, namely :—

"and shall be amenable to the same penalties and be subordinate to the same authorities as".

New clause 7D.

24. The Hon'ble Rai Shiba Shankar Sahai Bahadur to move that the following clause be inserted in the Bill, namely :—

Amendment of section 21 of the Calcutta Act.

7D. In the first paragraph of section 21 of the Calcutta Act, for the words "Police-force" the words "ordinary force" shall be substituted.

New clause 8A.

25. The Hon'ble Rai Shiba Shankar Sahai Bahadur to move that the following clause be inserted in the Bill, namely :—

8A. In section 25 of the Calcutta Act, after the word "protection" the words "and shall be amenable to the same penalties" shall be inserted.

Amendment of section 25 of the Calcutta Act.

Clause 9.

The Hon'ble Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari moved that the word "trespasses" be substituted for the words "enters or remains" in lines 4 and 5 of clause 9 of the Bill.

He said :—"The reason for this amendment is that incidents of trespass are well known to law, and that has been the word that we have always been accustomed to use. There may be instances when a man may, without any intention of mischief or harm, enter a place, and the onus of satisfactorily proving that he was not to blame will, under this clause, be upon him. This is a process and principle regarding criminal cases that have always been rightly discounted. Regarding the gruesome pictures drawn by my hon'ble friend the Standing Counsel, I do not think that is a class of situations intended to be dealt with by provisions like these, for a penalty of Rs 20 which is here provided will be but a poor remedy. We have stronger provisions elsewhere for the drastic situations depicted by the learned Standing Counsel. But this special measure is intended to deal with the class of cases where the curiosity of an ignorant person or such like trifles may have to be checked. The safeguards long known to law ought not to be lightly sacrificed."

The Hon'ble MR. DUKE said :—

"I do not think, Sir, that the substitution of 'trespasses' for 'enters or remains' can be agreed to. The object of the clause is to take power to prevent people from entering places, private or public, where they have no right to be. "The clause is safeguarded by the provision that the act must be wilful and without satisfactory excuse; for instance, as I have already observed, it has been suggested that an ignorant peasant from the country might stray into the grounds of Government House moved by curiosity to see where the Viceroy lives. An excuse of that kind would protect a man from penalty. If he were an ignorant man, his ignorance would be quite a satisfactory excuse and he would be turned out and there would be an end of it, but if the man persisted in staying or coming back, or if a man who knew better came in on a false excuse, there is no reason why he should not suffer a small penalty. The maximum penalty provided is in itself a small one.

"If we were to import the word 'trespass,' we should be importing all sorts of difficult questions. I am not afraid that the substitution of the word would bring in the definition of criminal trespass, because that is a thing entirely different from trespass, but in law, trespass may give rise to troublesome questions as to the right of a person proceeded against, and I take it that it is much better to use the simple expressions that we have in the clause which are perfectly clear, namely, 'wilfully enters or remains and without satisfactory excuse'. The sort of practice which the police have to deal with is that, on some public occasion, people climb upon statues, cover the pedestal and perhaps climb upon the figure. They may intend no harm, and may do no harm, but the practice is unsightly and may lead to risk or damage, and is one with which the police ought to be able to interfere. It is for occasions of that sort and for nothing else that we desire the clause and I do not think it carries any risk of the public being ill-treated by it."

The Hon'ble MR. SAIYID ALI IMAM said :—

"I have an objection to the word 'trespasses' being inserted here in place of the words 'enters or remains' for some strong reasons, looking at clause 9, and specially in the light of some of the words to which obviously the Hon'ble Member has got no objection, or if he has, he should have proposed 'amendment in respect of them. The words that I refer to now are these—wilfully enters or remains.' The clause would run thus, 'Whoever without satisfactory excuse wilfully enters or remains in or upon any dwelling-house or private premises or upon land or ground attached thereto, of any ground, building, monument or structure, belonging to the Government, or appropriated to public purposes, etc., etc.' If the amendment is accepted, there would be difficulty in regard to this that if anyone was found who had not any satisfactory excuse, and who entered or remained on the building or monument or whatever may be appropriated to public purposes, in that case we shall have to prove that he was committing criminal trespass or at any rate civil trespass. I should find, certainly, a great deal of difficulty in proving that he was committing trespass by entering or remaining on any such ground or building that is appropriated to public purposes, To say, that by remaining there he committed trespass, it would be making the clause impossible if the insertion of the word 'trespasses' is insisted upon, and therefore it seems to me that by the amendment, if accepted, the portion of the clause appropriated to public purposes becomes repugnant, and with Your Honour's permission and in defiance of the strictures from my Hon'ble friends, I venture to think that the Council could not see its way to accept the amendment, because if the Council accepts the amendment it would have to abandon that part of the clause."

The Hon'ble BABU BHUPENDRA NATH BASU said :—

"I had also given notice of a similar amendment, but my hon'ble friend moving his amendment, it becomes unnecessary. What I believe is that the word 'trespasses' would serve the purpose which the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill has in view, as well as the words 'enters or remains'. I do not suppose that there is any feeling in the mind of the Chief Secretary to punish an unwary man, a man who comes from the mufassal or even from the town, who walks into the Belvedere grounds just to see the sort of palace in which the Ruler of the Province resides. That is a curiosity which is sometimes commendable. But it is quite possible that if the man says that he came there out of mere idle curiosity, it might not be treated as a satisfactory excuse. He may have no other explanation to offer, but that he came there for the purpose of satisfying his curiosity as to how great people in high places live. I for myself plead guilty to such a curiosity, and I remember that in my younger days I entered the Government House, when the Governor General was away, just to see the sort of rooms where the high ones in the country spent their days. What we fear is this, that it will render a man liable to punishment if he enters the Government grounds not intent upon any criminal purpose. I do not possess the imagination of my hon'ble friend the Standing Counsel who seems to conjure up before his eyes pictures of men prowling about forbidden places intent upon doing serious mischief. If he will live in Calcutta, where I have lived for the last 50 years, for some time more, he see that we will have no need of such things. As regards the objection of the Standing Counsel, I do not feel the same doubt as he feels. The matter, of course, is not of any serious nature ; it is only a punishment of Rs. 20. But it is preceded by an arrest, and it means detention in hajut and being hauled up before a Magistrate. It may give rise to considerable irritation and suffering. I lay the matter before the Council for careful consideration."

The Hon'ble KHAN BAHADUR MAULVI SARFARAZ HUSAIN KHAN said:—

"The Hon'ble Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari has moved that the word 'trespasses' be substituted for the words 'enters or remains' in clause 9 (b) of the Bill. With regard to this matter the Hon'ble Babu Bhupendra Nath Basu in his Note of Dissent observes as follows :—

'Clause 9 makes it punishable for a person to enter or remain in any private or public premises without satisfactory excuse. Instances are very common when people, especially ignorant people from the mufassal, enter into public or private buildings merely as sightseers. Under the law, as proposed to be altered, these people will be liable to be arrested and punished. The present section 29 in the Calcutta Police Act makes only 'trespass' punishable. The word 'trespass' has a well-defined meaning under the Penal Code. I think the innovation which renders innocent sightseers liable to punishment is both unnecessary and undesirable.'

The clause runs thus:—

> 'Whoever, without satisfactory excuse, wilfully enters or remains in or upon any dwelling-house or private premises or any land or ground attached thereto, or any ground, building, monument or structure belonging to the Government or appropriated to public purposes, or any vehicle, boat or vessel, shall, whether he causes any actual damage or not, be liable to fine which may extend to twenty rupees.'

"According to the rules of grammar, which are applied for the purposes of construction of statutes, prepositions or adverbs or prepositional or adverbial phrases at the beginning of a sentence, control, qualify or restrict the meaning and scope of the whole sentence. The expressions without satisfactory excuse and wilfully qualify the import of the clause, and take the case of sightseers for the sake of curiosity out of the clause. The elements without satisfactory excuse and wilfully will be stated or implied in the charge. Although the term 'trespass' is not used, the ingredients of the offence of trespass are given, namely, entering or remaining in or upon a place or, in other words, trespass proper and trespass ab initio given in an extended phraseology, suitable to the tenor and terse terminology of the Indian Penal Code in section 441 thereof. In small local and special Acts, the terminology of the Penal Code is purposely avoided to make the law intelligible generally. I think that the clause might be left intact."

"Sir, I have neither much experience of Calcutta in these matters, nor have I a fertile imagination to forecast events which may happen fifty years hence. I look at the question from a purely legal point of view. We have here a clause worded in a certain way, and we have here put before us a hypothetical case where a man ignorant of the life in Calcutta enters a place just to satisfy what has been called a rustic curiosity. It is not at all desirable that this man should get into the claws of a penal law. Well, Sir, the question is, does the amendment provide a sufficient remedy in that case? It was argued by the Hon'ble Babu Bhupendra Nath Basu that he (the rustic) had not any criminal intention. If he was brought up under a section which had the word 'trespass' in it, his intention in visiting the place would be looked into, whereas under the present clause that would not be looked into. I do not know, Sir, where it is to be found that intention is to be one of the elements of trespass. I know intention is one of the elements of criminal trespass, and there is no such thing as simple trespass defined in the Code. Criminal trespass is defined in the Penal Code. Trespass, Sir, is a very different thing, and it does not take into consideration at all the element of intention. My learned friend might have heard of the Cattle Trespass Act, but cattle have no intention. Well, then, I submit here that if the case of a rustic is to be taken into account, it would better serve his interest if the language is as little technical as possible. When a simple man is hauled up by the Police, it is much easier for him to give some 'satisfactory excuse.' Excuse has no legal meaning attached to it.

"It would be better if you give the rustic wider latitude. He would be better off under the wording of the Bill than he would be if the amendment were adopted."

The Motion was then put and lost.

The following Motions were consequently, by leave of the President, withdrawn:—

27. The Hon'ble Babu Bhupendra Nath Basu to move that the word "trespasses" be substituted for the words "enters or remains" in lines 4 and 5 of clause 9 of the Bill.

28. The Hon'ble Rai Shiba Shankar Sahai Bahadur to move that the word "trespasses" be substituted for the words "wilfully enters or remains," in lines 4 and 5 of clause 9 of the Bill.

29. The Hon'ble Babu Bal Krishna Sahai to move that the word "trespasses" be substituted for the words "wilfully enters or remains," in lines 4 and 5 of clause 9 of the Bill.

New clause 9B.

The following motion was, by leave of the President, withdrawn:—

30. The Hon'ble Rai Shiba Shankar Sahai Bahadur to move that the following clause be inserted in the Bill, namely:—

Amendment of section 32 of the Calcutta Act and section 16 of the Suburban Act.

9B. (1) In the second clause of section 32 of the Calcutta Act, and in the second clause of section 16 of the Suburban Act, for the words "or other place" the words "or other such place" shall be substituted.

(2) In the fourth clause of the same sections, after the word "building" the words "or premises" shall be inserted.

Clause 11.

The Hon'ble Babu Bal Krishna Sahai moved that clause 11 of the Bill be omitted.

He said:—"I submit, Sir, what is wanted by the Government is sufficiently provided for by section 411 of the Indian Penal Code. I do not know that any case has been made out where the object has not been secured by This section of the Indian Penal Code. If the provisions of section 411 of the Indian Penal Code be insufficient for the requirements of the present time, I submit, Sir, that section ought to be amended, and the present clause be omitted."

The Hon'ble MR. DUKE said:—

"I observe that this amendment is moved by an Hon'ble Member who is not much in touch with the state of affairs in Calcutta. The original proposal has been brought forward at the suggestion of some of the principal associations and bodies of merchants in Calcutta, and no exception has been taken to it by any of the Members who are directly connected with Calcutta. The pilfering from goods in bulk is a nuisance which is universal in Calcutta. It has been particularly complained of by the Railways and the Port Commissioners because the goods which remain in their charge at the Docks particularly suffer from small abstractions of grain, etc. The people who steal are usually coolies or petty thieves who lurk about these places. The worst offenders are those perhaps who receive such articles. It will be found that it is dealt with in an Act which at present applies only to Howrah, but it applied at one time to Calcutta and its suburbs as well. No reason has ever been found for the repeal of this particular clause, but in the various changes of the law that took place, it appears that the clause slipped out. A new Police Act was substituted for Calcutta and for the suburbs, and in the end the section disappeared, but it has been in operation for nearly 60 years in Howrah. A cooly going with a quantity of, say, three or four seers of salt or of oilseeds or more than he would be at all likely to require for his own use, should be asked to explain how he came in possession of such a large quantity. If he can explain, well and good, otherwise the presumption is against him."

The Hon'ble MR. SAIYID ALI IMAM said:—

"I hesitate, Sir, to give my support to this amendment on various grounds. The first ground that I have against it is that my Hon'ble friend, the Hon'ble Member who has moved this amendment and who is himself a lawyer, knows that section 411 of the Indian Penal Code raises, amongst other difficulties, the difficulty, first of all of proving that the article in question is stolen, which is differently treated in clause 11 of this Bill. Sir, the thing is that in the case of anything about which there is reason to believe that it has been stolen, section 411 imposes it as a necessary condition that the prosecution must prove that the article was in fact stolen. Then comes another difficulty, and that is that the article in question was received or retained dishonestly, but then it is understood that it has got to be proved. My Hon'ble friend will therefore see that so far as section 411 of the Penal Code goes, that section has these difficulties in the way of application. As it has been put before the Council by the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill, in Calcutta, where I confess I have not lived for 50 years, and I can only say that I have lived here only for about five months,—and in this short time my experience has been somewhat bitter,—then, what it will be in 50 years to come if I live at all, I am not prepared quite to prognosticate—the conditions of life are different. And what happens here is this, that when that unfortunate rustic, in whose favour some Hon'ble Members very rightly and most vehemently raised the voice of protest against this being accepted, comes to Calcutta with his wife and child, for the purpose of buying things, a confederacy of three men starts with the idea of robbing this poor man of the ornaments of his child. I recite this case which was tried at the last Sessions. One of them snatches the ornament from the child's person and hands it over to another, and two of them bolt, and the third man is caught. He willingly confesses the previous convictions against him and is sent to jail, but six months after, the ornament is found with a person who cannot give a satisfactory excuse for possessing it, and this cannot be found because the rustic cannot be traced. This is the condition of life, I am sorry to say, in Calcutta. It is with the very idea of saving this very class of people like the poor rustic that this clause has been framed. Under the condition of life that goes on here, it would be impossible for those who have even small experience of this town to give their support to this amendment."

The Hon'ble BABU DEBA PRASAD SARBADHIKARI said:—

"I am glad, Sir, to have at last the pleasure of opposing an amendment, and that, Sir, is considerably augmented by my being able to be at one with my friend the Standing Counsel with whom I have been lucky enough to be able to establish such friendly relations in the course of one morning that we have already had three wordy duels. If my hon'ble friend the mover of the amendment had read the clause as it stood in the July draft, he would have seen that the provision was much more drastic than it is now and the Select Committee has largely softened down its rigours. Legislation like this has been found necessary to be introduced in Rangoon and the Police have felt the want of power with which they ought to be armed. I think, Sir, the amendment ought not to be passed."

The Hon'ble BABU BAIKUNTHA NATH SEN said:—

"I stand, Sir, with your permission to make a few observations in regard to this amendment simply because it contravenes one of the first axiomatic principles of criminal law. The Hon'ble the Chief Secretary has been pleased to observe that this is an exceptional provision for exceptional circumstances. The reasons put forward may be cogent. Here at Calcutta thefts are committed by coolies and cartmen, and the owners of the stolen properties in most cases cannot be traced. The cases, therefore, fail. But the question is, will that justify the contravention of the first and elementary principles of criminal law that a man should be considered innocent until he is proved to be guilty? For this reason I think that the provision, namely, clause 11 of the Bill, is objectionable."

The Hon'ble BABU BAL KRISHNA SAHAI said:—

"The arguments advanced by the Hon'ble the Chief Secretary rather go to support my amendment. As has been said by my hon'ble colleague to the left, it is one of the principles of law that a man is to be considered innocent so long as he is not proved to be guilty. Here the onus is turned against him."

The Motion was then put and lost.

The following motions were, by leave of the President, withdrawn:—

The Schedule.

32. The Hon'ble Rai Shiba Shankar Sahai Bahadur to move that section 59 of the Calcutta Act and section 36 of the Suburban Act be entered in the Schedule to the Bill for repeal.

New clause 11A.

33. If Motion No. 32 be not carried, the Hon'ble Rai Shiba Shankar Sahai Bahadur to move that the following clause be inserted in the Bill, namely:—

Amendment of section 59 of the Calcutta Act and section 36 of the Suburban Act.

11 A. In section 59 of the Calcutta Act, and in section 36 of the Suburban Act, after the word "gunpowder," in each place in which it occurs, the words "or any other explosive substance" shall be inserted.

Clause 12.

The Hon'ble Babu Bal Krishna Sahai moved that the word "Inspector" be substituted for the word "Sub-Inspector" in sub-clause (ii) in clause 12 of the Bill.

He said:—"We have learnt from experience in the mufassal that sub-inspectors are duped in making their searches to believe that a certain offence has been committed, but it has been subsequently found that on account of their inexperience the case fails. It is, therefore, very necessary that searches should be made by experienced inspectors and not by sub-inspectors. Many sub-inspectors make grave mistakes."

The Hon'ble MR. DUKE said:—

"I regret, Sir, that this amendment cannot be accepted. As it is typical of a number of amendments which will come up as regards the powers of inspectors and sub-inspectors, I think I had better make a clear statement on the subject.

"I think that in this amendment and in other amendments of the same class the movers perhaps show that they are not fully aware of the change which has taken place in the last few years in the distribution of the Calcutta Police as between Inspectors and sub-inspectors.

"Before the days of the Police Commission, all police-stations were in charge of inspectors, and at that time there were 21 sub-inspectors, including in that number 13 of the old style of darogas, while there were about 57 inspectors, mostly in charge of police-stations. The Police Commission recommended that the officers in charge of police-stations should be styled sub-inspectors. The inspector had long been regarded as the only officer to be in charge of a police-station, and the Government were somewhat unwilling to accept sub-inspectors. Perhaps the same sort of objection occurred to them which is being taken now that the sub-inspector was an inferior class of officer, and accordingly it was suggested that officers in charge of police-stations in Calcutta should be of the class of junior inspectors, while the inspectors were to be in charge of circles of three or four police-stations. That proposal was not accepted and from 1906 the officers in charge of police-stations in Calcutta have been styled sub-inspectors, so that whereas there were only 21 sub-inspectors before, now there are no less than 84; and while there were 57 inspectors in Calcutta, there are now only 19, of whom 11 are employed on special work of different kinds and only 8 altogether are in charge of circles, consisting of three or four police-stations. It thus appears that in fact in Calcutta the sub-inspector has succeeded to all the powers which were formerly exercised by inspectors, and furthermore the sub inspector has been very much raised in status. At the time of which I spoke prior to 1906 an Inspector was usually taken on on an initial pay of Rs. 100; sub inspectors in Calcutta are now taken on on an initial pay of Rs. 125 in addition to various other allowances. You will see that there is no comparison between the position of a sub-inspector in Calcutta and in the mufassal, where even now that his position has been much improved, he is still taken on on an initial pay of Rs. 50. I think it probable that this state of things has been lost sight of by the movers of other amendments on the subject. In taking this particular amendment the section provides that in the case of a search for explosives, which may be assumed to be a serious and urgent matter, the Commissioner of Police must himself hear the information and issue the warrant to search.

"I have said that there are only eight inspectors in the whole of Calcutta employed on district work, and Members may readily see that if the occasion was important and a number of searches had to be made, it would be impossible to find inspectors for this duty.

"In view of the general explanation which I have given, I think the amendment should be withdrawn."

The Motion was then, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

The Hon'ble Babu Bal Krishna Sahai moved that sub-clause (1) in clause 12 of the Bill be omitted.

He said:—"I beg to submit, Sir, that anyone who has experience of the mufassal must have come across many instances where even when searches have been made during the day-time, the Police have been duped in their searches by opium being thrown into the house searched, and that cases of this nature are not few."

The Hon'ble BABU DEBA PRASAD SARBADHIKARI said:—

"I am sorry, Sir, that I cannot support this amendment. The matter was carefully considered in the Select Committee and a clear case was made out for investing the Commissioner with the power of having searches carried on in the night-time, which made the non-official Members give up their opposition which was no less keen to start with than the amendment now implies. Investing the Commissioner of Police with powers of search may be more objectionable in the day-time when there is a Magistrate sitting. But if the Commissioner happens to receive information after the Magistrate has risen—and I believe the Commissioner is a Magistrate himself—then there may be good reasons for having night-searches, especially during the times that we are now passing through. Therefore I think that this amendment ought not to be pressed. Of course with regard to night-searches we want protections and safeguards about which we shall presently move amendments. But this amendment by itself cannot be supported."

The Hon'ble MR. SAIYID ALI IMAM said:—

"I am very glad to stand in company with my Hon'ble friend the Hon'ble Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari in opposing this amendment. It appears to me that the safeguards that have been provided in the section itself are ample against any such apprehension as the Hon'ble mover of this amendment may have. First of all, the Commissioner of Police has to act on credible information. He has to judge of it, and he has to see for himself whether the information is one on which he can rely. Then, again, that information is to be on oath; it has then to be reduced to writing, and even after that, it is open to the Commissioner to exercise his discretion and to issue a warrant. With all these safeguards it would be rather difficult that the subordinate officers of the police would, under the circumstances, almost directly under the supervision and control of the Commissioner, possibly take upon themselves to act in the manner in which the mover of the amendment has suggested, and therefore I regret I cannot support my Hon'ble friend."

The Hon'ble MR. DUKE said:—

"I cannot agree to accept the amendment. There is no particular advantage to the Commissioner of Police in being able to order searches in the day-time because in the day-time a Magistrate can usually be found to grant the warrant. It is essentially necessary that the Commissioner should be able to issue his warrant at night also, when no Magistrate may be readily available. The section deals solely with searches for explosives, a most serious matter, and it is necessary that the Commissioner of Police should be able to order search without delay.

"The power is very carefully safeguarded, because the information must be reduced to writing, and the warrant can only issue to an officer not below the rank of a Sub-Inspector."

The Motion was then put and lost.

The Hon'ble Babu Bal Krishna Sahai moved that the following be added to clause 12 of the Bill, namely:—

To each of the said sections the following shall be added, namely:—

"Every search-warrant issued under this section must disclose on its face the information on which it is issued.

"A copy of the warrant shall be given, at his request, to the person against whom the warrant is issued."

He said:—"Now that night searches have been allowed, I respectfully submit that there ought to be some provision for the safety of innocent people, and that for this reason the information on which warrant is issued should appear on the face of it, and a copy of it should be given to the person against whom the warrant has been issued."

The Hon'ble MR. DUKE said:—

"I regret that I cannot accept the amendment. It is never the practice that a search-warrant or any warrant should disclose on its face the information on which it is issued, nor that a copy should be served on the person. The warrant is an original document and can be challenged subsequently. I would draw the attention of the Hon'ble Member to the fact that all that he requires appears to be already provided by clause 60. The Commissioner of Police, on credible information laid before him on oath and reduced to writing, may issue a warrant. That sufficiently safeguards the matter."

The Hon'ble MR. SAIYID ALI IMAM said:—

"I oppose this amendment, Sir, on the ground that such information as is contemplated here is not an information which should disclose the source from which it has been obtained. It has been repeatedly held, as my lawyer friends know, that in the case of such information as this the police-officer has got the right to refuse to let the Court know where he got his information from, and this point has been repeatedly held to be good on the ground of public policy. The ground of public policy is that information of this kind, which is confidentially given, cannot be disclosed. Care has to be taken that such information should not be given out inasmuch as the informant would be reluctant to give the information, if he knew that his name would be disclosed, and this would at once be in possession of the persons whom he charges. Therefore, under these circumstances, I should urge that on the ground of public policy, it would be disastrous to allow such an amendment to come in. As regards the contention that a copy of the warrant shall be given at his request to the person against whom the warrant is issued, I may submit that if the information is to be in the warrant and a copy of it to be given, the object of the amendment would amount to this, that on every occasion when the warrant is served the man charged should be instantly in possession of the case as it stands against him.

"This will lead probably, as far as I can judge, to a probable failure of justice inasmuch as the accused in question will instantly embark upon such a procedure as will prevent the investigation of the case against him, and the procuring of evidence."

The Motion was then put and lost.

The Hon'ble Rai Shiba Shankar Sahai Bahadur moved that the following be added to clause 12 of the Bill, namely :—

"Provided that, whenever the Commissioner of Police authorises the search of a house between sunset and sunrise under the provisions of this section, he shall record his reasons."

He said :—"I beg to submit to Your Honour that searches at night are troublesome to all concerned and should not be resorted to unless necessary. The power may be given to the Commissioner of Police to search at night, but if he has to record his reasons for his action it may be some safeguard that the search at night will be made only when absolutely necessary."

The Hon'ble BABU DEBA PRASAD SARBADHIKARI said :—

"This amendment is unnecessary. Whatever safeguards can reasonably be expected will be found in section 60. If the Commissioner is obliged to record his reasons, they would be of a stereotyped order, which would not serve any useful purpose. I do not think that we ought to have or want this amendment."

The Hon'ble MR. DUKE said :—

"This is quite unnecessary. The Commissioner is to record the information on which the warrant is granted, and that contains his reasons and is just as much liable to challenge as if he had recorded separate reasons."

The Motion was then, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

Clause 13.

The following Motion was, by leave of the President, withdrawn :—

38. If Motion No. 32 be carried, the Hon'ble Rai Shiba Shankar Sahai Bahadur to move that the following be added to clause 13 of the Bill, namely :—

(2) In the same sections, for the word "four" the word "two" shall be substituted.

The Hon'ble Rai Shiba Shankar Sahai Bahadur moved that the following be added to clause 13 of the Bill, namely :—

(2) In the same sections, for the word "four" the word "three" shall be substituted.

He said :—"This is a formal amendment. One section having been repealed the word 'three' should be substituted in this section for the word 'four'."

The Hon'ble MR. DUKE said :—

" I accept this amendment as a necessary correction to the Act."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

first section, sub-section (1).

The Hon'ble Babu Bal Krishna Sahai moved that the words " Subject to the approval of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council " be substituted for the words " With the previous sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor ", in line 1 of sub-section (1) of the first section set out in clause 14 of the Bill.

He said:—" This amendment relates to certain rules which are to be made by the Commissioner of Police with the sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor. I submit, Sir, that the rules so made should be laid on the table of the Legislative Council for consideration of the Members in order to enable them to give their opinions and move Resolutions. I know it will take up the time of the Council, but the question is so important that the Members should be consulted and given an opportunity of expressing their opinions."

The Hon'ble MR. DUKE said :—

" I am unable to accept this. There is not a Lieutenant-Governor in Council."

The Hon'ble BABU BAIKUNTHA NATH SEN said :—

" Legislation by rules does not commend itself to me, Sir, and is objectionable on principle. It is the delegation of the authority or the right which the Legislature has, to a single officer.

" I have the greatest respect of course for the present Commissioner of Police, whose ability perhaps cannot be questioned, but on principle legislation by rules is objectionable. It means the delegation of authority to one single individual officer of Government."

The Hon'ble SIR CHARLES ALLEN said :—

I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT said:—

" I do not think that the remarks of the present speaker are out of order. I was in hopes that the Hon'ble Member would have thought it wiser not to press the amendment because it cannot have the effect that he intends, but as he has not done so, I think it best to hear what he has to say."

" It is on that principle that I beg to support my friend's amendment. Let not the Council be divested of its authority of having some control. It is for that reason, I think, that the amendment might be accepted."

The Hon'ble MR. DAS said :—

" What I suggest is this. Of course we can take it only as the amendment now stands, ' subject to the approval of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council.' The existing rules which regulate the proceedings of the Council now must admit, that is there must be room in them to allow, this amendment to come in. I do not think that there is anything in the rules under which the Council can now do this. Of course the Council has the power to move resolutions. How can the Council now, in the face of the rules as they stand, take up an amendment now in this form 'subject to the approval of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council'? This is not a matter for the Legislative Council, but for the Executive Council, and as there is no Executive Council, the matter cannot be taken up. Nor is there anything in these rules which authorise us to make the amendment so as to authorise an officer to frame rules which should be put before the Council, for the officer might not be a member of this Council."

The Hon'ble BABU BAL KRISHNA SAHAI said :—

"As there is no Executive Council in existence, the objection taken by the Hon'ble the Chief Secretary does not seem to be proper. The words clearly indicate that the Legislative Council was meant."

The Motion was then put and lost.

The Hon'ble Babu Hrishikesh Laha moved that the words "and inviting and considering public opinion thereon" be inserted after the words "previous publication" in line 3 of sub-section (1) of the first section set out in clause 14 of the Bill.

He said :—"As the rules which will be framed by the Commissioner of Police will affect the rights of the people and will also affect trade, I think, Sir, that it is absolutely necessary that public opinion should be invited and duly considered before the rules are finally passed into law."

The Hon'ble BABU DEBA PRASAD SARBADHIKARI said :—

"I am afraid, Sir, I must oppose the amendment, and I think, when I have explained my reasons, the Hon'ble Member will not press it. Section 24 of the General Clauses Act lays down the procedure with regard to the whole thing and provides for timely publication and gives opportunity for expression of public opinion and criticism in the press, which the Government may or may not give effect to. There will be no lack of opportunity for such criticism, but how far they will influence Government is another matter. Therefore what the Hon'ble Member wants has already been legislated for."

The Motion was then, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

first section, sub-section (4).

The Hon'ble BABU DEBA PRASAD SARBADHIKARI said :—

"I have carefully considered the Hon'ble Mr. Duke's observations about the harmlessness of providing maximum punishments and leaving it to the discretion of the Magistrate to deal with each case separately. With Your Honour's permission, I beg to withdraw all the amendments regarding the punishment clauses."

The following Motions were accordingly, by leave of the President, withdrawn :—

42. The Hon'ble Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari to move that the words "clause (d), clause (e)" be inserted after the letter "(c)" in line 2 of sub-clause (i) of sub-section (4) of the first section set out in clause 14 of the Bill.

43. The Hon'ble Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari to move that the word "twenty" be substituted for the word "fifty" in line 3 of sub-clause (i) of sub-section (4) of the first section set out in clause 14 of the Bill.

44. If Motion No. 42 be carried, the Hon'ble Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari to move that the words "clause (d), clause (e) or" be omitted from line 1 of sub-clause (ii) of sub-section (4) of the first section set out in clause 14 of the Bill.

45. The Hon'ble Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari to move that the words "to imprisonment, with or without hard labour, for a term which may extend to eight days, or ", and the words "or to both", be omitted from sub-clause (ii) of sub-section (4) of the first section set out in clause 14 of the Bill.

46. The Hon'ble Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari to move that the word "fifty" be substituted for the words "one hundred" in line 3 of sub-clause (iii) of sub-section (4) of the first section set out in clause 14 of the Bill.

section A, sub-section (1).

The following Motion was, by leave of the President, withdrawn :—

47. The Hon'ble Babu Bal Krishna Sahai to move that the word "Inspector" be substituted for the word "Sub-Inspector" in line 4 of sub-section (1) of the section marked A in clause 14 of the Bill.

The Hon'ble Babu Bal Krishna Sahai moved that the words "either orally or", in line 8 of sub-section (1) of the section marked A in clause 14 of the Bill, be omitted.

He said :—"Sir, I think that in order to safeguard all concerned, the direction ought to be in writing; oral orders might be misunderstood and there will be difficulty in proving it."

The Hon'ble MR. DUKE said :—

"Out of the five sub-clauses in sub-section (1) of the section marked A in clause 14, there are other matters in which instructions had much better be given and would ordinarily be given in writing, and in that case they would not be given by an officer of higher rank than a Sub-Inspector, but if Members would consider the whole of these sub-clauses, they will see that there are occasions when the responsible officer on the spot must do the best that he can in the circumstances, and it is therefore impossible to insist that the order shall be made in writing. If two hostile processions are about to collide, the Sub-Inspector cannot sit down in the street and write an order."

The Motion was then put and lost.

The following Motion was, by leave of the President, withdrawn :—

The Hon'ble Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari to move that the words "or place of public resort" be omitted from lines 4 and 5 of sub-clause (c) of sub-section (1) of the section marked A in clause 14 of the Bill.

The Hon'ble Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari moved that the following be inserted after sub-clause (c) of sub-section (1) of the section marked A in clause 14 of the Bill :—

> Provided that no Police-officer shall interfere with music, or the beating, blowing or sounding of any musical instrument, in any street or public place, in connection with any bonâ fide religious observance or ceremony.

He said :—"This amendment is, I think, necessary in the interest of religious performances. There are some very petty and small religious performances regarding which no licenses are generally taken out or insisted on. They are only small kirtan parties or small parties singing songs or carrying one or two instruments which are a part of all weddings and funerals in everyday Hindu life. With regard to these cases, I think there ought to be immunity. It is well known that the funeral of aged people is accompanied by musical parties singing religious songs, and this ought not to come under this category."

The Hon'ble MR. DUKE said :—

"I am afraid, Sir, that the amendment cannot be accepted. I quite admit, of course, that there are very many small processions with which no reasonable-minded police officer would interfere, but religious processions may be of all kinds, and in the interests of the general public and of keeping the streets free to enable traffic to pass, it is essential that the police should have some power of control.

"As regards processions with music, it is essential that they should be amenable to control, for instance, in the case of a procession with music when passing the place of worship of some other sect. There is perhaps no more frequent cause of violent disturbance in this country than that."

The Motion was then put and lost.

section A, sub-section (2), sub-clause (iv).

The Hon'ble Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari moved that sub-clause (iv) of sub-section (2) of the section marked A in clause 14 of the Bill be omitted.

He said :—"These are matters both sides of which have been completely threshed out, and I do not think that I can usefully say much that is not more or less familiar to all Members of the Council. I shall not therefore take up the time of the Council by repeating those arguments and statements of facts. It is for the Council to say whether interference like this ought to be allowed in the name of public peace and safety. There may be occasions when action would be necessary, but whether the powers should be exercised it a single and overworked officer like the Commissioner of Police considers if necessary for the preservation of public peace and safety or not, is another question. We think that no occasion has arisen for investing the police officers with special powers like these and therefore it ought not to find a place in the Act, no sufficient case for it having been made out or even suggested."

The Hon'ble MR. DUKE said :—

"As to this I can only say that this is a question of public order. It may be by means of cries or by the singing of particular songs that public order is threatened. It is by such means that disturbances are most readily created, and if it is necessary to stop them the Commissioner of Police ought to have the power to do so. His power of doing so is of course merely temporary."

The Hon'ble BABU BHUPENDRA NATH BASU said :—

"I am afraid there is more in the sub-clause than meets the eye. I remember an occasion, and I believe my friend the Commissioner of Police will remember it, when a memorial was submitted to the Commissioner that the Hindu funeral cry of Haribole should not be uttered in the streets. And I am glad to say that the Commissioner did not interfere with a time-honoured custom like that. Then, as my hon'ble friend has pointed out, in cases when old people die and are taken to the river-side, a kirtan party generally accompanies the corpse, and there is some sort of music and playing on the horn. They may be distasteful to some people who are supersensitive and there may be occasions when these may be prohibited. But apart from that—and I do not wish to drag that matter into prominence,—there are other cries and songs which to many of us may seem unobjectionable, but which may be reported as objectionable to the Commissioner of Police. There is indeed a remedy provided, namely, "subject to the control of the Lieutenant-Governor," but the mischief will have been done before the people have time to reach the Lieutenant-Governor, and if he happens to be at Darjeeling, the control, such as it is, will be illusory. And at the same time there are other ways in which the really objectionable cries and songs—songs which are in the nature of inciting violence or songs which may be seditious, or songs which may excite disaffection—may be stopped, and if people go on indulging in these they will be punished: the law provides for that. I am inclined to think that this sub-clause may introduce rigours when there is no sufficient justification for them. Therefore I would support my friend in asking the Council to delete it."

The Hon'ble MR. SAIYID ALI IMAM said :—

"I regret, Sir, that I cannot see my way, however much I may sympathise with the reasons urged by the Hon'ble Members, who have moved this amendment, to give them any support. With regard to the question of public utterance of cries, we may borrow an instance of the recent events which happened in Lucknow, where a great deal of disturbance was caused. We shall be satisfied in our minds that in that city, where Muhammadans live in very large numbers, two sects, viz., Shiahs and Sunnis, the entire question rested practically upon this point of the utterance of a certain cry. But this is not only the case in Lucknow, but also the same has happened in Bombay, and I am not sure if the history of Calcutta will not also disclose that the utterance of some cries has led to disturbance, whether these cries were denominational or, as my learned friends would say, patriotic. But I say, whether denominational or national, the whole of the question before the Council at present, as it stands, is—whether or not our experience tells us that in large cities feeling is created either on religious grounds or on political grounds, whether the preachings have been in a mosque or in a temple or in Beadon Square, it makes very little difference, as long as we have to judge the first issue,—has or has not in the past the utterance of such cries led to disturbances which it is the duty of the police to avoid and to put a stop to? If it is the case, it may be a very regrettable factor, but it has got to be faced, and the police on any ground of sentiment should not be deprived of control in matters of this kind, inasmuch as experience tells us that if there is any disturbance which is of the acutest kind, which leads inevitably to the commission of excesses, it is the cry which has its birth either in religious fanaticism or in patriotic origin. So in any case the first issue is, do these cries now or have they in the past given us the fear that they would lead to disturbances, and if it is so, in that case I certainly think that the Council here has got every right under these circumstances to give their support to the Bill on this point to which it is entitled, and as such I regret that I cannot stand on the same side of the house where my hon'ble friends are sitting. I must confess that I should not point in his direction because my hon'ble friend Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari takes notice of such actions, and therefore, to save myself from any further condemnations, I will not look at him but from a safe distance express my regret that I cannot by any manner of means give my support to him as I would be glad to do, if I had not the example of Lucknow, and if I may also respectfully say, of Calcutta, before me."

The Hon'ble MR. DAS said:—

"My learned friend said something 'more than meets the eye.' The question before the Legislative Council when it is engaged in legislating must be one which refers to the present time and the present state of things. It is not for the Legislature to take upon itself the duties of a prophet, and say that the term of life of a particular legislative enactment should be five years or ten years. The Legislature must take things as they are, and legislate for things as they stand now. These things may change after six months and may not change for another thirty years. When there is an altered state of things it would be for the Legislature then to decide as to whether the particular enactment should continue in force or should be repealed. A good deal has been said with regard to this Bill, but there has been an attempt as it were to fight shy of the real question that ought to be before us. As a matter of fact, we are taking into consideration the recent events that have transpired within the last two or three years. Things are not now what they were when the old Police Act was passed. That is the position in which the Government (i.e., the Legislative Council) finds itself. It has been said that if this Act had been passed as a temporary measure, nobody would have objected to its being passed. But the fact of its being passed does not give it a permanent lease of life. If the state of things alter hereafter, certainly the life of this Act need not be continued after that. Then the question really is this: 'Has there been an altered state of things which does justify the passing of this Act?'"—

The PRESIDENT said:—

"I am afraid the Hon'ble Member is not keeping himself within the terms of the amendment."

The Hon'ble MR. DAS said :—

"The terms of the amendment are as regards cries, etc. I know that people when they carry the dead bodies of their relatives to the cremation or burial-grounds utter cries. The question is whether there have been cries which really require interference on the part of the Legislature, and whether, in this state of things, there is no likelihood of such cries being uttered in future, and if such cries are uttered, whether they ought to be put down. We must consider two measures—preventive and punitive. Preventive measures might sometimes work inconvenience to innocent persons. When there is a chance of an innocent man being punished, I should loudly raise my voice, but we must be prepared to sacrifice something in order to enforce preventive measures for the general good of society. I am therefore unable to support this amendment."

The motion was then put and lost.

The following motion was consequently, by leave of the President, withdrawn:—

52. The Hon'ble Babu Bhupendra Nath Basu to move that sub-clause (iv) of sub-section (2) of the section marked A in clause 14 of the Bill be omitted.

The following motion was, by leave of the President, withdrawn :—

53. The Hon'ble Babu Hrishikesh Laha to move that the words "(whether of an obscene or seditious character)" be inserted after the words "singing of songs" in sub-clause (iv) of sub-section (2) of the section marked A in clause 14 of the Bill.

The Hon'ble Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari moved that the words "in any public place, except in connection with bonâ fide religious purposes" be inserted after the word "music" in sub-clause (iv) of sub-section (2) of the section marked A in clause 14 of the Bill.

He said :—"I would move this, Sir, in the interest of religious non-interference. Of course for other reasons such prohibition is necessary; but when it is directly in connection with religious purposes, it ought to be dealt with differently from other cases. That is the reason why, although the last amendment has been lost, I venture to move this."

"The amendment cannot be accepted, because, in the first place, the question is not that of the place in which such cries are uttered or songs are sung, but of the effect which it will have. It is equally efficacious for the purpose of disturbing public order if the shouter or singer is out in a public road or if he is shouting or singing from a verandah adjacent to the road. I know a case where the provocation was given by shouts from within the compound of a mosque, but the effect was none the less deadly on that account.

"It would not be possible to make any exception in favour of what has been described before as religious purposes. I need not repeat what has been said by my Hon'ble friend the Standing Counsel as to the peculiar danger of shouts or songs which take place in connection with religious purposes.

"There is no doubt that a religious cry may be the most fertile source of provocation, and probably with the more religious conviction or fanaticism it is uttered with, the more dangerous it is."

section A, sub-section 2(a).

The Hon'ble Babu Bhupendra Nath Basu moved that the words "the delivery of public harangues" in lines 4 and 5 of sub-section (2a) of the section marked A in clause 14 of the Bill be omitted.

He said :—"I do not know that the word 'harangue' has anywher received a legal interpretation. Our friend the Standing Counsel no doub enlightened upon the point, but I have failed to find any, and I do no understand to what class of speeches this is directed to. And therefore I would venture to move this amendment, especially as I think that any single individual, whoever he may be, ought not to be entrusted with the power of deciding whether any speech delivered in public is a harangue or not, and it should not be stopped except on very clear grounds. As regards (i) the preservation of morality, there can be no question. But as regards (ii), does it mean the harangue which has not yet been delivered, and does he mean to put a stop to it in anticipation? In that case, I should like to know by what process of intuition the Commissioner is to know the nature or the character of the harangue which is going to be delivered. It is a serious thing, in my opinion, that this power should be given to the Commissioner of Police. The Phillipics of Demosthenes which have been read by successive generations of students with pleasure might be considered as harangues. I do not for a moment suppose that a Demosthenes will rise in India. I should like to know what this is meant for. I believe it means inflammatory speeches. All I want to know is how, without hearing the speeches or without having seen the draft beforehand, is the Commissioner to decide the nature or the character of the speech? It is very serious, Sir, to entrust to one single individual the power of stopping the delivery of public speeches."

The Hon'ble MR. DUKE said :—

"I am quite unable to accept the amendment and I would say about it that if the Hon'ble Member is in any doubt as to what it applied to, so far as I understand and subject to any opinions which may be given by the Law Members of this Council, I understand that the word harangue would not be applied to any speeches delivered at a public meeting. The question of dealing with public assemblies so far as this Police Act is concerned comes under section 73 of this Act.

"It refers rather to the man who takes up his position at the corner of a street where he is likely to attract a crowd, and begins to give an address in the hope of attracting one.

"I have explained that in my opinion this provision will not affect the proceedings of any persons of character and position, of any responsible persons who proceed in a regular manner, but it appears to me to be applicable entirely to the proceedings of casual tub thumpers and seekers for notoriety."

"So far as I have been able to find authority to give a legal meaning, if there be any, to this word, 'harangue,' I must confess, Sir, that I have not been able to find any such authority, and so far as the technical aspect goes, I stand in the same difficulty that my hon'ble friend, Babu Bhupendra Nath Basu, stands in. But I must say that when in the course of the debates to-day my learned friend waxed exceedingly eloquent and supported his arguments by reference to Joan of Arc and Phillip V of Spain and after that he paid himself rather the doubtful compliment that he was haranguing this Council, I felt that my hon'ble friend was doing himself less than justice, inasmuch as harangue, whether it has or has not any technical meaning, has one clear meaning in the English language, and that meaning is that the speech in question should be of a most impassioned character without any preparation and without any degree of responsibility in its utterance. I must say that the able speech that we all heard from him to-day was certainly a speech which was devoid of all these shady characteristics, and it seems to me so far as that goes, I can say that we have never had to do in this Council with anything like that of a harangue. So far as the meaning of the word 'harangue,' as it is ordinarily understood, is concerned it has been well put and explained by the Hon'ble Member in charge of this Bill.

"Now as to the usefulness of this measure. In regard to this perhaps it will be wasting the time of the Council if I went on at any great length in pointing out how dangerous it would be to permit these public harangues. It is understood that when a speaker seizes an occasion in public gatherings, perhaps in the afternoon, in squares or public compounds where people congregate, and he gets up there and calls attention to any question of the moment or of passing political or religious phase, he obtains a notoriety of character and embarks upon a series of most impassioned, irresponsible utterances, plays upon the feelings of his audience and ends by inspiring and inciting religious or any other kind of excitement in the minds of the assemblage, invites it, as if it were, to share the same irresponsibility which he himself enjoys in his utterances. And I think such harangues in the opinion of this Council ought never to be allowed to go on in Calcutta, otherwise certainly it would be very difficult for the police to discharge its duties towards the people of Calcutta. I have heard, and I think it is true, that the records will show that on an occasion, which is certainly a religious occasion, namely, the taking away of the body of a man who was judicially found to be a murderer and executed to the cremation ground, and after which a large procession followed, there were harangues and cries all along and the procession took the body to the cremation place in a manner that would have done honour to a hero. It was nothing short of deification. That is the kind of excitement the public very easily come under the sway of everywhere, and much more so in Calcutta, and these are facts which the records show to be true. It is our business to see that such results of impassioned oratory, fearless of consequences and devoid of responsibility, do not corrupt the minds of the public. Such a thing should be put a stop to, and I submit that we have not the least doubt that in the exercise of these powers the greatest possible care will be taken. In arming the authorities with power we are not arming them with any which they do not deserve to have."

The motion was then put and lost.

The following motion was, by leave of the President, withdrawn :—

56. The Hon'ble Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari to move that the word "likely" be inserted after the word "nature" in sub-clause (i) of sub-section (2a) of the section marked A in clause 14 of the Bill.

The Hon'ble Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari moved that the words "are calculated" be substituted for the words "are likely, in the opinion of the Commissioner of Police," in sub-clause (ii) of sub-section (2a) of the section marked A in clause 14 of the Bill.

He said :—"My reason is that something more than the mere opinion of the Commissioner should be the warrant of procedure that would be adopted under sub-section (2a), and that there should be real and tangible apprehension for the thing 'considered likely to happen.'"

The Hon'ble MR. DUKE said :—

"I cannot advise that the amendment be accepted, because after all the original order must proceed upon the information of the Commissioner and nothing else. It its after all the Commissioner who has to decide in the first instance whether the circumstances are calculated to inflame religious animosity, etc. The objection I take to the words of the amendment is that they lay him open to further dispute and contention as to whether in fact the words or representations or whatever was the subject of the order was so calculated, and I consider it entirely objectionable that any room should be left for such contention. The question is one in which for a temporary purpose the Commissioner of Police has to exercise his judgment, and no possible object could be served by subsequently taking up the matter and enquiring whether his judgment in the case had been correct or not."

The motion was then put and lost.

section A, sub-section (3).

"The Hon'ble Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari moved that sub-section (3) of the section marked A in clause 14 of the Bill be omitted.

He said:—"This sub-section is for the prohibition of any procession or public assembly for the preservation of public peace and safety. This is a very large power—a power which, as a special measure, the Imperial Legislature, after much consideration and great hesitation and to meet very emergent cases, has very recently decided upon, and with safeguards which are supposed and claimed to make it impossible for abuse. For the application of that measure, the sanction of the Imperial Government, in the first place, is necessary. Then the next authority, the Lieutenant-Governor or the Governor of a Province, who is authorized to apply that measure to the province concerned, has also to consider the matter. Then comes the Magistrate or the Collector who is the real and final administrator of that measure on the information of the police. But now all these safeguards will be done away with, and in the place of a very cautious and careful measure that has been adopted as an emergency measure, we shall have an every-day measure which will give the Commissioner of Police an authority to prevent or prohibit processions or public meetings merely if he thinks that that is necessary for the preservation of public peace or public safety. Neither in the Statement of Objects and Reasons nor in anything that we have heard in the Council to-day or in Select Committee or any of the published papers a case of justification for this large measure has been even attempted to be made out. I submit that as a Legislature we are entitled to be satisfied as to the necessity of the measure, and, I submit, that this ought to be omitted. The slight safeguard that there is in the provision that it will be subject to the sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor will not meet with the requirements of the case."

The Hon'ble MR. DUKE said:—

"I am not willing to argue this case at any length. The Hon'ble Member has said that nothing has been said either in the Council or in the Select Committee to show that any such power of prohibiting public meetings, assemblies or processions is necessary. I should be inclined to say on the contrary that the necessity was notorious, and that it perhaps has not been specially brought into prominence during the last year or two, merely because all public meetings have been prohibited in certain places at hours when they are likely to give rise to disturbance; but as to the fact that public meetings held here may under certain circumstances in times of excitement give rise to very severe breaches of the peace, there can, I think, be no doubt, and the power of prohibition ought to rest in the head of the local police. This is a power which must at times be exercised at once; and if it has to be exercised at a short notice, there is no other officer in whom it could be vested but the Commissioner. It could not be vested in the Government, who may be absent from Calcutta and not approachable within a day or two.

"I think it was the Hon'ble Babu Bhupendra Nath Basu who, in his general observations this morning, said that in England in instructions to the Metropolitan police it was expressly laid down that they had no business to interfere with political meetings, and certainly no exception could be taken to a general rule of this kind. It is certainly no part of the position of a subordinate to interfere with political meetings. On the other hand, I may remind the Hon'ble Member of cases in London, perhaps twenty years ago, when the question of the right of public meeting in public streets and squares was brought up, and where the action of the Commissioner of Police was very severely criticised. But the Judge who tried the case held that the Commissioner of Police was absolutely bound by his duty to put a stop to and prevent public meetings from taking place if they are likely to lead to serious breaches of the peace; and if he failed in his duty, he would himself be liable to prosecution."

The Hon'ble Babu BHUPENDRA NATH BASU said:—

"The same amendment also stands in my name. I have nearly said all that I wanted to say on this point in the general observations that I made this morning. I must say that the remarks which fell from the hon'ble mover of this Bill have not convinced me. I can quite appreciate the solicitude of a paternal Government to remove the causes which may tend in any way to interfere with the preservation of public peace or public safety. A child who is never allowed to move about except in carriages will never learn to walk. And if we come to surrender our right of holding public meetings to the judgment of a single individual, however tried he may be, I think we shall very soon come to the state of not having public meetings at all. My hon'ble friend will admit that in this country the condition of things is not the same that prevails in England, where one political party which may be in opposition or may be in a minority may so educate the country that at no distant date it may make its opinions accepted by the country, and it may itself become the Government of the country. Here the position of things is quite different. We have on one side the bureaucratic Government, and on the other we have the people. It is not possible for the people at any time to be the Government. And the only way by which the people can hope to mitigate hardships of any measure of Government is by adopting the only constitutional remedy provided for them. that is by submitting petitions and memorials to the Government—memorials adopted either in public meetings or in Committees or by Associations. The right that has been given to the people not only is beneficial to the people themselves, but I may say is more beneficial to the rulers concerned. Because if they create a Chinese wall between themselves and the people, they will not know what is going on in the minds of the people and the result will be that they will be led into passing measures which in the end may do incalculable mischief to the Government, however powerful it might be. I say, Sir, it is very difficult and dangerous to block the operation or in any way stop the expression of public sentiment or public feeling upon any measure. This sub-section will have that effect. There may be a public measure decided upon by Government, and there may be great opposition to that measure. There may be a tremendous public feeling against that measure, anxious to express itself in public meetings and on public platforms and there may also be a feeling in the minds of those who are entrusted with the carrying out of that measure that this expression of public opinion ought to be stopped. For, gentlemen, I may remind you that it is not unknown in the history of this country that public opinion has been disregarded, and it has been suggested or alleged that that opinion does not reflect the feelings of the people but has been manufactured by wire-pullers. For these reasons I think that it is a great and serious mistake to place in the hands of the police, for their every-day and ordinary work, a power which has been placed, as has been pointed out by my hon'ble friend Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari, by the Government of India in the hands of Local Governments, subject to their own supervision and control, for very special reasons and for a very limited period My friend Mr. Das was pleased to observe earlier in the day that he had not heard of legislation for a temporary period. I may remind him that the Seditious Meetings Act was only enacted for three years; and here we are, because there have been unfortunately cases which have diverted public opinion from the real issue,—cases which we all deplore,—legislating for all time, for a considerable period at least. I say you ought not to legislate from mere panic, and legislate for a considerable time to stop the condition of things which I hope will soon pass away. You must be on your guard as regards that. The bureaucracy cannot be a popular Government in the sense that it reflects popular opinion and every act of repression helps to make it more unpopular. If you stop the expression of public opinion, and if you put the power to do so not under proper control but under the power of your higher Executive officers, who may be moved by prejudice, to whom are we to appeal? Representations from various sources to the subordinate police are oftentimes coloured by prejudice, or oftentimes moved by considerations which would have found no place in a serener atmosphere. That is the issue. The issue is not for three years only, but for a long period of time. It is not often that as the state of things for which the legislation has been introduced disappears, that legislation also disappears. The Deportation Regulation of 1818 is still in our Statute books, though the condition of things for which that regulation was enacted have long passed away. Therefore I say, in the interest of the Government itself and in the interest of the people, stop public meetings for a time, if you please, following the precedent which has been laid down for us by the higher Council. I ask you not to pass this piece of legislation. I warn you, and I say solemnly, that I do believe that you will create a very serious amount of irritation. Have you not got the powers of section 144 of the Code of Criminal Procedure? Have you not, under that, succeeded in stopping meetings in the past, and do you expect that in the future you will not be successful in stopping meetings which ought to be stopped? If the existing law is fully sufficient, why introduce unnecessarily hard legislation for the sake of a state of things which we all hope will soon pass away."

"Sir, the last speaker has made a very vehement speech on this proposed sub-section, but I think that a little consideration will show that many of the expressions which he thought fit to use in this Council were unnecessary and uncalled for in the circumstances of the case. Now, Sir, I think I should be right in saying that a certain amount of declamation was included in his remarks. I do not propose to follow his example, and in the following observations I shall confine myself to the arguments which he brought forward. As far as I understand his argument, it is this that the unhappy state of things which now exists in Calcutta is of a momentary character, that it will soon disappear; and he suggested that this legislation would then be left high and dry, the waves of unrest which now necessitate it disappearing over the horizon. I do not know where the Hon'ble Member obtained the information which would justify this anticipation, but I am bound to say that from such knowledge as I possess of the circumstances of the present time, I am unable to take so hopeful a view of the condition of affairs in Calcutta as the Hon'ble Member has taken. But however that may be, and I am sure that every one of us will rejoice if the Hon'ble Member's anticipation proves correct, how shall we be worse off if this provision of the law is incorporated in the Statute-book, even if the Hon'ble Member is correct? If, as the Hon'ble Member prophesies, the condition of affairs materially improves in the next two or three years, there will be no occasion for the Commissioner of Police to exercise these powers, and how will any individual citizen be prejudiced by the incorporation of these powers in the Statue-book if the Commissioner of Police does not use them?

In another direction the Hon'ble Member has tried to prove rather too much. He has said that the existing law is sufficient on the subject. I think, Sir, that I shall probably have with me the sympathies of most of the Members of this Council if I enter a demurrer to that statement. Is it the case, as a matter of fact, that Calcutta has been free from mischievous meetings? No fair-minded man can assert this, and surely the presumption is that the authorities would have stopped such meetings, if they had had the power to do so. The fact is that the existing law is cumbrous and inefficient, and it is therefore necessary to equip the hands of the Government with power in the shape of this provision of the law, to stop such meetings as may be calculated to cause a breach of public order.

The Hon'ble Member has dilated upon the great hostility which the enactment of this sub-section will produce in Calcutta. I am not prepared to accept this view, as I am not aware that any such hostility has been produced by the anticipation of this legislation. There have been criticisms upon it, but there is nothing published or has been brought to our notice of the degree of hostility with which we have been threatened by the Hon'ble Member. Moreover, Sir, I do not think that this Council will be deterred from doing what is obviously its duty by any such threats. I think, Sir, that the necessity for this special legislation has been adequately proved, and that the Council will find no difficulty in passing it into law, and I hope that they will do so."

The Hon'ble MR. DIP NARAYAN SINGH said:—

"I have just one word to add to what has already been said in supporting the amendment of my hon'ble friend Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari. The Hon'ble Sir Charles Allen has brought forward the argument that because some dangerous meetings have been held in Calcutta, therefore it is necessary that we should have the clause under discussion included in the Bill that we are considering. I, on the contrary, am of opinion, Sir, that several meetings have been stopped recently for fear of public disturbance, which, in the opinion of the public, need never have been stopped at all; and that this fact lends colour to the fear that similar innocent meetings will be interfered with under this clause in the future. All repressive measures, Sir, have generally both good and evil in them. It is for the Members of this Council to weigh the good and the evil therein and give their judgment accordingly. This sub-section, which allows the executive head of the police to stop any public meeting at will, may, I grant, in certain cases, do some good; but, I submit, that the very idea that the citizens' right of holding public meetings is being tampered with will make this clause intensely unpopular. This sub-section, I am sure, will produce a great amount of irritation and, in passing it, you will be laying the foundation for further discontent. I feel I am in duty bound to oppose this sub-section, and I appeal to the Hon'ble Members to support the amendment."

The Hon'ble MR. DAS said :—

"It has been said by my friend the Hon'ble Babu Bhupendra Nath Basu that certain acts of the Indian Viceroy's Council were passed for a short period. I should only draw the attention of the Council to the fact that the Commissioner of Police, the nightmare that frightens everybody, has not the power to stop public meetings for more than seven days. If he acts beyond that, he must have the sanction of the Lieutenant Governor. The Hon'ble Babu Bhupendra Nath Basu and the Hon'ble Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari who have just spoken said that they would certainly support the necessity of putting down meetings, when they tend to bring about an unhealthy state of things. I am sure I am speaking out the feeling of every one, official or non-official, that there have been events which ought not to have found a place in the history of Calcutta.

"The question before us is, what are we to do in the meantime? Of course the police might abuse their authority, the people might also abuse their privilege of having meetings. Now, which is likely to conduce to the good of the people? If two thousand people meet and they cannot make a right use of their privilege—the right of all civilized nations to hold public meetings and give expression to their opinion as is done elsewhere, what is the result? Do they not themselves lose this right? You go to hold a meeting and there you abuse each other or break each other's head. What is the result? There is no meeting, no unanimity and no practical good. We ought to learn and adopt methods which will secure the benefits which public meetings have secured in other countries.

"I cannot hope to come up to that mark of eloquence which I was noticing in the speech of my hon'ble friend Babu Bhupendra Nath Basu, but I yield to none among my countrymen in my wish to enjoy the right of public speech, but then let us not hold meetings so as to place ourselves in such a political situation that the right of speech might be taken from us for ever or might produce results injurious to us."

The Hon'ble MR. SAIYID ALI IMAM said :—

"Sir, in the course of the debate to-day, my hon'ble friend, Babu Bhupendra Nath Basu, spoke rather despairingly of the prospect of India having a Demosthenes. I think the example that we had to-day from him leaves among us, Indians, that hope still very much alive. For, I may point out, that if the eloquent speech which we have heard to-day would be argument enough to give support to the proposition, I feel assured in my mind that this amendment that has been proposed would have been willingly accepted by the Council. But I hold to the view that eloquence, however good a quality it may be, generally, is mostly practised for the art of obtaining the wrong verdict. I think in that way the Hon'ble Babu Bhupendra Nath Basu to-day has certainly surpassed himself, if not in the result, at any rate in the effort. What has been put before the Council to-day? If we take away the element of eloquence, what is there in the shape of strong, substantial, cool, calculated reasoning in the objection that has been put forward to this particular part of the Bill? What has been put forward is this. This is a repressive measure. But is it repressive in the character in which my learned friend's eloquence has attempted to clothe it? I emphatically assert before this Council that it is not. My Hon'ble friend suggested that if this Bill is passed, or if the Council accepts this provision, there will be repression and that discontent would be driven inwards which would be a very deplorable state of things, and in that case I should have withheld my support, but I emphatically say that it will not. The dreaded Commissioner of Police has not been given absolute authority in respect of this matter. The discontent of people, even in Calcutta, I venture to submit, may wait for the small period of seven days to see what is behind or what is beyond it. If the Commissioner of Police wrongly exercises his power, his power can be exercised only for a week, and surely after that time, the natural leaders of the people can approach the Lieutenant-Governor for redress, and ask the intervention of the fountain head of authority for the holding of a meeting of a good quality,—that is all we desire in this country.

"Does the Bill aim at repression of the aspirations of the law-abiding citizens? Certainly not. It aims at the reduction of the chances of spreading discontent that emanates from seditious motives. It attempts to restrict the spread of the poison that has affected the attitude of mind of some of the youthful sections of the public. I ask the Council and Hon'ble Members whether or not the freedom to hold public meetings and processions has not been abused in the past. I ask are there not indications that such a freedom will be abused in the future. Has not Beadon Square oratory much to account for the difficulties of the present situation in Bengal? I as an Indian have to hang my head down in shame that I should ask for the deprivation of the right of the people to hold public meetings and processions without let or hindrance. But every lover of India will agree with me, demanding as I am measures to restrain the public from abusing the privileges and prerogatives, that true citizenship should always guard against falling into the hands of agitators and unscrupulous demagogues. As has been wisely pointed out by the Hon'ble Member on my left (Mr. Das), we are face to face with this problem. So long as we have no assurance as to the future in the interest of India we must curtail the popular freedom. Sir, under the circumstances, I cannot give my support to the amendment."

"The Hon'ble Babu Bhupendra Nath Basu says:—Sub-clauses (2, (2*a*) and (3) of section A in clause 14 of the Bill give 'the police power in regard to the rights of the public to hold meetings and processions which may lead to a practical denial of such rights. The clauses give the police powers to stop processions, meetings, speeches, public utterances of cries, singing of songs and playing of music, in fact they clothe the police with power to stop every variety of public demonstration. Apart from the unwisdom of such a drastic provision, it is a serious invasion on liberty of speech and on the right to hold public meetings.' Like an able Counsel he has shown one side of the picture. Reading the above one feels shocked. He feels he is doing a very wrong act—an act of a heinous social crime, that of interfering with the individual liberties of his countrymen. But gentlemen of the Council will please place before them the other side of the picture also. The loss of the lives of two innocent ladies at Muzaffarpur, causing a life-long domestic gloom in a family, the attempt at the lives of an admittedly ideal Viceroy, and a good-natured, kind-hearted Lieutenant-Governor, the murder of a popular District Officer, the murder of two men doing their official duty, the issue of seditious pamphlets and a deliberate attempt to overthrow the Government, and at least to embarass it, to intimidate persons in the discharge of their legitimate duties and in the expression of their honest, independent opinions, makes one's blood boil. How, gentlemen of the Council, I ask you in all seriousness, will you feel when you place this side of the picture before your mental eyes, and seriously ask the question: 'what is the Government to do under the circumstances—what you yourselves as good citizens ought to do?' I leave the matter to you. Think, consider and decide whether you are to strengthen the hands of Government in knocking that conspiracy on the head, of which one of the outward manifestations were the commission of the foul deeds above referred to. I simply of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales All this may require the closing of a particular street or public place, and the Commissioner of Police is usually the official to arrange all this. He requires power under the Act to enable him to set aside certain streets and to make certain rules and regulations, for which the provisions of this sub-section are necessary."

The Hon'ble BABU BHUPENDRA NATH BASU said :—

"Having regard to the observations of my hon'ble friend the Commissioner of Police, I beg to withdraw the amendment."

The Motion was, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

Section A, sub-section (5).

The following Motions were, by leave of the President, withdrawn :—

63. The Hon'ble Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari to move that the word "fifty" be substituted for the words "one hundred" in line 3 of sub-clause (i) of sub section (5) of the section marked A in clause 14 of the Bill.

64. The Hon'ble Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari to move that the words "to imprisonment, with or without hard labour, for a term which may extend to one month, or" and the words "or to both" be omitted from sub-clause (ii) of sub-section (5) of the section marked A in clause 14 of the Bill.

65. If Motion No. 62 be carried, the Hon'ble Babu Bhupendra Nath Basu to move that the words "or sub-section (4)" in sub-clause (i) of sub-section (5) of the section marked A in clause 14 of the Bill be omitted.

66. If Motion No. 59 be carried, the Hon'ble Babu Bhupendra Nath Basu to move that the words "or sub-section (2a)" be substituted for the words "sub-section (2a) or sub-section (3)," in sub-clause (ii) of sub-section (5) of the section marked A in clause 14 of the Bill.

Section B.

The following Motion was, by leave of the President, withdrawn :—

67. If Motion No. 59 or Motion No. 62 be carried, the Hon'ble Babu Bhupendra Nath Basu to move that the necessary consequential amendments be made in the section marked B in clause 14 of the Bill.

Section C, sub section (1).

The Hon'ble Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari moved that the words "serious disorder or" be omitted from lines 1 and 2 of the section marked C in clause 14 of the Bill.

He said :—"If this is done, police interference will be limited to where there is real danger. The question of order, Sir, arises in many assemblies, including this and the Imperial Legislature. And sometimes we are apt to get disorderly—and sometimes seriously disorderly. If an official comes in in the shape of the local policeman, while a meeting is in progress and is getting a little lively without exactly getting out of hand, it would be considered as a serious interference. Of course when there is danger, the same observations do not apply. What is serious disorder or not, may depend upon different points of view. A meeting may be noisy and loud, and therefore may appear to be disorderly to the police, while it is really not so. Disorderliness is not necessarily an appendage of political meetings only. Religious meetings and meetings of worthy and reverend pundits, and even examiners' meetings have sometimes been known and reported to be so disorderly that free use of invectives have been known. It would be a pity to allow the police to interfere in matters like these, and I do not think that is the intention of the framers of this section that that should be done. An official chairman in the shape of the interfering policeman—a sort of a second Richmond in the field—would be intolerable and undesirable. I therefore move, Sir, that these words be omitted."

The Hon'ble SIR CHARLES ALLEN said :—

"I do not think that the Hon'ble Member has fully appreciated the gravity of the phrase 'serious disorder.' Serious disorder means something of a serious nature which causes a breach of the peace. The Hon'ble Member seems to think that what is referred to is merely a breach of the rules of business. I am sure that he does not mean that he would like meetings to break up in serious disorder with the Commissioner of Police unable to stop this disorder. This may be the result if his amendment is carried. I would suggest to him in the light of these remarks that he would do well to withdraw this amendment."

The Hon'ble BABU DEBA PRASAD SARBADHIKARI said :—

"When there is real and serious disorder likely to lead to a breach of the peace I have no objection to the police interfering. But merely for the purpose of 'preventing' serious disorders which may mean anything, and in the name of keeping order the police ought not to have the power of entry or interference. Of course if the disorder is imminent, then the question of interference may arise even if the organisers do not call in police aid. But things cannot be anticipated; disorder may arise by the very police interference which seeks to prevent. I did not mean to object to this clause with regard to only technical points of order. I have known cases where real disorders have arisen and have disappeared of their own accord. My hon'ble friend Babu Bhupendra Nath Basu knows even of social meetings, the Kayastha Samaj meetings and such like gatherings where disorders have been very serious, but have very peacefully settled down. Therefore unless disorder is imminent and serious, police interference ought not to come. If people who organise meetings and cannot keep order and if they require police assistance they ought to have it. Organisers of meetings by their action make themselves responsible for keeping the peace and they ought to be trusted and allowed to do so in their own way."

The PRESIDENT said :—

"Does the Hon'ble Member really desire that, if there were serious disorder, the police would have no power to interfere? That would be the effect of the amendment of the Hon'ble Member."

The Hon'ble BABU DEBA PRASAD SARBADHIKARI said :—

"I have considered the matter carefully, and I would be prepared to concede."

The Motion was then, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

The Hon'ble Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari moved that the words "or imminent" be inserted after the word "serious" in line 1 of the section marked C in clause 14 of the Bill.

He said :—

"In moving this I have the high authority of Sir Charles Allen in my favour. Sir Charles Allen has conceded that we ought not quietly to stand aside while serious disorder is 'imminent' and I would not like to quarrel with this proposition. But I would like to allow interference if such disorder was not imminent and that is what my amendment seeks to provide, and if the disorder be not really serious police interference ought not to be allowed. I go with my hon'ble friend to the extent that he thus claims and I ask that the words 'or imminent' may be added."

The Hon'ble MR. DUKE said :—

"I fear that I am not able to understand the use of the word here; as far as I see nothing would be gained by importing the word 'imminent.' For if the disorder is already serious, it is surely more than imminent."

The Hon'ble BABU DEBA PRASAD SARBADHIKARI said:—

"I should like to say, Sir, that what the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill has said has strengthened my position. If we were called upon to provide against breach of the peace I should have nothing to say against the clause. But as it is, the clause gives great power in the hands of inspectors or sub-inspectors of police. The recent history of public meetings in England shows that there are things that would not weigh with the authorities there and if very much less than that is aimed at here it would be really regrettable and undue interference with public liberty. Therefore we ought to be very careful as to how we allow this. The Chief Secretary does not seem to be inclined to stop mere 'cat calls' and 'howlings' but they may appear very offensive to the delicate police ears and may amount to disorderliness warranting and demanding interference. It is a pity and regret that public meetings and public places of amusement have all been mixed up under one and the same category which weakens our position. What may be allowable, may be necessary in the case of the latter and may be inexpedient and undesirable in the former case. The two situations ought to be differentiated and suitably treated."

The Motion was then put and lost.

The following motions were, by leave of the President, withdrawn:—

70. The Hon'ble Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari to move that the words "or at any assembly or meeting to which the public are invited or which is open to the public" be omitted from lines 4 to 6 of the section marked C in clause 14 of the Bill.

71. If Motion No. 70 be not carried, the Hon'ble Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari to move that the words "to which the public have access without special invitation or without cards" be substituted for the words "to which the public are invited or which is open to the public" in lines 5 and 6 of the section marked C in clause 14 of the Bill.

72. The Hon'ble Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari to move that the words "not below the rank of Inspector" be substituted for the words "superior to that of Head Constable" in lines 7 and 8 of the section marked C in clause 14 of the Bill.

73. The Hon'ble Babu Bal Krishna Sahai to move that the words "superior to that of Sub-Inspector" be substituted for the words "superior to that of Head Constable", in lines 7 and 8 of the section marked C in clause 14 of the Bill.

The Hon'ble Babu Bhupendra Nath Basu moved that the words "not below the rank of Sub-Inspector" be substituted for the words "superior to that of Head Constable", in lines 7 and 8 of the section marked C in clause 14 of the Bill.
He said:—

"Would it not be possible to substitute the words "not below the rank of sub-Inspector"? I appeal to the Hon'ble Member in charge not to entrust so much power in the hands of the subordinate police officers. As regards places of public assembly it would be safeguarding the interest of public peace if the police officer in charge is not below the rank of Sub-Inspector."

The Hon'ble MR. HALLIDAY said:—

"The intention of this clause is to enable the European sergeants of police to act on occasions. They are above the rank of head constable, but below that of sub-inspector, and I think that in Calcutta where they are very largely used in theatres and places of public amusement and entertainment they should be given the power to intervene."

The Hon'ble BABU BHUPENDRA NATH BASU said:—

"But if you give powers to the police officers not below the rank of Sub-Inspector would he not be able to employ European sergeants? He would have to be assisted by other policemen under him. All that I was aiming at was that the sergeants or whoever they may be, should act under an officer not below the rank of Sub-Inspector."

The Motion was then, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

section C, sub-section (2).

The Hon'ble Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari moved that the words "whenever it becomes necessary to do so" be added at the end of sub-section (2) of the section marked C in clause 14 of the Bill.

He said:—

"This amendment, Sir, really follows up what I have been trying to explain to the Council in connection with C (1) and I hope it will be accepted because this interference ought not to begin before there has been made out a clear case for such interference. Unduly 'previous' appearance and interference of the police aggravates the situation that might have improved if left to itself, for things settle down quick enough if left alone where ordinary disorderliness is all that troubles a meeting. A zealous police officer armed with powers like these, rushing in may oftener than not make the posture of affairs acute and impossible. Great restraint has therefore to be exercised."

THE HON'BLE MR. DUKE said:—

"I do not think that the words which it is proposed to add to the rule supply anything to the meaning. The police should have free access for the purpose of giving effect to the provisions of the sub-section. That I take it means that there must be some reasonable prospect of carrying out that purpose; if so, it seems to me that the words are somewhat superfluous."

The Motion was then, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

Clauses 16 and 17.

The following Motion was, by leave of the President, withdrawn:—

76. The Hon'ble Babu Bal Krishna Sahai to move that the words "not below the rank of Sub-Inspector" be inserted after the words "any Police-officer" in line 6 of clauses 16 and 17 of the Bill.

The Hon'ble Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari moved that the following be added to the section in clause 21 of the Bill, namely:—

or shall be dealt with in such other manner as may be provided in the said warrant.

He said:—

"Here at all events I ought to be able to score. What I ask for is, that when a search-warrant like that rightly provided here is executed, the person found should not be uniformly taken before the Magistrate. In the Statement of Objects and Reasons reference is made to a case of females whose case may be reported at night to the Commissioner and whose immediate release may be necessary. There is another class of cases which has happened frequently of late and that is where angry fathers or annoyed husbands have applied for the production of their wives or daughters and the warrants have had to be executed with humiliating results, that the demented parties could never have bargained for That a pardanashin lady according to the terms of the warrant that seeks her good in the shape of liberation from undesirable custody, must be taken before the Magistrate when the search warrant is executed, would in some cases be perfectly intolerable. I am aware of cases like these in respectable families in which there has been great difficulty and in one case that I can recall to mind a respectable and well placed father whom his worthless son-in-law was hounding out of spite had to get influential people to go and see the authorities to save the family from humiliation. Ladies of respectable families should not be taken before the Magistrate under such circumstances unless there be reason to do so. The cure would be worse than the disease and when all is said and done the party applying for the warrant and seeking his ward's liberation is truly sorry that he ever moved. It is really for her benefit that the search takes place. It will disgrace the family in the eyes of society and the results would be very deplorable indeed. There may be of course cases in which the object of the search ought to be taken before the Magistrate. But there are cases also where they ought not to be. I therefore move that the words 'or shall be dealt with in such other manner as may be provided in the said warrant' may be added to this section. If it is a case for taking before the Magistrate, the party concerned will be taken before the Magistrate. But the Magistrate or the Commissioner in the special circumstances of the case ought to have the power and discretion to direct release or detention of the person or of such other treatment as in the special circumstances of the case may appear to be fitting. If this is done it would not hamper or harm the search and would not be considered as an act of regrettable interference."

The Hon'ble MR. HALLIDAY said :—

"I fear, Sir, that if the suggestion made by the Hon'ble Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari, were followed, greater hardship would result in a greater number of cases than in those he contemplates. I think it would be a dangerous procedure for a Magistrate or myself to be able to direct on a warrant that A should be taken from the custody of B and made over to C without having seen that person at all."

The Motion was then, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

Clause 22.

The following Motion was, by leave of the President, withdrawn, namely :—

78. The Hon'ble Babu Bal Krishna Sahai to move that the words "not below the rank of Inspector" be inserted after the words "in the town of Calcutta," in lines 2 and 5 of the section in clause 22 of the Bill.

Clause 22A.

The following Motions were, by leave of the President, withdrawn, namely :—

79. The Hon'ble Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari to move that after the words "respectable persons", in line 3 of sub-section (1) in clause 22A of the Bill, the following be inserted, namely :—

of the locality in which the place to be searched is situated.

80. The Hon'ble Rai Shiba Shankar Sahai Bahadur to move that after the words "respectable persons", in line 3 of sub-section (1) in clause 22A of the Bill, the following be inserted, namely :—

of the locality in which the place to be searched is situated.

The Hon'ble BABU DEBA PRASAD SARBADHIKARI said :—

"I wish to withdraw this amendment having regard to what the Hon'ble Mr. Halliday told me, that there are sometimes difficulties in getting search witnesses and the search might be indefinitely postponed if what I ask for were to be insisted on, namely, that the search witnesses should be respectable people of the neighbourhood. It is suggested that respectable neighbours are often averse to get themselves mixed up in these matters and the police are obliged to make what arrangements they can."

The Hon'ble Babu Bal Krishna Sahai moved that after the words "respectable persons", in line 3 of sub-section (1) in clause 22A of the Bill, the following be inserted, namely :—

other than Police-officers.

He said :—

"What is intended by the amendment is that respectable persons other than Police officers should be taken as witnesses. I think it is a mere omission."

The Hon'ble MR. DUKE said :—

"I submit, Sir, that the Council would make itself ridiculous by accepting this amendment. At present there is no law in Calcutta which requires police witnesses to be taken to searches at all. But the police take them to protect themselves, and to obtain the confidence of the Courts in their searches. I do not suppose there is a single instance of a Police officer being quite so mad as to produce another Police officer as a witness to a search. I think the Hon'ble Member should withdraw the amendment."

The PRESIDENT said :—

Does the Hon'ble Member wish to press his amendment ?

The Hon'ble BABU BAL KRISHNA SAHAI said :—

"There is no harm in making the clause as clear as possible."

The Motion was then put and lost.

The Hon'ble Babu Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari moved that after sub-section (3), in clause 22A of the Bill, the following be inserted :—

(4) When a search is to be made on any premises between sunset and sunrise,—

(a) the officer making the search shall see that proper and adequate arrangements are made for lighting up the premises before the search is commenced, and

(b) the search shall be made by an officer not below the rank of Inspector, and in the presence of not less than three respectable persons, one at least of whom must be approved by the occupant of the premises.

He said :—

"Here, Sir, I plead for a little light and I take it as rather a good omen that the Council Chamber has just now been beautifully lit up. Sufficient lighting arrangements are I think necessary when a search takes place at night. In the present circumstances, I think it is necessary to have one or two protections of the kind I venture to suggest. There have been complaints that the subordinate police have sometimes conducted themselves in connection with searches in a way which the persons affected have not quite appreciated though in most cases searches have been conducted with courtesy and consideration and without much cause of grievance or complaint. Of course these grievances will always be, but if a night search takes place and proper arrangements for lighting are not made the grievances will be more frequent. And I ask that the number of witnesses should not be less than three and one of these at least should be approved by the persons most affected, though I have given up the provision about respectable witnesses of the neighbourhood. With these precautions and safeguards the night searches may be less objectionable."

The Hon'ble MR. DUKE said :—

"I sympathise entirely with the view of the Hon'ble Member in desiring such precautions; but I think if he will consider the matter, he will agree with me that it is really impossible to introduce them into the substantive law.

The first thing that an officer should desire in conducting a search is good lighting, so that his search may be thorough, and that he may not overlook anything or not be deceived in any way; and when he comes to produce the results of his search in Court, if it is proved that he searched without sufficient light, and that it was possible for his men or for other persons to introduce articles into the house owing to the darkness, his search will have a very poor chance of satisfying the Court, and will probably be noticed as having been ill-conducted. That a Police officer should try to get the best light he can for the success of his own work, is only natural, but to lay it down in the law that he must provide light is another matter altogether. Night-searches are always more or less emergent searches, and they must be carried out as best they can at the time. If an electric installation is not available, the officer may have to do the best he can with candles or whatever may be on the spot, and it is impossible to introduce into the law a provision which might result in the search not being carried out or in its being delayed, until fatal mischief has been done. For these reasons, I cannot accept the provision."

The Motion was then put and lost.

Clause 4.

The Hon'ble Mr. Duke moved that the words "every public building and monument and the precincts thereof" be substituted for the words "the precincts of every public building or monument" in the definition of "public place" in clause 4 of the Bill.

He said :—

"Sir, before moving the next motion which stands in my name that the Secretary be directed to renumber the clauses, etc., I wish with your permission to move a small amendment of form. That the words 'every public building and monument and the precincts thereof' be substituted for the words 'the precincts of every public building or monument' in the definition of public place in clause 4 of the Bill. The matter is purely formal, and the only object is that exactly the same wording may be used in clause 14, first section, sub-clause (f), and in clause 14, section A (1) (e), that is to say in sections 62 and 62 A of the Act."

The PRESIDENT said :—

"The amendment proposed is consequential and one of form only."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Duke moved that the Secretary be directed to re-number the clauses and sub-clauses of the Bill in consecutive order, and to make corresponding alterations in all cross-references thereto.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Duke moved that the Bill, as settled in Council, be passed.

He said :

"Sir, So much has been said about the Bill, that I propose to say no more upon the general merits of the subject; but I desire to congratulate the Council on the fact that this measure which has been under consideration for over eight months has at last been brought to a successful conclusion. Throughout it has received the greatest attention and excited much interest, and I think it has been passed in a form in which it will be a useful addition to the statute-book. Particularly, I would congratulate the Council on the care and attention which have been given to the provisions of the Bill in the debate to-day, and on the spirit in which that debate has been carried on."

The Hon'ble MR. APCAR said:—

"I have not taken an active part in the discussion generally, or any of the provisions of the Bill, because I felt the manner in which the honourable member the Chief Secretary had met my proposals had made it unnecessary for me to intervene in these debates to-day, and I have been reluctant to occupy the time of the Council without a specific object in view. But there is one point, about which I desire to ask Your Honour whether I shall be in order, if I refer to it. Your Honour has been informed that the point would be raised. The Hon'ble the Standing Counsel said in one of his speeches that he would deal with the question of the constitution of the Council, but he has not pursued the subject. The matter is of considerble importance, and, I think, attention should be drawn to it, because, if the Council is not properly constituted, it would not have authority as a Legislature to make laws. I refer to the omission to appoint the Advocate-General as a Member of the Bengal Council.

The PRESIDENT said:—

"That matter which the Hon'ble Member was good enough to mention to me privately before the meeting of the Council, does not arise out of the Motion which is before the Council. I am therefore unable to agree that it is in order."

The Hon'ble the MAHARAJ-KUMAR GOPAL SARAN NARAYAN SINGH said:—

"Your Honour,—This Bill has been before the Council since last year. The country is to no small extent indebted to Your Honour for having allowed it to stand over until the Council had been enlarged and reconstituted. On the formation of the new Council the Bill was entrusted to a new sub-committee, and it is the report of the second sub-committee that we are considering to-day. Thus the Bill has been before the country for a considerable period of time and has received a full measure of consideration from all quarters.

"My Hon'ble friend, the Member for the University, has appended to the Report a Note of Dissent of rather portentious dimensions. As becomes the erudite constituency he represents, he raises high questions of jurisprudence which are extremely interesting and which I have no doubt will prove useful, but which to a lay mind present a somewhat curious resemblance to some of the learned disquisitions of the philosophers of the school of Nayaya as to whether fire was the cause of smoke or smoke the cause of fire.

"The Hon'ble Babu Bhupendra Nath Basu notes that with the omission of what was called the indemnity clause, and the insertion of section C, clause 6, two of the most objectionable features of the Bill have been removed. But he is solicitous specially for the ignorant people from the mufassal who may enter private or public buildings and thus get into the clutches of the law. I have not the advantage of being a lawyer like my Hon'ble friend, but as a mere mufassal man I venture to point out that even an ignorant mufassal man is generally able to give a satisfactory account of why he goes to any place; anyhow such is the case in Bihar.

"My Hon'ble friend is further afraid that the provisions of the Bill amount to a denial of the right of public meeting. This is a very grave matter, and I deeply sympathize with my friend's forebodings, but my fear is that a situation of an exceptional character has been created by what has been happening of late in our midst, and I cannot withhold my support of this part of the Bill. The Government, I am sure, will withdraw the measure as soon as the necessity for it does not any more exist.

"Turning to the Report itself, I beg to offer my congratulations to the Hon'ble Members of the sub-committee who have taken such pains over this Bill on the happy termination of their labours. They have presented to us an almost an unexceptionable report of an intricate and momentous measure. In their Report they have embodied to no small extent such part of the public criticism of the measure as was really relevant and not unsuited to the occasion.

"The Bill, to me, seems to be meant to carry out work of a twofold nature, namely (1) to meet the present ferment and (2) to carry out the ordinary police administration of the metropolis and its ever-increasing suburbs. The amendments that have been moved in this Council to day mostly refer to the former part of the measure, and in this matter I beg to remind my Hon'ble friends of the unusual situation which exists and which, I am certain, they deplore as much as the Government. The Government propose this measure as their contribution to the solution of the problem. There may be doubts as to its efficiency. But we need not condemn the measure before it has had a fair trial.

"Some of the amendments proposed by the Hon'ble Members are of the nature of making explicit the intentions of the Government, and these, I feel certain, have received favourable consideration. As to the others which aim at changing the whole nature and scope of the measure, I trust my Hon'ble friends are not surprised that treatment other than favourable has been meted out to them. The times are exceptional, and the remedy has to be sharp and drastic. But with a ruler so sympathetic to our hopes and aspirations as your Honour is, I have no hesitation in recommending this Bill to the acceptance of my Hon'ble friends."

"I have had the misfortune of having made myself responsible for much of the delay and length of procedure that has attended the passing of this measure: and I naturally feel some hesitation in speaking at this late hour of the day, or more correctly speaking of the night. Moreover, I feel sore and bruised like one who has lost heavily in the fray. But triumphs and defeats are alike in the day's work and one must take them both as they come. Now, Sir, that the affray is over, I feel it my duty to respond as I readily respond to what the Hon'ble Member in charge has said in acknowledging the spirit in which the combat here and in the Select Committee has been carried on. In making that acknowledgment we have also to acknowledge as I acknowledged this morning that we had nothing but courtesy and consideration all along. I have had the satisfaction of scoring an important point to which it would not be right to refer with exultation considering the way in which the Hon'ble Member in charge has chosen to put it and considering also that he and other official Members have been good enough to befriend us here without which we could not possibly have succeeded. That we have not scored more heavily is not due again to the official Members alone. Amongst ourselves, the non-official Members, we have differed much. I do not regret it and to-day's proceedings have been an object lesson that will be alike puzzling and instructive. With regard to many matters that I was pressing on the Council I flattered myself that I was voicing public opinion and I never thought my horizon was so circumscribed as the event has proved. The assembled representative of the province have seen fit to vote in a way that must dispel many an old illusion and we must rearrange ideas, take fresh bearings of the situation and marshal our forces and organise our resources anew. Mutual consideration has fortunately been a marked feature during the debate of the first contested measure that has come before this Council, and there has been no non-official combination, such as might be said to affect the new reform scheme prejudicially, which may be considered to be satisfactory so far. Our loss has been due to causes that cannot be attributed to official Members and if we are sadder we are wiser as well. We have taken much from the Bombay Act in the new Police Bill and I may remind the Council that on the very same day that the Bombay Act received the assent of the Governor General in Council was also appointed the Police Commission. We can only hope that the passing of this Bill will also be the signal for more real police reform. Some strange coincidences strike me. It is remarkable that this Bill should be passed just on the eve of the departure of the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bombay Bill for England. By a strange coincidence too which I have been unsuccessfully trying to fathom and explain, the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill and the Hon'ble the Police Commissioner who has been associated with him in the passage of this Bill are both on the eve of their departure to enjoy a well-earned rest. The Member in charge of the Bombay Bill was felicitated by his non-official colleagues on the Bombay Council on the manner in which he had done his work and I do not think we can do any less. I also take this opportunity of expressing my appreciation for the good feeling, consideration and courtesy that have been shown to us throughout and we wish them a happy voyage home and a safe return."

The Hon'ble KHAN BAHADUR MAULVI SARFARAZ HUSAIN KHAN said :—

"At the conclusion of the debate to-day I rise to support the motion of the Hon'ble member in charge of the Bill that the Bill as settled by the Council be passed.

"Far be it from me to wish or to attempt to stifle individual liberty or to aim at retarding the development of the national life of the Indians, and I will be a traitor to my country if I so desire. But the present political condition is such that I have to accord my support to the Bill not with the view of causing hardship to any individual or community or to give offence to any section of my countrymen or to hurt the feelings or wound the susceptibilities of anybody, but with the object of serving the interests of the people, in the interets of peace, progress and law, and from the deep conviction that when the Bill will be passed into law it will vest such power in the executive as will enable them to deal successfully with the situation.

The reasons for my supporting the Bill are—

(1) In 1866, when the Calcutta Police Act was passsd, there was no unrest and political conspiracy. Now we have political crimes of a most heinous character committed, and the Acts and measures of Government are subjected to hostile criticism both from the plat-form and the press.

(2) No Government can work without power to back it.

(3) Maliciously inclined people will feel discouraged only when they are in constant fear of being arrested and their attempts foiled.

(4) Owing to the acts of violence that have unfortunately created the unpleasant situation that has been condemned throughout India from one corner of it to the other and by all sections of the Indian community, it is just and fair now to give increased powers to the Police which they want to enable them to root out conspiracy which is a source of public danger.

(5) The exigencies of the time are such that the Hon'ble Mr. Gokhale had to support the Press Act, however objectionable it had been to him.

(6) I have a deep conviction of the truth in the saying of the Persian adage :—

The Hon'ble MR. SAIYID ALI IMAM said :—

"I wish to say a word by way of personal explanation with reference to what has fallen from the Hon'ble Babu Bhupendra Nath Basu, who has considerable experience of the history of this Council. He drew pointed attention to the fact that the Legal Member of this Council who was before me, the Advocate-General, did not enter into discussion of questions of policy, but absolutely limited himself to his own work, i.e., the legal aspect of the questions taken up. I may be allowed to submit to the Council that by virtue of my position I have taken part in the political discussion to-day because I did not know that there was any such restriction imposed upon me, and that when I accepted my office I did it with the knowledge that I was in no way restricted in my privilege to take part in the discussions that take place apart from any questions that may from time to time arise of a purely legal character."

The Hon'ble BABU BHUPENDRA NATH BASU said :—

"I wish to speak a few words in connection with a reference that I made. I do not think that there is any statutory provision prohibiting the Advocate-General or the Standing Counsel from taking part in the debates of this Council. Formerly the Legal Member did not as a rule take part in the debate ; and I only mentioned that there was a departure from the established custom. I did not mean to make any reflection on the Hon'ble Member ; if what I said was taken in that sense I withdraw unreservedly. As regards the Bill itself, I associate with my friend Mr. Sarbadhikari in acknowledging our gratitude, our warmest gratitude, to the official Members for the consideration that they have shown us both here and in the Select Committee ; and if we have been defeated I take that defeat as cheerfully as I would have taken a victory. Right and justice must in the end triumph and that is the hope of the Indian reformer."

The PRESIDENT said:—

"Gentlemen, I desire to compliment the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill on the success with which he has conducted the discussion and also on the approaching completion of his labours. I desire also to associate myself with everything that fell from him when he congratulated the Hon'ble Members of Council, both non-official and official, on the spirit with which they had conducted this somewhat lengthy debate. In particular I should like to express my acknowledgments of the kindly remarks which have fallen from the Hon'ble Babu Bhupendra Nath Basu and the Hon'ble Member for the University. It is on these gentlemen that the brunt of the opposition has fallen, and I am sure that the official Members of Government could have wished no opponents more worthy of their steel. The proceedings have been enlivened by a little sparring between the Hon'ble Member for the University and Hon'ble the Standing Counsel ; but this has always been conducted in the most friendly spirit possible, and I think it may be welcomed as affording an answer to the charge which is sometimes brought against us, that our proceedings are inclined to be dull. Notwithstanding the large number of amendments which were tabled most of which I am glad to say the Council have not been able to accept, I think we may take it that the Bill has passed the Council with virtual unanimity. At first I was going to say that there was an exception to the general unanimity on one point, viz., in regard to the clause which empowers the Commissioner to prohibit public meetings. But I then remembered that we had taken a division on that clause, and that only 5 Hon'ble Members. out of a total of 41 were in favour of omitting it, while no less than 36 members, or more than seven times as many voted in favour of giving the power. Therefore, it may fairly be claimed that this clause forms no exception to the general unanimity with which the Bill has been accepted. I hope that the Bill will prove a practical success in the police administration of the town and the suburbs and I feel quite certain that the apprehensions which were expressed some months ago regarding it will prove in practice to have no foundation whatever.

The Motion was then put and agreed to.

The Council was then adjourned to Monday, the 5th April, 1910, at 11 A.M.

THE BENGAL CESS (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1910.

The Hon'ble Mr. Slacke moved that the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill further to amend the Cess Act, 1880, be taken into consideration.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Slacke moved that the clauses of the Bill be considered in the form recommended by the Select Committee.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

New clause 3A.

The following Motion was, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

87. The Hon'ble Maulvi Saiyid Muhammad Fakr-ud-din to move that the following clause be inserted in the Bill, namely :—

3A. In sections 12 and 13 of the said Act, for the words "five years" the words "ten years" shall be substituted.

Amendment of sections 12 and 13.

The Hon'ble Maulvi Saiyid Muhammad Fakr-ud-din said :—

"Sir,—The amendment of these sections do not form the subject-matter of the present Bill; but as the Cess Act itself was under consideration, I thought it better to propose the amendment of these two sections as the practical experience of our part of the Province showed that a revaluation used to take place after 10 years. Since I proposed these amendments, I have consulted some of my hon'ble colleagues and especially the Hon'ble Rai Shiba Shankar Sahai Bahadur, who has given me to understand that there are some jungly tracts in the Sonthal Parganas and the Bhagalpur and Chota Nagpur Divisions where the lands are settled temporarily for five years on a nominal rent which increases after five years, and that there will be loss of revenue to the Road Cess Fund if the term is changed into ten years. In these circumstances, I think it would be wiser on my part to withdraw this amendment."

Clause 5.

The following Motion was, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

88. The Hon'ble Babu Bal Krishna Sahai to move that clause 5 of the Bill be omitted.

Clause 6.

The Hon'ble MAULVI SAIYID MUHAMMAD FAKR-UD-DIN moved that the following be added to section 22 in clause 6 of the Bill, namely:—

> Provided that no such action shall be taken without giving notice to the person who made the return and allowing him an opportunity to prove that the return is not false.

He said:—

"This amendment seems rather important. Hitherto the Collector had power to make a re-valuation of his own in cases where false returns were filed. But he could only do this after securing a conviction under section 94. I submit that the amendment is not only necessary in the interests of the Road Cess Fund and the landlords but also in the interests of public policy. Section 22 as now proposed gives power to the Collector to determine the valuation whenever he is satisfied that the return is false, but unfortunately there is no provision laid down in the proposed section to give the maker of the return an opportunity of proving that the return is not false, or that the return is not incorrect or untrue.

"Under section 94 of the Cess Act there was a guarantee for a judicial opinion as to the truth or otherwise of a return filed by the landlord. But now under section 22 of the Act the landlord has to bow down to the ex parte declaration made by the Collector that the return is false. It may be contended that the landlord will have a right to prefer an appeal against the valuation made by the Collector, but there is no appeal provided against the declaration made by the Collector, and, moreover, the appellate authority will have no materials on the record to determine in favour of the landlord.

"Sir, it is but fair that the maker of the return be given an opportunity of showing that the return filed by him is not false. Hence I propose that the amendment suggested by me should be accepted by the Council."

The Hon'ble MR. SLACKE said:—

"I am prepared to accept the amendment provided the Hon'ble Member is willing that in lieu of the word 'false' the words 'incorrect or untrue' be substituted, these being the words that are used in the draft itself."

The Motion was then put, with the substitution of the words "untrue or incorrect" for the word "false" and was agreed to.

The following Motions were, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

Clause 7:—

section 37A.

90. The Hon'ble Babu Bal Krishna Sahai to move that the words "the Board of Revenue may, if they think fit, order that" in lines 2, 3 and 4 of section 37A, in clause 7 of the Bill, be omitted.

91. The Hon'ble Maulvi Saiyid Muhammad Fakr-ud-din to move that the following be added after the proviso to section 37A (2) in clause 7 of the Bill, namely: — section 37C.

Provided that the levying of the cesses under a valuation roll prepared by the Settlement Officer shall not take effect till the valuation roll has become final.

The following Motion was, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

92. The Hon'ble Babu Bal Krishna Sahai to move that the following be added to section 37C in clause 7 of the Bill, namely:—

Where a record-of-rights has already been prepared, the valuation-roll shall, in the case referred to in clause (a) of this section, be corrected by the Settlement Officer according to the income shown in the record-of-rights.

section 37G.

The following Motions were, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

93. The Hon'ble Maulvi Saiyid Muhammad Fakr-ud-din to move that the words "sixty days" be substituted for the words "one month" in section 37G (2, in clause 7 of the Bill.

94. The Hon'ble Babu Bal Krishna Sahai, to move that the words "the Collector and then a second appeal to the Commissioner" be substituted for the words "such authority as the Local Government may, by rule, prescribe," at the end of section 37G (2) in clause 7 of the Bill.

95. The Hon'ble Babu Bal Krishna Sahai to move that the words "the Board of Revenue" and "them", respectively, be substituted for the words "Commissioner" and "him" in section 37G (3) in clause 7 of the Bill.

new section 37J.

The Hon'ble Maulvi Saiyid Muhammad Fakr-ud-din moved that the following be inserted after section 371 in clause 7 of the Bill, namely:—

37J. Every valuation roll finally prepared and adopted under this Chapter shall, in all proceedings between landlord and tenant, be evidence of the matters referred to therein, and shall be presumed to be correct until the contrary be proved.

Effect of valuation roll.

He said—

"In the new section 37C, sub-clause (b), as it stood before the amendment made by the Select Committee, it was provided that the valuation of bhaoli lands was to be determined by the Settlement Officers either by inquiry or by local inspection, or such other means as the Board of Revenue may prescribe in that behalf. The Bihar Landholders' Association suggested that after the word 'inquiry' the words 'from holders of estates and tenures' be added. But I find that instead of adding these words the Select Committee have omitted even the words 'inquiry or local inspection.' We have now to depend upon the rules which are yet to be framed by the Board of Revenue for the determination of the annual value of bhaoli lands. Now these Settlement Officers have power to commute rents under section 40 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, and under the provisions of Chapter IIA, they will proceed to prepare a valuation roll after determining the annual value of bhaoli lands, and most probably by local inspection of the produce or by making inquiries from the zamindars or from tenants as also from the neighbouring people. Then in that case the valuation roll should be given some evidentiary value. The Settlement Officers prepare a valuation roll to-day for the purpose of assessment of cess. To-morrow when they receive petitions under section 40 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, they ought not to disregard the valuation roll for the purpose of commutation of rent and proceed to determine another valuation roll. They ought not to be allowed to say that what I did was with reference to the assessment of cess, but to-day I am going to make another assessment for the purposes of commutation or rent.' Under section 40 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, this would not be the sole basis to go by, but under all the circumstances this would be the best piece of evidence because, under section 40, the Settlement officers or the Revenue-officers have got power to look to the annual value of the lands for the ten years preceding the period of the application, and the valuation roll prepared for the purpose of assessment, will be evidence at least for one year. Besides this will be very good data to proceed upon. If the tenant comes and says that he pays two rupees per bigha, but the valuation roll which is prepared for the purpose of assessment shows 20 rupees per bigha, I think that the statement would not at all be believed by the Settlement Officers, and similarly any such statement made by the zamindar will not be accepted. I never intended to contend that this valuation roll would be conclusive evidence, but when the Settlement Officer prepares a valuation roll after making full inquiry and after making a local inspection this should be taken as one of the best evidences to test the truth or otherwise of the allegations of the landlord and tenant. In these circumstances, I beg to submit that the insertion of this clause is essentially necessary in the interest of the landlord. Of course some of my learned friends are under the misapprehension that I intend to tie down the hands of the zamindars, but far from that idea, I simply submit that this valuation roll will receive some evidential value in all subsequent proceedings between landlords and tenants. Therefore, there need not be reasons for any apprehension arising in the minds of my hon'ble friends. With these remarks I beg to submit that the amendment proposed by me may be accepted by the Council."

The Hon'ble Mr. SLACKE said:—

"I am unable to advise the Council to accept this amendment. As it stands, the hon'ble mover proposes that the presumption he refers to shall attach to the whole valuation roll not merely with reference to bhaoli matters. The valuation roll is based on the entries made in the survey and record-of-rights with regard to which this very presumption holds. It is therefore needless to propose that a similar presumption should attatch to the valuation roll, as that is drawn from a document with regard to which the same presumption exists. If on the other hand the hon'ble member wishes to confine his amendment to bhaoli matters only, it is not worded with that view at all. I would suggest to the hon'ble member that this amendment may be withdrawn on the understanding that the matter is circulated amongst district officers and associations with a view to eliciting their opinions upon the hon'ble member's views. Without that it seems to me very dangerous to advise the Council to listen to his proposal."

The Motion was then, by leave of the President, withdrawn, on the understanding that a reference would be made to Commissioners of Divisions and Landholders' Associations as to the propriety of making the proposed amendment at some future time.

New clause 7-I.

The following Motions were taken together, namely:—

97. The Hon'ble Rai Shiba Shankar Sahai Bahadur moved that the following clause be inserted in the Bill, namely:—

Amendment of section 41.

7-I. After clause (2) of section 41 of the Cess Act, 1880, the following shall be inserted, namely:—

"Provided as follows:—

(a) the Collector, with the previous sanction of the Board of Revenue, may at any time declare, by order in writing, that any holder of a tenure shall pay the said amount direct to the Collector and not to the holder of the estate within which the land held by him is included;

(b) when any such order is made, the Collector may recover the said amount under the provisions of this Act, in the same manner and under the same penalties as if the same were payable by a holder of an estate; and the said amount shall be deducted from the amount payable by the holder of the estate under clause (l) of this section; and

(c) the Collector, with the sanction of the Board of Revenue, may at any time revoke any order made under proviso (a), after giving notice of such revocation both to the holder of the estate and to the holder of the tenure affected."

98. The Hon'ble Maulvi Saiyid Muhammad Fakr-ud-din to move that the following clause be inserted in the Bill, namely:—

7-I. After clause (2) of section 41 of the Cess Act, 1880, the following shall be inserted, namely:—

Amendment of section 41.

"Provided as follows:—

(a) the Collector, with the previous sanction of the Board of Revenue, may at any time declare, by order in writing, that any holder of a tenure shall pay the said amount direct to the Collector and not to the holder of the estate within which the land held by him is included;

(b) when any such order is made, the Collector may recover the said amount under the provisions of this Act, in the same manner and under the same penalties as if the same were payable by a holder of an estate; and the said amount shall be deducted from the amount payable by the holder of the estate under clause (l) of this section; and

(c) the Collector, with the sanction of the Board of Revenue, may at any time revoke any order made under proviso (a), after giving notice of such revocation both to the holder of the estate and to the holder of the tenure affected."

The Hon'ble RAI SHIBA SHANKAR SAHAI BAHADUR said:—

"I would refer the hon'ble members to Papers No. 5, which is a report from the Commissioner of the Tirhut Division, in which he has referred to some previous correspondence between the Collector of Patna and the Hon'ble Board of Revenue, ending in a promise made by the Board of Revenue to consider the matter of the amendment of section 41 when the Act was being amended.

"The whole scope of the Cess Act fixes the liability of the different holders of the different interests in the land separately. The Collector fixes the amount separately which the zamindar, tenure-holder and raiyat has to pay. But as a convenient and less expensive mode of realization, section 41 of the Act provides that instead of realizing the cess from the zamindar, tenure-holder and raiyats separately, the zamindar has to pay all cess due from all persons holding lands comprised in his estate, to the Collector, and he will realize from his tenants such portion of the cess for which they are liable under the Act.

"The Council is aware, and it is now an established law, that the demand for cess is not a charge on the estate, but is considered to be a personal debt of the zamindar.

"All cess payable by the zamindar, therefore, even though payable by his tenure-holder, is the personal debt of the zamindar and can only be recovered as such, and the estate for which the cess is payable is not liable. In other words, if you sell the estate for recovery of cess, you sell it subject to all encumbrances and sell only the rights, title and interest of the zamindar.

"The rigid provision of section 41 that the cess due from the tenure-holder can only be recovered from the zamindar, coupled with the law that only the right, title and interest of the zamindar can be sold, has produced a state of affairs not anticipated by the framers of the Act.

"Some zamindars fraudulently and some by sheer necessity have given mokurari leases of their estates on a nominal rental either benamee or bonâ fide on taking large bonus. In such cases by the arrangement between the zamindars and the mukuraridars the revenue and cess is payable by the mukuraridars.

"The mukuraridars pay the revenue, as by its non-payment the estate can be sold free of all encumbrance and with the estate the mukurari right also passes.

"They do not, however, pay the cess, as by not doing so they do not incur any penalty or loss. The worst that can happen to them is that the Collector may sell the estate subject to his mukurari rights. The Collector cannot realize the cess by the sale of the zamindar's estate, which in such cases is almost valueless and cannot fetch a proper price.

"If the Collector had power to realize the cess payable by the tenure-holder direct from him this difficulty would have disappeared.

"It is true that the Collector can proceed under section 99 of the Act and recover the arrears, but the objection to such a procedure is twofold: first, it is a cumbrous procedure, and, secondly, it causes hardship to the raiyats of the estate. The Collector has under this section power to realize rent not only due to the tenure-holder, who is at fault, but from his tenants who are innocent, leaving them to bring suits and recover it from their superior landlords.

"It is therefore necessary to relax the rigid rule laid down in section 41 that the cess primarily due from tenure-holders can be realized from the zamindar and the zamindar alone.

"I am sorry that the Hon'ble Maharajadhiraja Bahadur of Burdwan thinks that this amendment may affect the zamindars, but I do not think that there is any foundation for his apprehension, because from the zamindar's point of view this would be an improvement in the law. In those cases in which the profits of the landlord as compared with the cess the tenure-holder has to pay, is very small—sometimes I know the cess is four times as much as the rent he receives—it will be a relief to the zamindar if the cess is realized directly from the tenure-holder.

"The amendment gives power to the Collector, with the previous sanction of the Board, to make exception in some cases, so that instead of realizing the cess from the zamindar he can realize from the tenure-holder. The provision that this exception can be made only with the previous sanction of the Board is a guarantee that no misuse of the power can be made. We have further provided that in case the order has been passed and exception made if has subsequently not proved satisfactory the Collector can revert to the old state of things with the sanction of the Board.

"There is no intention to make any large use of this power, but its object is only to relax the rigidity of section 41 and make exception in such cases only where it is absolutely necessary to prevent hardship, or where there is an attempt to defraud the Collector or put difficulty in his way to recover the cess due."

The Hon'ble MR. SLACKE said:—

"I admit, Sir, that the adoption of this amendment would benefit certain zamindars in Bihar and would also assist the Collector of Patna, but the amendment as it is drafted is not confined to Bihar only; it extends to the whole province, and I have reason to believe that certain zamindars who hold estates outside Bihar have reason to fear that the adoption of this amendment would be prejudicial to their own interests, and I cannot satisfy myself that their fears have not some substratum of fact. The matter has not been considered by Landholders' Associations nor Collectors generally, but I would suggest to the Hon'ble mover of these amendments that they should withdraw them on the same understanding as that which was given to the Hon'ble mover of item No. 96, namely that this matter should be brought to the notice of Associations and Collectors and their opinions taken as to the practicability of the proposal."

The Motions were then, by leave of the President, withdrawn on the understanding that a reference would be made to Commissioners of Divisions and Landholders' Association as to the propriety of making the proposed Amendments at some future time.

Clause 9:—

section 72A (1).

The following Motions were, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

99. The Hon'ble Maulvi Saiyid Muhammad Fakr-ud-din to move that the word "five" be substituted for the word "fifty" in line 9 of section 72A (1) in clause 9 of the Bill.

100. The Hon'ble Maulvi Saiyid Muhammad Fakr-ud-din to move that the following proviso be added to section 72A (1) in clause 9 of the Bill, namely:—

"Provided that the fine shall in no case exceed fifty rupees."

101. The Hon'ble Maulvi Saiyid Muhammad Fakr-ud-din to move that for the words "and the fact of an appeal against such fine being pending shall not avail to prevent the levy of any such fine pending the disposal of appeal, unless the Commissioner otherwise directs," in section 72A (2) in clause 9 of the Bill, the following be substituted, namely:—

unless an appeal against such fine is pending, in which case the Collector shall not levy the fine.

Clause 12.

The following Motion was, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

102. The Hon'ble Mr. Das to move that the following be added at the end of clause 12 of the Bill, namely:—

To the same section the following shall be added, namely:—

"Provided that, when a valuation has been made by the Collector under section 22, the appellant may show in such appeal that the ways and means adopted by the Collector for ascertaining and fixing the valuation were not proper and reasonable."

The Hon'ble Mr. Slacke moved that the Secretary be directed to re-number the clauses and sub-clauses of the Bill in consecutive order, and to make corresponding alterations in all cross-references thereto.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. SLACKE moved that the Bill, as settled in Council, be passed.

The Hon'ble SIR BIJAY CHAND MAHTAB, Maharajadhiraja Bahadur of Burdwan said:—

"Your Honour,—Before the Bill is passed, I wish to make a few observations. First of all, I wish to thank the Hon'ble Mr. Slacke for the courtesy shownlto us in the Select Committee of which body I was a member, and also for the consideration that he has shown by inserting clause 7A. This clause is new, it gives statutory effect to a circular of the Board of Revenue directing that half of the assessment payable to the panchayat under Part II of the Village-Chaukidari Act, 1870, shall be deducted from the assessment made under the Cess Act of 1880 on lands transferred to the zamindars under that Part. Certain difficulties had been felt as there was no proper direction on this point, and I am certain that this insertion will be of the greatest help to the zamindar. Then again, by the insertion of clause 8C, another great difficulty will be removed. This clause is also new. It was inserted because it was represented that holders of an estate or tenure were often unable to give a specification of rent-free lands, and it seemed sufficient to require them to make a statement of quantity or description as entered in the Collector's valuation roll. Now, Sir, there remains one other matter that was menticned by the British Indian Association in connection with the question of keeping separate accounts for cesses payable by co-sharers. This does not affect me personally, but there is no doubt about the fact that co-sharer landlords have great difficulties under the present arrangement. We have, however, been kindly permitted by the Hon'ble Mr. Slacke to bring this matter to the notice of the Government hereafter through the Association in the same way as two matters that my hon'ble friends Maulvi Saiyid Muhammad Fakr-ud-din and Rai Shiba Shankar Sahai Bahadur will bring to the notice of the Government, the amendments of which have been withdrawn to-day on that understanding. I am sorry, I could not give my support, for various reasons, to the amendment that has just been withdrawn and which was proposed by the Hon'ble Rai Shiba Shankar Sahai Bahadur. I am all the more sorry as the Hon'ble Rai Bahadur with his valuable experience of large zamindari management was a great help to us in the Select Committee. But there are certain defects in the amendments which may not appear as defects on the surface, and that is the reason why I have had to withhold my support, as difficulties might have arisen, if the amendments had been accepted in their present form. Moreover, Sir, I think that when an amendment is brought forward which does not affect the whole province, there is no reason to legislate such a measure, as in the present case only one Collector has brought to our notice the inconveniences felt by the cumbrous procedure of section 99. I thank Mr. Slacke for having given us time to consider the matter and also for consenting to refer it to all Commissioners and Collectors in the Province for opinion. With these few words, Sir, I beg to support the Bill as amended in the Select Committee."

The PRESIDENT said:—

"The Council is now adjourned sine die. I take this opportunity of thanking all the Hon'ble Members for their attendance and the valuable assistance which they have given to us, and I trust that they will enjoy the holiday which they are going to have for the next three months."

The Council was then adjourned sine die.

FORECAST OF THE RABI CROPS OF BENGAL, 1909-10.

THE following note is published for general information :—

C. G. H. ALLEN,
Offg. Chief Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

The 11th April 1910.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

FORECAST OF THE rabi CROPS OF BENGAL, 1909-10.

[On an average of the five years ending 1907-08, the area under summer rice which is included in this forecast in the territory to which it relates represents about 0·2 per cent. of the total area under rice in British India].

Explanatory.—The crops dealt with in this forecast are the spring crops, such as summer rice, barley, gram, tobacco, poppy and other food and non-food crops which are harvested between February and April. In these food and non-food crops are included rahar, kalai, mung, peas, lentils, khesari, kulthi, buck-wheat, cheena, potatoes, yams, melons, chillies and other spices as well as oats and rabi vegetables.

Bihar is the chief rabi growing tract, but rabi crops are important also in Burdwan, Midnapore, Cuttack, Palamau, Singhbhum and in all the districts of the Presidency Division excepting the 24-Parganas.

Character of the season.—In September and October rainfall was general though defective in most districts and there was sufficient moisture in the soil for sowings which began at the normal time. The heavy rain which accompanied the cyclone of October did damage to the early sown rabi crops in parts of the Presidency Division. In December and January the rainfall was general and beneficial to the crops. In February it was short of the normal in most districts, but the prospects of the crops continued favourable. In parts of Ranchi, however, certain rabi crops were reported to be suffering for want of moisture and in parts of Gaya and Monghyr they were damaged by hail. On the whole the season has been favourable this year for these crops.

Area sown.—The normal area under the different rabi crops in the Province dealt with in the forecast is now estimated at 7,894,100 acres. The area actually sown this year is reported to be 6,563,000 acres against 5,866,700 acres of last year. The increase in the area sown is mainly due to the favourable season.

Outturn—The estimated percentage outturn in the twenty districts where the crop is most important is as follows:—Muzaffarpur 103; Burdwan, Champaran and Darbhanga 100; Gaya 99; Singbhum 95; Khulna 94; Monghyr 93; Purnea 88; Shahabad and Palamau 87; Bhagalpur 86; Patna 82; the Sonthal Parganas 80; Jessore 79; Saran and Midnapore 77; Cuttack 75; Nadia 72 and Murshidabad 55.

According to the District Officers' estimates the outturn of the different rabi crops for the Province as a whole works out to 90 per cent. of a normal against 70 per cent. estimated last year.

Accepting 90 per cent. as the outturn of the summer rice crop, I estimate the gross yield of the crop in this Province at 998,400 cwts. against 805,200 cwts. last year.

CALCUTTA,
The 31st March 1909.

W. H. BUCHAN,
Offg. Director of Agriculture, Bengal.

The mean pressure, temperature, etc., are deduced from eye observations.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground. The rainfall reported on any day is for 24 hours preceding 8 A.M. of that day.

The examination will be ipso facto vitiated, if it be not held (begun and completed) on the dates fixed; but the officer who will conduct, the examination may make his own arrangements, in regard to the place and hour of examination, with the candidates.

Candidates will not be examined in any of the Calcutta offices.

A candidate already in permanent Government employ* may be allowed to compete in the examination, even if he is more than 25 years of age, and may be appointed to an accountantship if he passes it; but if he is not already in pensionable service, he will be eligible only for appointment to the non-pensionable establishment on State Railways.

It will rest with the Examiner of Accounts, to whom the candidate submits his application, to decide, on a consideration of the certificates submitted, whether the candidate should be allowed to appear for the examination, or whether his application should be rejected. The Examiner of Accounts will then forward to the Principal for registration the names of the accepted candidates together with their registration statements which should be signed by the Examiner. The registration statements should be carefully preserved by the Principal. The names of these candidates should be entered in a statement showing their ages and their addresses, and also showing where each candidate is to be examined, whether at the College or at the office of the Examiner of Accounts. This statement, together with the fees, should be transmitted to the Principal not later than 15 days after the dates fixed in paragraph 2 for the submission of applications of candidates.

EDUCATION DEPARTMENT, BENGAL.

EDUCATIONAL NOTICE.

In supersession of the Notice published in Part IC of the Calcutta Gazettes of 23rd and 30th March and of 6th and 13th April 1910.

WITH reference to Government Notification No. 4305, dated 23rd November 1909, in which detailed information was published as to the text-books required in accordance with the new syllabuses for Standards III to VI, writers of arithmetic books are requested to be good enough to provide a table in the beginning of their books giving the vernacular equivalents of the English numerals:—

0, 1, 2, etc., 9.

2. The provision of such a table is rendered necessary in consideration of the possibility that the employment of English figures prescribed in the main arithmetic syllabus which will be applicable to all classes of schools,—high, middle and upper primary—might otherwise constitute a difficulty in purely vernacular schools.

3. In this connexion it may be pointed out that while the use of English figures is prescribed in the main syllabus the vernacular notation will be used in the additional Subhankari syllabus to be taught in middle vernacular and upper primary schools.

REPORT ON THE BRUCE INSTITUTION FOR THE YEAR 1909.

NOTIFICATION.

No. 1998.— The 15th April 1910.—The following is published for general information.

W. R. GOURLAY,
Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

Report on the Bruce Institution for the year 1909.

I. Control.—(1) During the year under review the Hon'ble Mr. G. W. Küchler, Director of Public Instruction and ex-officio Governor and Honorary Secretary, Bruce Institution, was absent from India for about nine months, during which period Mr. H. R. James acted for him.

(2) The Ven'ble Archdeacon Luckman was absent from India since November last.

(3) The following gentlemen were appointed to be Governors :—

(a) The Hon'ble Mr. Justice Harington vice the Hon'ble Mr. Justice Brett, resigned.

(b) Mr. A. M. Monteath, vice Sir Daniel Hamilton, Kt., resigned.

(c) Mr. A. Caspersz (Barrister-at-Law), vice Mr. E Upton (Barrister-at-Law), whose term of office had expired.

(d) The Revd. Father A. Van de Mergel, whose term of office had expired, was re-appointed.

(4) The following is a list of Governors holding office at the end of the year :—

The Hon'ble the Chief Justice of Bengal,	Ex-officio.
The Most Revd. the Lord Bishop of Calcutta,
The Chairman of the Calcutta Municipality,
The Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals, Bengal,
The Director of Public Instruction (Honorary Secretary),
The Hon'ble Mr. Justice Harington,
The Ven'ble Archdeacon Luckman,
The Revd. Father A. Van de Mergel, S.J.
The Revd. D. H. Manley.
A. Caspersz, Esq. (Barrister at Law).
A. M. Monteath, Esq.
N. L. Hallward, Esq.

II. Capital and Income.—The capital of the Institution stood, as in the previous year at Rs. 10,51,200, of which Rs. 10,46,200 are in the form of a 3½ per cent. stock certificate of the year 1865. The balance, viz., Rs 5,000, is invested in 3½ per cent. Government Securities. The annual interest on the capital amounts to Rs. 36,792. The year opened with a balance of Rs. 925-8-10 and closed with a balance of Rs. 18,495-7. The reason why the opening balance was unusually small is that the second half-yearly interest of Rs. 18,396 for the year 1908, which is generally received in December, was not received till January 1909.

III. Election to vacancies, etc.—(1) The annual election of foundationers was held on the 1st February. For the eleven vacancies advertised, sixty-seven applications were received, but two vacancies having subsequently occurred, thirteen girls were elected on the recommendation of a sub-committee consisting of the Ven'ble Archdeacon Luckman, the Revd. Father A. Van de Mergel, the Revd. D. H. Manley and Mr. N. L. Hallward. Of the girls elected, eight were sent to the Loreto Convent, Entally (five in the orphanage and three in the boarding school), two in the Calcutta Girls' High School, two in St. Paul's Mission Home, and one in the Pratt Memorial School.

(2) Of the nineteen girls who were withdrawn during the year, fifteen had attained the age of 17 years, the limit ordinarily allowed under the rules; two were withdrawn before they had attained that age, and two were removed by the Governors for being absent for some months without permission; and one girl died.

(3) Of the girls who were withdrawn during the year 1908, and in respect of whom reports have been received during the year under review, one girl passed the Entrance Examination of the Calcutta University and intends becoming a teacher; one girl was admitted into the Welcome Home and one into the Young Women's Christian Association; and both are being trained in shorthand and type-writing. Another girl, after being withdrawn from the Bruce Fund, joined the Technical Department of the School where she was being educated and is learning shorthand, type-writing and needlework; and one girl is reported to be assisting her mother in needlework which is disposed of by private sale. Two girls who had defective eye sight were provided with spectacles from the Bruce Fund.

At the close of the year there were 131 girls on the foundation, against 142 in the preceding year. They were distributed as follows:—

Loreto Convent, Entally—
Boarding School	30	61
Orphanage	31
Calcutta Girls' High School		38
Pratt Memorial School		14
St. Paul's Mission Home		8
La Martinière for Girls		6
Calcutta Free School		2
Old Church Parochial Home		2
Total ...		131

(4) The following table affords particulars as to the class and religion of the girls on the foundation at the close of the year:—

Class.	Roman Catholics.	Church of England.	Non-Conformists	Total.
1. Orphans, or deserted by parents ...	18	12	12	42
2. Fatherless, or deserted by their fathers, or whose fathers were incapable.	41	21	16	78
Total	61	34	36	131

IV. Education and maintenance.—(1) The nature of the education imparted to the girls on the foundation is generally that prescribed for Primary and Middle Schools for Europeans. In exceptional cases a higher education is given

Parents and guardians are generally given the choice of any school for the education and maintenance of their children and wards, provided that such a school has been approved by Government as suitable for girls on the Bruce Foundation. A sum of Rs. 21-8 or Rs. 16 a month is paid for the education and maintenance of each foundationer in a boarding school or an orphanage, as the case may be. A sum of Rs. 40 or Rs 25 is also allowed for each foundationer for an outfit on joining a boarding school or an orphanage, as the case may be. Under the rules a girl is not ordinarily allowed to remain on the fund after she has attained the age of 17 years, when an outfit grant Rs. 50 is generally given to enable her to make a start in life. If, however, a girl elects to take up teaching as a profession, an extension is generally allowed. One such extension was granted during the year. Short extensions not exceeding a few months are also allowed to enable foundationers to appear at the examinations prescribed under the Code of Regulations for European Schools, or the Cambridge Local Examinations or to finish their course in shorthand and type writing, if they are being taught those subjects in school. Four such extensions were granted during the year.

(2) The monthly average cost of the education and maintenance of each girl on the fund amounted to Rs 19-12-7, against Rs. 19-3-9 in the preceding year.

(3) The total amount paid under the different heads of expenditure was—

V. Inspection.—The Revd. Father A. Van de Mergel, S.J., was appointed Visiting Governor for the first half, and Mr. A. Caspersz for the second half, of the year. Their reports on the whole were satisfactory. Mr. Caspersz was of opinion that girls on the Bruce Foundation should be taught practical household work while in school, in addition to their ordinary studies.

VI. Meetings of Governors.—Six meetings were held during the year, and among the various resolutions passed the following may be noted:—

"That the Governors agree with Mr. Caspersz that the practical side of a girl's training should be carefully kept in view so as to fulfil the object laid down in rule 30 of Bruce Institution, and that Father Van de Mergel be asked to make further enquiries, in his capacity as Visiting Governor, as to the means by which practical effect can be given to this resolution. The Governors are also of opinion that the necessity for practical work on the part of the girls should be impressed on parents and guardians at the time of admission of the foundationers."

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL AND IN EASTERN BENGAL AND ASSAM FOR THE MONTH OF DECEMBER 1909.

THE weather during the first few days was dominated by a storm, which formed in the south-east of the Bay at the end of the month. This disturbance was of considerable severity and its course was a most unusual one. It moved initially towards the North Madras coast in a westerly or north-westerly direction and then suddenly curving to the north moved parallel to the North Madras, Orissa and Bengal coasts, finally breaking up on the 6th in the Chittagong hills. Rain fell under the influence of the storm in Orissa, Bengal Proper and the south of Eastern Bengal, the principal amounts recorded being False Point 4·89 inches, Cuttack 2·16, Chittagong 3·72 and Barisal 1·88 inches. During the week ending on the 16th there was no rain, while skies were clear or lightly clouded and temperature agreed with the normal. During the week ending on the 22nd weather was disturbed in the central parts of India and the disturbed conditions gave rain in parts of Chota Nagpur from the 18th to the 20th and in West Orissa on the 18th. Skies were cloudy during this period, especially in Bengal. Night temperatures were in excess during the greater part of the week in Bengal and day temperatures were normal throughout the whole area. During the last eight days of the month weather was affected slightly by a disturbance originating in Gujerat and light falls of rain were reported from Sambalpur, Hazaribagh, Jalpaiguri and Mymensingh. As the disturbance approached North-East India cloud extended eastward and skies were completely overcast, except in the eastern districts. Cloud then diminished, and by the 28th skies were clear. Minimum temperature was normal, but the maximum was in defect over the greater part of the area on the 26th and was normal for the remainder of the month

Summary of temperature.—Mean temperature was in excess everywhere. The highest temperature recorded was 87° at Narayanganj and the lowest 42°·5 at Daltonganj.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the Provinces of Eastern Bengal and Assam and of Bengal for the month of December 1909:—

Summary of rainfall.—The rainfall work of the area under report has been handed over to the Director of Agriculture. A short table, however, is attached to this report, giving actual and normal rainfall recorded at the principal stations of each district.

Rainfall was in excess over the whole reporting area, except in the western districts of Bihar, where it was in slight defect.

The mean pressure, temperature, etc., are deduced from eye observations.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground. The rainfall reported on any day is for 24 hours preceding 8 A.M. of that day.

DRAFT

RULES FOR REGULATING THE USE OF MOTOR CABS IN THE TOWN AND SUBURBS OF CALCUTTA AND THE TOWN OF HOWRAH.

In exercise of the powers conferred by section 3 of the Bengal Motor Car and Cycle Act, 1903 (Bengal Act III of 1903), and in addition to the Rules issued under Notification No. 1180J.D., dated the 22nd June 1908, hereinafter called the Motor Car Rules, 1908, the Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to make the following Rules for regulating the use of motor cabs in the Town and Suburbs of Calcutta and the town of Howrah :—

(1) These rules may be called the Motor Cab Rules, 1910, and shall be read as Part IV of the Motor Car Rules, 1908.

(2) For the purpose of these rules a motor cab means a light motor car as defined in the Motor Car Rules, 1908, used for the purpose of standing or plying for hire in any street or public place.

(3) On the registration of a motor car as a motor cab, a certificate of registration shall be granted by the Commissioner of Police in the form given in Schedule I to these Rules.

(4) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in sub-clause (3) of Rule 2 in Part II of the Motor Car Rules, 1908, the fee payable for the registration of a motor car intended for use as a motor cab shall be Rs. 32, and no fee shall be charged for the registration of other motor cabs of the same type belonging to the same owner, provided the owner certifies in writing to the Commissioner of Police that such motor cabs are his property and conform in every respect to the type of the motor cab already registered.

(5) A license to drive a motor cab shall be in the form given in Schedule II to these rules, and the rules therein contained shall be read as a part of these rules.

(6) An applicant for a driver's license under these rules shall, before receiving such license, satisfy the Commissioner of Police that he is acquainted with the principal places and streets in and around Calcutta and Howrah, that he has a thorough knowledge of the prescribed rates for hire, and that he is in all respects a fit person to be the driver of a motor cab.

(7) The license of a driver may be cancelled or suspended or otherwise dealt with by the Commissioner of Police for any breach of these rules.

(8) No motor car shall be used as a motor cab unless fitted with a taximeter or approved mechanical device to which the seal of the Commissioner of Police has been affixed for automatically and visibly registering on each occasion the fare to be charged according to the rates for distance or time or a combination of distance and time.

Every taximeter shall be fitted with an indicator or handle in the form of a flag on which shall be printed the words " for hire". The taximeter shall be so constructed that when the indicator is vertical the taximeter shall be out of action. Such indicator shall be so placed as to be clearly visible to any person outside of and in front of the vehicle, and to the hirer when inside.

The vertical position indicates that the vehicle is available for hire, and no driver shall without reasonable excuse refuse to accept a fare when the indicator is in the vertical position.

Any owner, driver, attendant or other person who shall break or tamper in any way with the seal or mark placed on the taximeter, or who shall, with intent to deceive, tamper with the taximeter or the driving mechanism thereof, shall be deemed to have committed a breach of this rule.

(9) In every motor cab there shall be available for the inspection of customers a list of rates, and the fare charged for the hire of the motor shall not exceed the maximum fare calculated according to the scale of the rates set forth in the list as may be applicable.

(10) The driver of every motor cab shall, as soon as he is hired and no sooner, set the taximeter in motion, and upon the termination of the hiring shall immediately stop the same. If he neglect or fail to do so, he shall be deemed to have committed a breach of this rule. But if a motor cab is called from a garage or a stand to take up a passenger at any place less than 500 yards from the garage or stand, the taximeter shall not be set in motion until the motor cab shall arrive at such place and be ready to take up the passenger. Provided that in the event of a motor cab whilst hired being unable to proceed from any mechanical derangement or tyre failure, either temporarily or otherwise, the driver shall at once stop the mechanism of the taximeter as against the hirer and shall not restart the same until such time as the defect is remedied.

(11) A driver of a motor cab shall, in the absence of reasonable cause to the contrary, proceed to the destination named by the hirer by the shortest and quickest route.

(12) The brakes shall, as far as possible, be so affixed as to be capable of easy adjustment. At least one brake shall be so made as to be applied by the foot of the driver, and at least one shall act directly upon the road wheels.

(13) All brake and steering connections secured with bolts shall have such bolts secured with nuts, the same to be locked or pinned.

(14) Every precaution shall be taken by the owner to see that all parts of the mechanism of the car are periodically inspected and kept in proper working order and a register shall be kept of such inspections in a convenient form giving the particulars shown in Schedule III to these Rules. This register shall be open at any reasonable time to the inspection of the Commissioner of Police or any person duly authorised by him in that behalf Any failure to maintain this register or to produce it when called for by lawful authority, shall be deemed to be a breach of this rule.

(15) No oil shall be allowed to drop upon the roadway, and where a tray or undershield is fixed below the mechanism of the car for the purpose of preventing this or for any other purpose, such tray or undershield shall be so placed or constructed that no petrol from the tank, supply pipe, or carburettor can collect therein.

(16) Tanks for petrol must be so placed that any overflow shall not fall on to nor soak into cushions, upholstery or floor mats in or about the body, but the filling nozzle shall be brought to some point outside the body. No petrol shall be poured into the tank whilst the engine is running or whilst any lamp is burning in or on any portion of the car.

(17) Every motor cab shall have at least one driving wheel fitted with an approved means of preventing or limiting side slip and shall carry at least one spare inflated tyre and rim or other approved device which can, if necessary, be quickly fitted to any wheel.

(18) Every motor cab shall be provided with a means of communication between passenger and driver.

(19) Where acetylene or other gas is used to light the carriage, the cylinders or vessels which contain the gas or in which it is generated, must be fixed outside in such a position as to minimize the danger of accidental ignition.

(20) No printed or written matter other than the sanctioned rates for hire or these rules shall appear on the inside or outside of a motor cab or be carried by way of advertisement.

(21) The doors, windows, seats, roof, springs, wheels, cushions, linings, panels, etc., and all furniture and appointment of a motor cab shall be in proper order and repair, the paint and varnish in good condition and the inside perfectly clean. The floor shall be covered with a mat of rubber, coir or other suitable material.

(22) The Commissioner of Police may prohibit the use of a motor cab which is in his opinion unfit to ply for hire, until such time as the defects are remedied to his satisfaction.
